FTC Heads Face Senate Scrutiny Over Data Security Approach

The heads of the Federal Trade Commission on Tuesday defended their recent decision to continue to press data security claims in a case where no consumers suffered financial harm, although they did push U.S. Senate lawmakers for additional powers to close gaps in their ability to regulate privacy issues.

Facebook Can't Collect WhatsApp Data: German Regulator

A German data protection regulator on Tuesday ordered Facebook to stop using and immediately destroy any data on German users that it had obtained from its subsidiary WhatsApp, saying that the new data-sharing arrangement flies in the face of the duo's earlier promises to keep the information separate.

2nd Circ. Won't Take NYC GPS Taxi Ruling For Another Ride

The Second Circuit on Monday refused to reconsider its recent ruling that a cab driver couldn't assert a Fourth Amendment challenge to New York City's mandate that all taxicabs be equipped with GPS tracking devices because he didn't have a protectable privacy or property interest in any particular cab.

Ohio School Ordered To Let Trans Student Use Girls' Room

An Ohio school district can't use the federal court system to block guidance from the Justice and Education Departments over how to treat transgender students before it has been enforced, nor can it ban a transgender student from using the girls' bathroom, an Ohio federal judge ruled Monday.

Canadian Regulators Target Cybersecurity Disclosures

Canadian securities regulators plan to increase scrutiny of public companies' cybersecurity disclosures, saying Tuesday that threats have grown significantly since the body first provided guidance in 2013, but many issuers continue to release boilerplate or skimpy disclosures.

Commerce Secretary Wants To Talk About Cyber Threats

U.S. Secretary of Commerce Penny Pritzker wants business and government to talk more candidly about cybersecurity threats by making it easier for companies and institutions to acknowledge emerging cyber attacks without being reprimanded, the commerce secretary said on Tuesday.

CBP Boss Pledges Vigilant Trade Enforcement To Lawmakers

U.S. Customs and Border Protection Commissioner Gil Kerlikowske on Tuesday told a congressional panel about the steps his agency has taken to implement a sweeping new trade enforcement bill that aims to facilitate legitimate commerce and weed out unfair imports and counterfeit items.

WTO Forecast Shows Further Slowdown In Trade Growth

Overall global trade will grow by just 1.7 percent, which would mark the slowest growth rate since the nadir of the global financial crisis in 2009, according to World Trade Organization figures released Tuesday.

TAX

IRS Tackles 'Unnecessary' QTIP Elections

The IRS offered further relief Tuesday to widows and widowers when it released a new revenue procedure that nullifies estate tax deferrals that are unnecessary for reducing an estate tax to zero, treating as void an irrevocable decision with potentially adverse tax consequences.

IRS Floats Guidance On Qualification Requirements For RICs

The IRS released guidance Tuesday related to income test and asset diversification requirements that are used to determine whether a corporation may qualify as a regulated investment company for federal income tax purposes.

Abusive IRS Asset Seizures Targeted In Senate Bill

Two U.S. senators have proposed to reform the IRS' controversial civil asset forfeiture program by requiring the tax agency to obtain probable cause before seizing money from those suspected of illegal activity, citing reports that innocent parties were often targeted and struggled to recover their legitimate earnings.

IMMIGRATION

DC Circ. Grants Injunction In Voter ID Requirement Dispute

The D.C. Circuit issued a split opinion Monday fleshing out an earlier decision that a U.S. elections agency must remove a proof-of-citizenship requirement from a mail-in federal voter registration form used for November's election in Alabama, Georgia and Kansas, with voting-rights organizations calling it a "victory for our democracy."

Dems Slam Private Immigrant Detention Centers Amid Review

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Google Presses For Internet Handover Amid GOP Backlash

Google Inc. stepped up its support Monday for transitioning U.S. stewardship of the internet's domain name system to a global community of stakeholders, saying the change will prevent governments from taking the lead in determining the online future, despite Republican warnings that foreign states would be empowered to limit internet freedom.

NY Sen. Backs Alert System Upgrades Following Bombings

Sen. Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y., voiced his support Sunday for upgrading the Wireless Emergency Alert system to allow for longer messages, better location accuracy and the ability to include photos, changes pushed in the wake of last week's bombings in New York City and New Jersey.

Business Data Rate Regs Will Hurt Workers, Union Tells FCC

The Communications Workers of America has told the Federal Communications Commission that any new regulatory scheme for the special access services market that imposes a “drastic” rate cut could hurt workers’ jobs and standards of living, according to a filing posted Tuesday.

FCC Commish Seeks Probe On Wi-Fi At Monday’s Debate

Federal Communications Commissioner Jessica Rosenworcel tweeted Tuesday that she has asked the Enforcement Bureau to investigate the “Wi-Fi situation” at Hofstra University during the presidential debate Monday night, citing past FCC action for Wi-Fi blocking amid reports that the school forced reporters onto its network at a price of $200.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

EPA Signals Intent To Exercise TSCA Section 6 Authority

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is poised to begin exercising its expanded regulatory authority over the makers and users of chemical substances pursuant to recent amendments to the Toxic Substances Control Act. In addition to other proposals, the EPA may soon publish proposed rules regulating uses of specific chemical substances under Section 6 of the TSCA, says Lawrence Culleen of Arnold & Porter LLP.

Small-Breach Focus Shows Growing Scope Of HIPAA Probes

Flexing more enforcement muscle, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services recently announced it will more widely investigate breaches of protected health information affecting fewer than 500 individuals. As a result, health care providers and other covered entities and their business associates should expect an uptick in the volume of enforcement actions triggered by small-scale breaches, say attorneys with Ropes & Gray LLP.

Why Have Lawyers Forgotten About The Middle Class?

Sorry, fellow lawyers, judges and legislators, but the jig is up. It’s time to show the public the cards up our sleeves and give them a chance to weigh in on the fairness of a system that touches so many aspects of their everyday lives, says Chas Rampenthal, general counsel of LegalZoom.

LEGAL INDUSTRY

Kirkland, Facebook Send Top Guns To Appease Judge

Justice Delayed: Terrorism Victims Fight For Redress

The suicide bombings at a Jerusalem mall by Hamas militants left Gregg Salzman with permanent nerve damage, a perforated eardrum and burns across his body. The New Jersey chiropractor still suffers constant pain and debilitating headaches, 19 years after the terrorist attack. But the physical injuries were only the start of his troubles.

Salzman counts himself among a growing number of terrorism victims who, in their fight for compensation, find themselves caught in the middle of a power struggle that starts with government players jostling for control and ends pitting victim against victim in courtrooms and administrative offices across the US.

TOP NEWS

CFPB Pushes Bounds On Using Enforcement As Guidance

Bankers and others in the industry have said the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's use of enforcement actions to influence market practices is unprecedented and potentially unfair, but the bureau's tactic is an aggressive extension of the way other regulators use enforcement actions.

DOJ Official Says Yates Memo Ups Civil Antitrust Scrutiny

A senior U.S. Department of Justice antitrust official said Friday that a sharpened focus on individual culpability outlined in the so-called Yates Memo is being taken "very seriously" not only in criminal antitrust cases, but also related civil enforcement matters that may implicate individual behavior.

Sen. Hatch Heckled Over High Court Vacancy Fight

Ill feeling regarding the Senate battle over the vacancy left by the recent unexpected death of U.S. Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia spilled over into a book signing on Friday, with Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, getting heckled by protestors urging him to "do your job."

CFTC Commish Kills Report That Sen. Warren Slammed

Sen. Elizabeth Warren and a pro-regulation advocacy group scored an upset victory Friday, when a top U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission official withdrew a controversial report recommending the agency drop its plans to impose new position limits on futures contracts, amid outcries the report was secretly drafted by the rules' opponents.

Flint Crisis Shows Need To Strengthen EPA Water Rule

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's regulation of lead in drinking water has come under heavy fire following the crisis in Flint, Michigan, and experts say preventing a similar catastrophe depends on revamping a weak set of EPA water regulations designed to protect the public from lead and copper contamination.

FCC Broadband Privacy Rules Set ISPs Apart On Liability

The Federal Communications Commission on Thursday rolled out a proposed set of privacy and data security rules for Internet service providers that go well beyond requirements found in other industries, exposing broadband providers to increased regulatory and legal exposure and fueling concerns about the commission's ability to effectively regulate privacy issues.

5 Challenges Facing The Maritime Industry

As the maritime shipping industry contends with overcapacity, dips in freight rates and slow economic growth, all eyes are on a bevy of new regulations and developments that will increase the business challenges for importers, exporters, freight carriers and port operators. Here are five challenges facing the industry.

Four Winning Bid Protest Arguments At The GAO

The Government Accountability Office hears thousands of bid protests each year that make a wide variety of arguments pushing back on agency decisions and fighting for a finite amount of federal dollars and contracts, but not all of those arguments are created equal. Here, government contracts attorneys discuss four of the arguments that are the most palatable in GAO bid protests, when supported by the facts.

ENERGY & ENVIRONMENTAL

Sen. Says EPA Flouting High Court Stay On Clean Power Plan

Sen. Jim Inhofe, R-Okla., has accused the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency of moving forward with the Obama administration's signature climate change mandate that existing power plants slash carbon emissions despite the U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision halting its implementation.

10th Circ. Won't Stall Appeal In BLM Fracking Rule Dispute

The Tenth Circuit has refused to pause the Bureau of Land Management and environmentalists' challenge to a preliminary injunction that blocked the agency's rule requiring permits for hydraulic fracturing on federal and tribal land.

Enviro Groups Want In On Texas-Okla. Haze Rule Fight

Environmental groups have asked the Fifth Circuit to intervene in litigation challenging the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's regional haze plan for Texas and Oklahoma, saying the petitions brought by Texas and various utilities threaten critical improvements in air pollution.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Paris Climate Accord Implementation: United States

There is evidence that the U.S., whether via federal regulation, state action or industry efforts, is on a path to address many of the same issues that the Paris agreement seeks to affect. It is hard to imagine, however, a long-term commitment to climate change without significant congressional support, say attorneys with Shearman & Sterling LLP.

In Congress: FAA, Navy, And A New Education Secretary

It will be a busy week on Capitol Hill. Before turning to a host of other matters, the Senate is expected to vote on the nomination of Dr. John B. King Jr. to serve as Secretary of Education. Meanwhile, the House has votes scheduled on 14 items under suspension of the rules, including 10 bills from the Energy and Commerce Committee and two resolutions from the Foreign Affairs Committee, as well as short-term extension of FAA authority, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

Profession

During a tense discussion in a deposition of a woman accusing JPMorgan Chase Bank NA of improperly seizing her home, the plaintiff's attorney stopped to duck her head under the conference room table. "I asked her what she was doing," said JPMorgan's lawyer, Brian Rich, according to the deposition transcript. "She indicated that she was looking to see if there was anything between my legs." Rude, combative and unprofessional conduct like this is a growing problem among attorneys and has inspired a movement by many states to reaffirm the importance of civility in the law. Some say, however, that these efforts may not make much headway in an industry increasingly driven by the bottom line and getting clients favorable results at all costs.

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

At the recent annual gala benefiting the Adelson Educational Campus, an academically invigorating preschool through Grade 12 independent school based on Jewish values and identity, my special assistant, JoAnn Prevetti, struck up a conversation with Crane Pomerantz. He's a Las Vegas attorney who has specialized in healthcare law, both as an Assistant U.S. Attorney and in private practice. The more Joann talked with Mr. Pomerantz, the more she realized that his experience could benefit our students. So she invited him to campus. The other day he graciously came to talk with several residents who are largely concentrating on their internal medicine specialty, young men and women about to embark on their careers. What he had to say accomplished what he set out to do -- helped sensitize them to some of the real world legal, ethical and business issues they could one day face. From today's newsletter, I trust you'll get a better sense that not everything a doctor needs to know can be found in medical textbooks.

TOP ATTORNEY SCHOOLS YOUNG PHYSICIANS ABOUT THE LEGAL PITFALLS IN MEDICINE

Attorney Crane Pomerantz, seen here with Dr. Budda Dawn and some internal medicine resident physicians, has worked as a federal prosecutor and in private practice, handling many noteworthy cases.

As attorney Crane Pomerantz spoke to UNLV School of Medicine internal medicine residents -- physicians who have finished medical school and who are now receiving training in their chosen specialty -- he emphasized that young doctors just starting their careers can unwittingly end up in legal trouble.

"You are...about to embark on a career that is highly regulated -- as highly regulated as any industry I can think of," he said at a powerpoint presentation delivered during a weekly "Academic Half Day" held every Tuesday afternoon for residents. "The problem you face at this point in your career is that you don't know what you don't know. My goal today is to give you a brief overview of some of the things you need to be aware of as you start practicing."

Pomerantz definitely knows his way around healthcare law. He was the criminal healthcare fraud coordinator in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Nevada, where he worked for almost 14 years. Prior to his tenure as a federal prosecutor, Pomerantz worked in a pair of large Washington, D.C. law firms, where his practice focused on healthcare fraud and abuse litigation and counseling. He began his career at a Boston law firm, where his work focused on healthcare fraud defense.

Four years ago, Pomerantz was doing something far different than talking to medical residents. He stood in a Las Vegas courtroom as an Assistant U.S. Attorney and spoke of a physician, Dr. Dipak Desai, who intentionally defrauded the government by inflating the length of medical procedures and overbilling Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance companies for anesthesia.

Pomerantz called Desai, a gastroenterologist, a “despicable human being” who was driven in medical practice by “wanton, crass greed.”

Desai would receive 71 months in prison for his role in the multimillion dollar healthcare fraud scheme -- a federal conviction that was to be served concurrently with a life sentence that Desai received earlier in state court for his role in a 2007 hepatitis outbreak at clinics where colonoscopies were performed. Health officials, who said unsafe injection practices involving the reuse of syringes for anesthesia led to the outbreak, had to notify 63,000 former Desai clinic patients to get tested for potentially fatal blood-borne diseases, including hepatitis and HIV. Two former Desai clinic patients died, and as many as 114 cases of hepatitis were linked to Desai clinics. Desai died in Nevada State Prison in 2017.

In the days following his presentation at the UNLV School of Medicine, Pomerantz couldn’t have been more clear about his respect for physicians, saying that the overwhelming majority of physicians work tirelessly to give patients the best care possible. “Part of me is a frustrated physician,” says Pomerantz, who now does legal work for physicians on behalf of the Sklar Williams law firm. “Doctors work unbelievably hard to help others.”

During his presentation, Pomerantz said it is important for doctors just getting into practice to find a good healthcare lawyer, a competent certified public accountant, a solid office manager and a mentor that he/she can count on for good advice. The lawyer, he said, must be a specialist in healthcare law because there “are so many arcane areas.”

> “What if, unbeknownst to you, your patient is selling his Percocets. What safeguards do you have in place to make sure your prescribing practices are gold standard?” - Crane Pomerantz

For example, he said that most young physicians know that if they give or receive, offer or solicit something of value in exchange for patient referrals, they’ve committed a crime. But then he showed how a physician could get into trouble by not understanding the Anti-Kickback Act (AKA): “What if you have a large Medicaid census in your practice, and out of sympathy for their financial situation, you consistently waive their copayments? Or, simply in an effort to make sure that they keep their regular appointments, you give them Uber or Lyft coupons to come to the practice? Even though your motivations may be good, those practices arguably violate the AKA.”

Another violation, he said, of the AKA could come if the physician is, say, an orthopedist and decides to invest in a small durable medical equipment business to which he/she already refers. Unless that contractual agreement was structured properly, Pomerantz said it is “likely a violation of the AKA.”

Pomerantz also talked about the Ethics in Patients Referral Act, which is also known as the Stark Law because it was introduced by California U.S. Rep. Pete Stark. Essentially, it means the government can sue a physician of a Medicare or Medicaid patient for referring to any entity in which the physician has a financial interest. No, Pomerantz said, you can't put the ownership of a lab in which a physician has a financial interest in the name of a spouse or business partner. "The Stark law prohibits the referral if you or an immediate family member have a financial interest in the entity to which the referral is made," Pomerantz noted.

Prescribing medications, particularly during the current opioid crisis, can also be a potential legal minefield for physicians if they're not careful, Pomerantz said before giving an example:

"You prescribe a 30-day supply of Percocet (acetaminophen/hydrocodone blend). And 20 days in, your patient, a long standing patient of the practice, comes in and says, 'I accidentally dropped my pills down the sink' or 'I left my prescription at the hotel on vacation' or 'My dog ate some pills.' As a new physician, I'm guessing you're going to be very trusting. Your concern is going to be to want to ameliorate your patient's pain, and you're going to be inclined to write a new script. But what if the patient is taking the pills inconsistent with your prescription (4 a day instead of 2) and you've unwittingly contributed to your patient's addiction? What if, unbeknownst to you, your patient is selling his Percocets. What safeguards do you have in place to make sure your prescribing practices are gold standard?"

Dr. Bhavana Bhaya, a senior resident in the internal medicine program, said she learned a lot from the presentation made by Pomerantz. "It is very important for medical personnel to understand the laws within which we have to practice medicine," she said. "Many of today's physicians are ill-equipped to handle the legal, regulatory and business realities of modern medicine."

Even Dr. Budda Dawn, the UNLV School of Medicine Department of Internal Medicine Chairman who has practiced medicine for decades, found Pomerantz's remarks helpful.

"In this day and age, all doctors need a good lawyer," he said.

What appear to be simple things -- manners and respect for others -- Pomerantz said, can keep physicians out of legal trouble:

"Who makes complaints to the Board of Medicine? Patients who feel like they haven't been treated with respect...Know who causes doctors to lose their privileges at hospitals and with insurers? Other doctors and nurses who think you're being greedy or rude or disrespectful...Know who files civil litigation and makes law enforcement referrals? Disgruntled business partners."

Pomerantz told the residents that he knows that they're going to have a million demands and a busy schedule and challenging cases. That said, he told them to remember to mind their manners if they don't want to end up in trouble.

In his presentation, he said he's been involved in "many hospital privilege hearings where my client is at risk of losing their privileges simply because they were rude to a charge nurse or had a personality conflict with another physician...So if you take nothing else out of this today, quote me on this: Play nice in the sandbox."

Dear colleague,

Last year, Humble Surgical Center was involved in two major lawsuits in federal court in Texas that both dealt with out-of-network (OON) provider issues. In Cigna v. Humble Surgical Hospital, Humble won a major victory, but in Aetna v. Humble Surgical Hospital, Aetna walked away the winner. What happened, and what do these vastly different outcomes mean for OON providers and facilities today?

Join our expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq. for our On-demand Webinar—"Reconciling Cigna v. Humble with Aetna v. Humble and Their Impact on the Out-of-Network Provider" on Friday, September 8, 2017 (Available all day) where he will closely examine both cases and offer advice for OON facilities on how to avoid adverse outcomes regarding balance billing, fee forgiveness and referral deals with physicians. Thomas will also outline strategies and techniques that will help you address ínsurance companies' growing concerns about referral arrangements, balance billing and fee forgiveness by OON facilities. You will also be given a complete listing of essential policies and forms for your facility, and you'll learn about current best practices for OONs. By examining a major OON facility and its experience in court with two ínsurance companies, Thomas will teach you how to properly set up an OON facility's claims processing procedures and billing practices in light of these two important cases.

You'll get 1 AAPC CEU per registration.

Session Highlights

- Summary of Aetna v. Humble Surgical Hospital court decision, facts, reasoning and outcome
- Summary of Cigna v. Humble Surgical Hospital court decision, facts, reasoning and outcome
- Discussion of why the cases differed so substantially and what OON providers can learn from them
- Techniques to avoid ínsurance company scrutiny regarding patient billing and referral practices
- Policies to have in place and current best practices to deal with OON patient billing

Agenda Details

- Facts of Cigna v. Humble, June 2016
- Why Cigna held up claims due to fee forgiveness
- Humble's counterclaim under ERISA
- The court's rulings on Cigna's claim, including on referrals and use fees
- Why this was a big victory for Humble
- Jurisdiction and where this case is precedent
- Impact on OON non-paid claims held up due to failure to balance bill or otherwise collect coinsurance and deductibles
- Impact on OON balance bill audits
- Impact on OON claims, including failure to provide plan documents and other information
- How the court enforced ERISA appeals and claims guidelines
- Facts of Aetna v. Humble, December 2016
- Aetna's claims for money had and received, fraud, negligent misrepresentation and ERISA relief
- The court's holding that the assignments at issue were invalid
- Why the outcomes were so different for the same facility

- What we can learn from the cases
- How to handle referral schemes

A Handbook for MMIS Reform

Sponsored by Optum

A confluence of factors is providing a new path forward for MMIS modernization – a path that focuses on a services-based approach to these traditionally complex systems. This handbook helps governments think about, plan for and acquire Medicaid management capabilities in preparation for a shift to MMIS-as-a-service.

Medicaid Program Integrity

Sponsored by Optum

This handbook recommends a more integrated and comprehensive approach to tackling fraud, waste and abuse, and offers best practices for states seeking to reinvent and reinvigorate their Medicaid program integrity initiatives and processes with predictive analytics approaches and tools.

DAYS UNTIL THE THIRD VEGAS PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE: 61

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 81

Good morning, everyone. Donald Trump has regrets. Or Donald Trump SAID he has regrets. Unnamed regrets, he said, reading like a robot off a TelePrompter. I repeat my theory of this election: God is punking all of us.

ICYMI, my interviews with Jim Murren and Dina Titus.

What's below: Murren speaks, Heller speaks, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a town.

COMING UP

MURREN'S MESSAGE
The Jim Murren interview linked above covered a lot of ground, including him saying:

---Hillary Clinton's email server was "sloppy" and "wrong" but "not disqualifying." And: "I understand that she's Establishment. I don't know that that's wrong, really."

----Donald Trump would cause instability in markets and trade wars if he became president and is spreading "toxic hatred" through a "series of outrages."

----He voted for President Obama in 2008 but not 2012.

----On the stadium, he said, "Some level of public financing is a good idea," but suggested $750 million is too much. He called the convention authority expansion "a must-have" and the stadium "a nice to have." His biggest concern, he said, is the murkiness of the proposal: "It would be as if I went to my board (and said), 'I'm not sure exactly what it would cost, I don't know how I am going to finance it (or) where it's going to go....my board would never finance it."

----Murren said he supports the deregulation ballot question, but will not contribute much to it (the company has given $10,000 but it is almost totally financed by Sands). "Regulated power is not a good pathway….It won't affect us. We are leaving the system."

----Murren announced a new plan to appeal to millenials, including spending millions to build a gamer center at MGM Grand.

Much more. Please watch.

HELLER OF A DAY
You have to feel sorry for Sen. Dean Heller. It is difficult to be all things to all people. He wants people to think he has disavowed Donald Trump – he even made it on to some national media lists in error – and he wants other people to think he might vote for him. It's not easy.

My pal Riley Snyder captured Sen. Hamlet in front of the chamber, along with his classic "I support the education spending from Gov. Brian Sandoval but not sure on the taxes" nonsense. Seriously? Having it both ways there, too?

It gets worse for Heller, though, thanks to the Democratic tracker squad. These gems from Heller's speech this week to a GOP club:

---- Apparently you can vote for Mike Pence but not Trump. Who knew?

Audience member: "I understand you're not supporting Trump, and I want to know what you are going to do with, who are you going to vote for? What are you planning to do?"

Heller: "My goal is to get to Trump, don't get me wrong. I may vote for Mike Pence for vice president you know, but my goal is to get to Trump and to support him. I'm having a hard time trying to defend him as all of you know some of the things that he says. So I probably won't endorse him between now and then, but I hope to at least be able to vote for him. So that's where I want to be at the end of the day."

----Oh boy: "I've told colleagues of mine it's probably a good idea not to endorse him [Trump] so you don't have to respond to every crazy thing he says."

----And this exchange!

Audience Member: "I am very disappointed that you did not show up at the convention. That you do not endorse Mr. Trump. Nevada is a swing state and so far none of you people went back to Cleveland. None of the representatives went back to Cleveland, ok, expect for Danny Tarkanian. Ok, who I have a lot of respect for now. Ok, and this is a swing state, and the people in the Republican Party nominated Trump. And the fact that you are not getting behind him and supporting him because you don't want to answer tough questions? I think that really shows a lack of character in you. I really do."

Heller: "Really?"

Audience Member: "Yes I really do. You didn't stand up for Romney when your buddy Harry Reid was on the floor accusing him of tax fraud. I never heard you come out against Harry on that. So I have a real problem with getting behind you when you come up for your next election."

Heller: "I'm hearing a lot of anger here. I'm hearing a lot of anger."

Audience Member: "Oh, you're right."

You can't please all the people all the time, senator. But you sure can try.

A TRIO OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – The Adelson News has announced it is hiring Wayne Allyn Root, who has given birth to conspiracy theories about President Obama not really being at Columbia and perhaps posing as a foreign exchange student, as a featured Sunday columnist. This is not a joke, dear Flashees. Well, it is….

Nugget No. 2 – Looks as if Danny Tarkanian, with a little help from his elected GOP friends (not Gov. Sandoval), did well last night in Reno.

Nugget No. 3 -- There's a darkness on the edge of the U.S. Senate race.

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

Megan Messerly got Murren, too.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Prospectors had explored what would become the Jarbidge Valley before, dating back to the 1860s, but with little success. In the 1880s, a rich ledge was found above the valley, but the person who discovered it, and the only person he told about it, a sheepherder, both died before the ledge could be worked. The Lost Sheepherder Mine became part of Jarbidge legend. The mighty Jarbidge River (ok, it is really a creek) flows through this narrow, remote valley in northern Elko County. Its name is a phonetic derision of a Shoshone name for a man-eating giant that allegedly lived in the valley – Tshaw-Haw-Bitts. The mining boomtown of Jarbidge did not take shape until after David Bourne discovered the initial ore outcropping that would yield significant returns in gold onAugust 19, 1909. About a week later, John Escalon discovered a second ledge. Mike Pavlak made ta third discovery days after that. Word spread quickly (Bourne reportedly bragged and exaggerated his find) and by the Spring of 1910, the narrow Jarbidge Valley was bustling with about 1,500 people. The Jarbidge Mining District had been organized in October 1909, though not much could be done over that winter. A Post Office opened on March 5, 1910. It was the most isolated mining camp in the state. Jarbidge residents often get snowed in over the winters. Most of the people did not remain when they realized the potential of the camp was overstated, but the camp maintained a population of a few hundred over its 25 years of primary mining operations. While not as big as Rhyolite, Jarbidge was really the last gold mining boom town in Nevada. The town still maintains a small year-round population, and the picturesque Jarbidge Valley is worth the trip.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

This is the anniversary of a fire that broke out in a Nevada town, wiping out the red light district. It still exists today as a tourist attraction. What is it?

Thursday's winner: Entrepreneur Zach Conine

The question: A new version of a classic Vegas casino opened on this day in history, but was bankrupt three years later. It was purchased, the theme changed and it still exists today. What was it, and what is it?

The answer: Aladdin, Planet Hollywood

MOVIE TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Name the actress and the movies: She meets her fate at the end of the film; she plays a girl who sleeps with the wrong guy; she plays a nightmare roommate; she plays a daughter who tries to help her mom out of a bad jam.

"… lots of new companies describe themselves as fintechs and not banks. They think that what banking does is commoditised and adds no real value. They believe that the customer experience can be shaped and enhanced by building better digital front-ends. Better apps, better websites. Here at Atom we disagree. Bryanna asked me to leave immediately the office yesterday 16 November 2016 - I was there to file 2 complains and asked about Adam Kuttner investigation closed with no investigations and tons of excuses on his defense.
That attorney is a fraud already slammed by a judge to lie in court on insurances filing disrespecting his clients.

they are serious because regarding a wide spread criminal practice in this town involving many attorneys.And you close the claim to Kuttner and your " lovely " paralegal Bryanna told me to leave. Because I complained and interrupt her monologue to have a dialogue she think to be a dictator ???

She refused to re-open the claim of Mr. Kuttner that was never even investigated to start with. Closed with the excuse of a letter getting back to the bar. They had my number and email.
So they should have use it instead.

Bryanna claimed "I interrupt her talking" and Rose told me that this is America and I should stop my Italian ways of interrupting. Well Trump interrupt Clinton and won the elections!

Subject: RE: Rescinding Dianetics Day or Month

Thank you for contacting me about the city's issuing proclamations for DIANETICS DAY in the past. Before any consideration of the issues you bring forward, I asked my staff to review the past five years in reference thereto. The response:
"We have provided a Proclamation every year for the last four years to Maureen Bird as her request, however, we have never done a Dianetics Day or Month Proclamation in the City of Las Vegas."

Subject: Rescinding Dianetics Day or Month

Dear Mayor,

I believe that you in the past your city inadvertently made a horrible mistake by issuing a proclamation for Dianetics Day. I am sure your Mayor at the time did not know that by doing so you were condoning the actions of the author L.Ron Hubbard, who has proven to be a liar and fraud and who's organization actively destroys families and has infiltrated many government agencies to spy on them which resulted in nine of their members going to jail including L Ron Hubbard's wife!

Currently The Church's uses the proclamation your city has given them as evidence of your support for what they do and how. Mayor Roy of Calera, Alabama rescinded theirs and I am asking you to do the same. I have included some different information here to substantiate what I am asking for and why so you have facts that your city may not have been provided with before agreeing to having your city be supportive of this organization. Mayor Roy rescinded their proclamation based on only the following:

Dianetics and Scientology are inseparable; the former is used as a technique in the practice of the latter, and the doctrines of the former are incorporated in the latter."
– The Lee Report on Dianetics and Scientology by Professor John Lee

"(a) The claim is made for dianetics, which is part of scientology, and inferentially for the whole of scientology, that between them they can positively cure all psychosomatic ailments, which it is claimed represent 70 per cent. of man's illnesses.

(b) These claims are entirely unjustified.
(c) On the contrary, scientology techniques, beyond the elementary stages, are potentially and, in some instances, positively harmful to mental health.
(d) Scientology is practised by "auditors" who have no medical training; they use dangerous techniques; they are unable to recognize symptoms and diagnose particular mental and physical conditions of ill health; they indiscriminately apply dangerous techniques irrespective of the circumstances; they not only administer the wrong treatment, but also poison their patients' minds against orthodox medicine and thus prevent them from obtaining proper medical treatment which they may require."
– Conclusions The Anderson Report, Chapter 30, point 8
Kevin Victor Anderson, Q.C. Published the State of Victoria, Australia

Despite Hubbard's claim his poor eyesight, ulcers and arthritis were never resolved and he petitioned for and received disability payments from the Navy reserve which he continued to receive while making millions of dollars from the Dianetics book that claimed to cure all of these for himself and others.

In a California Judge Breckenridge ruled;
"In addition to violating and abusing its own members civil rights, the organization… has harassed and abused those person not in the church whom it perceives as enemies .The organization clearly schizophrenic and paranoid, and this bizarre combination seems to be a reflection of its founder L Ron Hubbard. The evidence portrays a man who's been virtually a pathological liar when it comes to his history, background and achievements.

In another court case Justice Latey wrote " when comparing the truth about Hubbard with the churches published claims and said to promote himself in the cult he made these amongst other false claims:

1- Hubbard's claim was: That he was a much decorated war hero.
The truth is: He was not.

2- Hubbard's claim :That he was awarded the Purple Heart a gallantry decoration for those wounded in action
The truth is: He was not.

3-Hubbard's claim: That he was crippled and blinded in the war and cured himself with Dianetic technique.
The truth is: He was not crippled and he was not blinded.

Hubbard claims " That he was a graduate of George Washington University an atomic physicist.

The truth is: He completed only one year of college and failed the one course on nuclear physics he enrolled in.

Mr. Hubbard is a charlatan or worse. Scientology is both immoral and socially obnoxious…In my judgment it is corrupt sinister and dangerous. It is corrupt because it is based on lies and deceit and has as its real objective money and power."

Kenneth Robinson a past British Minister of Health has stated that: "The government is satisified…that Scientology is socially harmful. It alienates members of families from each other and attributes squalid and disgraceful motives to all who oppose it; it's authoritarian principles and practice. Are a potential menace to the personality and well-being of those so deluded as to become its followers: above all,its methods can be a serious danger to the health of those who submit to them.

I think you have more than enough information here to rescind your city's proclamation. I am more than happy to discuss this further with you should you have any questions.I have LOTS more disturbing information that I am sure will help you make this decision to rescind

I have also sent this to the editors of your cities your main newspapers as they to might want to rescind any positive story they had run when you gave Dianetics this original proclamation .

Thank you for your consideration of this matter,

Brian J Sheen

Dearest Mayor Carolyn Goodman,

At first glance this length of this letter may have you running for the hills. I'm pleading with you to please read on. My name is Theresa Dedeaux and I am a disabled war veteran from Desert Storm. Unfortunately , I'm also haunted by a very abusive and cruel x-husband. My x-husband isn't your typical abuser. He has changed the dynamics of his torture and at times I'd almost wished he was slapping me around again. My X calculatingly surmised that through networking he could gain friendships with people of certain power then use that friendship to torture me. My X paid off the custody judge who presided over put case. This judge even told me I wasn't welcome in the state of NV. He filed a vps complaint about me stating I molest little girls. He knew one this would follow me forever and two the social worker asked for my VA medical records. Yet closed the case a few days after we talked. Not knowing how that system works , my inclination was to trust her even though she told me she knew my type and i would be back before her prior to my son turning 18 and that I made her sick. (He Turned 18 by the way and i never saw Ms. Stokes again) . months later I saw my medical records in yet another court summons from my X, which was now public record. He lied to his DA support enforcement person and said I hadn't paid my support. I sent in the proof that not only had I but that I was paid ahead through our son turning 21. I sent the proof in four times, and all four times it was ignored. He had me arrested, surrounded by 8 coos during our sons high school football game and arrested three other times over support issues. Henderson police have broken into my house when I was gone. A bug was planted in my home. A detective went to all my neighbors spouting off lies thus my neighbors started leaving nasty notes on my friends cars when they would come over to visit me. I've called the police for help and had them only show up to yell at me . my home in Henderson was robbed along with things I was moving down from Utah. Officer Star called my insurance saying fraud and that I had submitted the same property list to both police reports and I didn't. He caused enough noise my 48 years of life has nothing to show for it and my claim paid me 4400. I was evicted after the robbery cause I got home late Friday night and with my ptsd safety is paramount . I saw the damage to the home and my ptsd kicked in and my mission was to secure the home. I used every penny to my name then I gave the invoice to my landlord who denied it telling me I wasn't disabled . having no money I was evicted two weeks prior to xmas. I lived in my my rental car for awhile and I'm on the streets now. My neighbors have told people flat out lies about me. My mailman was told I was a gutter whore and an uber driven was told i steal electrical power??? Not sure how that's done. I begged for help from so many. Does my life not matter to anyone? Does anyone have a clue what it feels like to curl up in a ball not just crying but sobbing in a park scared hungry thirsty at night feeling so alone and everyone hating me?? My car was stolen and i was denied a police report thus my insurance denied my claim I have no home. No car and barely a family. I've missed my sons entire senior year never to get those memories back . How does one protect themselves from all this? Please don't insult me and tell me to go to the shelter. My ptsd won't for a second allow that. I would pass out. I was raped at gunpoint by a Saudi soldier during Desert Storm. Two weeks ago on the streets I was attacked and not raped but sexually assaulted. I couldn't call the police they made it clear many years back I don't matter. My sons minds been poisoned about me. What am I supposed to do. My insurance won't return my calls.

The community hates me. Coos don't help me, and the abuser gets away with everything. I'm homeless . My zest for life is gone. Please woman to woman. Please help me please. I don't know what to do anymore. Please !!!

Carolyn,

Since last fall, the organization I started, Win Back Your State, has been lifting up candidates at all levels across the country. And today we're excited to make an announcement.

We would like you to meet and support these eight candidates who exemplify the new leadership that voters are looking for in their states.

A few days ago we saw what was possible when Conor Lamb flipped a district Trump won by 19 points. Let's take that energy and work as hard as we can for candidates like these and elect them to our state houses, county governments, and governors mansions. Our states depend on it. And our country depends on it.

Join us. Win back your state.

Yours,

Martin O'Malley

WHY IS HEALTH CARE COMPLIANCE IMPORTANT?

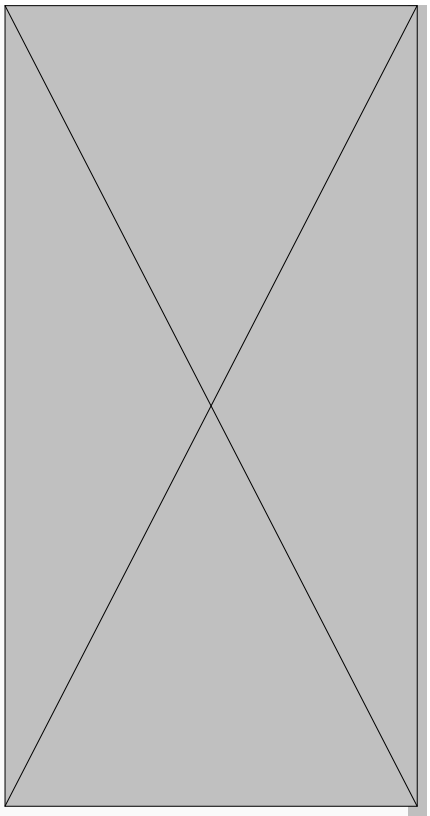

The law requires that healthcare providers put in place a compliance and ethics program. Many federal programs have instituted tools to increase health care fraud protection and enforcement actions to reduce unnecessary costs and improve health care delivery to all Americans. For example, the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act provides an anti-fraud strategy that has enabled the U.S. Departments of Justice and Health and Human Services to have recovered $3.3 billion in taxpayer dollars in Fiscal Year (FY) 2016 alone from individuals and companies who attempted to defraud federal health programs serving seniors or who sought payments from taxpayers to which they were not entitled. The Health Care Fraud and Abuse Control Program (HCFAC) has collected over $17.9 billion from 2009 through 2016.

The U.S. Sentencing Commission Federal Sentencing Guidelines outlines what constitutes an "effective compliance and ethics program." Seven key components for an effective compliance program include:

1. Implementing written policies, procedures and standards of conduct.
2. Designating a compliance officer and compliance committee.
3. Conducting effective training and education.
4. Developing effective lines of communication.
5. Conducting internal monitoring and auditing.
6. Enforcing standards through well-publicized disciplinary guidelines.
7. Responding promptly to detected offenses and undertaking corrective action.

UNLV Medicine is committed to conducting business with integrity and in accordance with applicable laws. Every employee must be aware of the legal requirements that govern their work and comply. It is our policy to educate, train and communicate as necessary to prevent and detect violations of the law or ethical standards by employees; respond appropriately as suspected or discovered; and prevent, detect and correct fraud, waste or abuse that it would focus on quality of care and patient safety.

For this reason, the UNLV Medicine implemented a compliance program in 2017 that covers all seven key components. Our goal as a new organization is to promote a culture that encourages ethical conduct, and a commitment to compliance with the law. Our training program focuses on these principles, and will continue in full force until the end of September, where the goal is to achieve 100% participation from all employees at that time.

How The Hospitality Industry Is Dealing With Tip Pool Regs

The hospitality industry has long relied on tips and service charges to augment wages paid to employees. The U.S. Department of Labor has proposed new regulations governing tip sharing, in part as a response to regulations it promulgated in 2011, which have resulted in a split between the federal circuits and a petition for certiorari in the U.S. Supreme Court, says Margaret Grover of Wendel Rosen Black & Dean. Carolyn-

Are you planning on participating in any of the sessions on the Government Data Analytics Initiative? (See below for times)

These sessions are being convened because of a slew of federal, state and local government mandates that now require the use of data analytics. We're no longer talking just performance measurement, but linking your data up with other government and private data sources to glean insight for making program changes and improvements.

Customer Service and Citizen Engagement Analytics (September 12)
Police and Law Enforcement Data Analytics (September 18-19)
Gov Workforce Analytics (October 19)
Fraud and Enterprise Risk Analytics (October 23)
Transparency and Open Government (October 24)
Data Analytics for Mission Results (October 25)

Would you like to see the full agenda for any of these sessions? Can I put you down to RSVP?

Thanks,

Stephen Hughes

EXPERT ANALYSIS

An IRS Lifeline To Public Utilities On Normalization

Last week, the Internal Revenue Service provided a safe harbor for public utilities that inadvertently break the so-called normalization rules, which are used to reconcile tax treatment of investment tax credits, or accelerated depreciation of assets, with their regulatory treatment. This is undoubtedly good news for public utilities, say attorneys with Mayer Brown LLP. Read more »

OIG's Warranty Safe Harbor Opinion And Value-Based Care

The recent broadening of previous guidance on the warranty safe harbor of the Anti-Kickback Statute by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Office of Inspector General may facilitate many of the outcomes-based risk-sharing arrangements that drug and device sellers have been contemplating (and pursuing) as part of the movement toward value-based health care, say attorneys with Ropes & Gray LLP. A federal court on Friday dismissed Alabama's challenge to the U.S. government's placing of Syrian refugees in the state, ruling that states don't have a basis to enforce a consultation requirement of the Refugee Act.

Calif. Agencies Unveil Zero-Emission Freight System Final Plan

The California Air Resources Board and other state agencies on Friday unveiled the final version of their Sustainable Freight Action plan, a roadmap for modernizing the state's multibillion-dollar freight transportation system and zeroing out carbon emissions across the freight network.

FDIC Aims To Ease Supervisory Appeals Process For Banks

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said that it wants to make it easier for banks to appeal supervisory decisions that could result in enforcement actions and aims to tighten up its supervision of banks' relationships with third-party lenders.

2017 NDAA Skirts Base Closures, But Congress Shows Interest

The Pentagon's threat to go it alone on base realignment and closure is more likely rhetorical than realistic as lawmakers work to finalize the 2017 National Defense Authorization Act, but recent moves by senior lawmakers show that Congress may be growing more willing to consider a new BRAC round.

EPA Tells DC Circ. It Got New Ozone Rules Just Right

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency acted well within its Clean Air Act authority and struck an appropriate balance between industry and environmental concerns when it crafted tighter national ozone limits, the agency told the D.C. Circuit Friday.

Gold King Mine Spill Answers Must Wait On Probe, Pols Told

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's internal watchdog told politicians Friday that it cannot answer their questions about last year's Gold King Mine disaster until a criminal investigation runs its course.

Water Rule Foes Say EPA, Corps Can't Hide Behind Privilege

The states, industry groups and environmentalists involved in the legal tug-of-war over the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Clean Water Rule told the Sixth Circuit on Friday that the EPA and Army Corps of Engineers are inventing legal reasons to keep documents out of the record for the court to review.

NY Approves 50% Clean Energy Goal For 2030

New York utility regulators on Monday unveiled a revised clean energy standard that requires the state to draw half of its electricity from renewable sources by 2030 and subsidizes the continued operation of two upstate nuclear plants to prevent the state's carbon emissions reduction goals from being compromised.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

2nd Circ. Microsoft Ruling: A Plea For Congressional Action

The Second Circuit's recent ruling in Microsoft v. U.S. is part of a clear trend limiting the reach of federal law to matters that have a significant foreign link. Less clear is whether the strict territorial approach adopted by the court will prove workable, say Alan Raul and Kwaku Akowuah of Sidley Austin LLP.

Inside SEC's New In-House Court Rules

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission recently attempted to remedy some of the more controversial aspects of its administrative forum by amending its rules of practice. Attorneys with Ropes & Gray LLP compare the amended rules to the analogous rules under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and examine the ways in which a respondent might continue to be disadvantaged.

GSA Inspector General Takes Aim At Tech Resellers

A recent report by the Office of Inspector General for the U.S. General Services Administration could have huge import for information technology companies that sell their products and services to the federal government through resellers, particularly the report's recommendation that reseller participation in the Multiple Award Schedule program be curbed because the reseller contracts result in increased costs to the government, say attorneys with Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP.

Potential Challenges To EPA Chemical Risk Management Rule

Changes to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's risk management plan modernization rule have the potential to greatly increase the number of chemical facility incidents requiring formal investigations. However, there are several types of legal arguments that may effectively challenge the rule, says Juan Miranda at Taylor Porter Brooks & Phillips LLP.

BigLaw's (Crowded) Passage To India?

The imminent green light for foreign firms to get into India's market will be a bellwether of law firm behavior. The impulse to follow the crowd into the new frontier will be great, but smart firms will take a long hard look at who they are before making the passage to India, says Mark A. Cohen, an adjunct professor at Georgetown Law School and founder of Legal Mosaic LLC.

Crowell & Moring Ups Billable Demands After Giving Raises

Crowell & Moring LLP has increased its yearly billable hours requirement for associates, the firm confirmed Monday, less than two months after handing out raises to many of its attorneys that matched the new benchmark set by Cravath Swaine & Moore LLP.

5 Tips For Starting Your Own Law Firm

Launching your own law firm can be a daunting task, and assembling the right team of lawyers to bring along is no easy part. There are rules and ethical obligations to consider, not to mention making sure you will all get along. But with the right planning, and perhaps a bit of cajoling, you can be on your way to building an all-star cast, experts say. Here are some tips for branching out on your own and bringing the best attorneys with you.

Average New Atty Not Earning Anywhere Near BigLaw Scale

The new Cravath Swaine & Moore LLP benchmark salary of $180,000 for entry-level attorneys in BigLaw will not be the norm, according to new research from The National Association for Law Placement, which found most new attorneys earned between $40,000 and $65,000 in their first year.

Dewey's DiCarmine, Prosecutors Grapple Before 2nd Trial

Former Dewey & LeBoeuf Executive Director Stephen DiCarmine on Monday exchanged fire with prosecutors over which evidence will be permitted in his coming New York state retrial over charges that he and others defrauded lenders and investors prior to the mega-firm's collapse.

PACER Users Urge DC Court To Allow Pricing Complaint

A proposed class of PACER users on Friday urged a D.C. federal court not to toss claims that the federal court filing service is too expensive, arguing the government has misconstrued the complaint as concerning a billing code error, when it's actually over the price of the service.

Supreme Court's Approval Rating At Its Lowest Again

The U.S. Supreme Court tied its record low approval rating in a Gallup poll released Monday that found only 42 percent of the country thinks the high court is doing a good job.

The Top In-House Hires Of July

An embattled Theranos fleshes out its compliance function and hires two execs, Vanguard recruits Citi's former general counsel, and Xerox's top lawyer jumps ship for Target. They top the list of the in-house moves you should know about.

BANK PERFORMANCE

Earnings outlook goes from meek to bleak

U.S. bank margins are unlikely to expand from historically low levels anytime soon. While market observers believe the Federal Reserve could raise rates in the next few months, most do not expect significant increases in either short-term or long-term rates for an extended period. This should put even further pressure on net interest margins through 2017, and any expansion beyond that point is likely to be minimal. Read more

FEATURED STORIES

Election 2016: Is Our Democracy Broken?

This year, Americans will elect the next president and thousands of legislators. Yet, our election system is out of balance. Special interest groups control politics, and average people are left out. With antiquated technology and restrictive voting laws, an avalanche of campaign money and partisan gerrymandering, our democracy badly needs reform.

Throughout the year, this newsletter will provide regular updates, analysis, and commentary on challenges to our system and ways to fix our democracy. Sign up now to continue receiving this newsletter.

How to Fix the Election System

The challenges facing our democratic system can be fixed. In our new “Democracy Agenda,” the Brennan Center outlines several steps we can take to boost participation and make elections more fair for average Americans.

DEMOCRACY AGENDA

Overturn Citizens United

The role of big money in politics has become an intense, burning issue for millions of Americans. Campaign finance reform must be a central priority for the next president and Congress.

Support Automatic, Permanent Voter Registration

By harnessing proven technology to ensure that every eligible voter is automatically and securely registered, we would add 50 million to the rolls, save money, and curb the potential for fraud.

End Partisan Gerrymandering

Since the country's beginning, redistricting has offered ample opportunity for manipulation and self-dealing. It's critical for states or Congress to move toward transparent and independent redistricting processes that ensure all Americans are fairly represented.

Five to Four: The Difference One Vote Makes

Six closely divided decisions by the Supreme Court, such as Citizens United and McCutcheon v. FEC, have undermined fair elections and muffled the voices of a majority of Americans in the political process.

White Paper - Mobile Account Opening: Solving The Convenience-Risk Conundrum - Download White Paper Now >

Mobile devices dominate consumer interactions with financial institutions—except account opening, because of fraud and compliance concerns. The solution lies in using mobile's unique capabilities

Most of the alternative financial technology (fintech) service providers that compete with traditional financial institutions offer digital account opening. It's the easiest and most convenient path between consumers and the financial experience they expect. Mercator Advisory Group analyst Alex Johnson believes banks must add this capability or risk losing new accounts. The challenge is how to design a mobile account opening process that is seamless for the applicant and safe for the institution.

In this Mercator Advisory Group white paper, sponsored by Mitek, you will learn:

- The current state of mobile account opening and why the trickle of new account openings will become a flood
- The conflict between greater customer convenience and the challenge of meeting "Know Your Customer" requirements and controlling fraud
- How the embedded capabilities of mobile devices—image capture, biometrics, and geolocation—can resolve this conflict and improve identification and verification
- Three criteria useful in evaluating the optimal mobile solution

Subject: RE: PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL FOR REVIEW BY MAYOR GOODMAN RE: TERRORISM THREAT

The Honorable Carloyn Goodman:

Thank you for taking the time to respond to my correspondence, I know you must be extremely busy managing the Las Vegas. My correspondence was initiated due to the following:

1) The email sent to Commander Ted Moody was due to 2 incidents I witnessed, and due to my experience and background in the area, Las Vegas will be attacked throughout 2016, that is multiple times. I am stating this based the overall plan of ISIS/Al Qaeda (the Sunnis). I originally warned officials in what is now DHS and the revamped DOJ in 2001. Due to the situation in Belgium, France, and the rest of Western Europe, the officials there have now reached the same conclusion (as have respected US experts such as ex CIA agent Bob Baer, former Bin Laden desk chief Michael, Scheuer, Generals Michael Flynn and James Mattis)
https://mail.google.com/mail/u/0/#label/5TH+RAIL/15401613ca94fba5.

2) Terrorists have already reconned the Strip and the Fremont experience, and law enforcement should act on that absolute. I have described what the attack would look like below.

3) The two incidents consisted of an Arab male 40-45 years doing reconnaissance on the Strip, he specifically was concentrating on the crowd in front of the Bellagio fountains. Certain behavior from the individual and his party clearly indicated he was on a scouting mission. To be direct, there were numerous incidents of this type of behavior by Middle Easterners during this period, it was extraordinarily heavy.

The second incident was far more alarming. During a 114 degree day, an Arab male in his early 20's in the company of a his wife in a hijab was timing the traffic and lights on the Strip while communicating with someone via text. The behavior of the male and his wife was highly unusual for an Arab male, especially outside of the Middle East. Due to certain other issues concerning the males behavior and the position of certain equipment, it became clear the individual had been through irregular military training/bomb training.

Based on the my having grown up around such individuals, they have made the decision to execute their plans.
All of the individuals mentioned in my prior email connected to Nada Prouty, La Shish restaurant, and the incidents in Michigan, I know or have met. Again, it is a mistake to underestimate the size of their network and their desire to carry out their missions.

WHAT THE ATTACK WILL LOOK LIKE (NO ONE HAS SEEN THIS INFORMATION AS OF YET)

Las Vegas represents a priority terrorist target for ISIS and Al Qaeda due to the every possible Western country represented by tourists, the celebrity factor, easy access, and most of all the design of the 2 main tourist sites being a terrorists dream. Some obvious, some not so obvious.

FREMONT EXPERIENCE

As you can know the Fremont is actually a several blocks long tunnel with openings at either end, but no escape routes in between. Terrorists are well aware of the site, and are well aware that the civilians at the site are comprised 95%+ of tourists. The site is a shooting gallery. There will be no escape for the tourists and they would be running directly firing squad while trying to escape at either opening.

DEATH TOLL ESTIMATES:

MINIMUM: 250-300 dead X3 injured
MEDIUM: 500-700dead X 5 injured

LAS VEGAS BLVD

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9IEnm-SIDj0&nohtml5=False

Due to the physical design of the Strip, the attack on the site will be even more devastating than Fremont.

The Strip has sections that:

-Do not allow pedestrians to cross the street-giving them no escape route from an attack, and have barriers to civilians fleeing back into the casinos in many sections.

-There are sections of the Strip that corral tourists in an extremely densely packed areas (from the Linq to Harrah's with no escape routes to the North, South, East, or West-this design is not consistent, but exists throughout the Strip. If any tourists survived these areas it would be a miracle of God.

-Escalators on the Strip represent the same threat from terrorists as the sections that corral tourists, there are just more tourists in these areas. The tourists won't be able to go forward or backward. An even worse factor is that the escalators lead to elevated walkways that cross the Strip with only one option to escape the terrorists attackers-jump off into the traffic below from a height of over nearly 2 stories. Each of the walkways and each of escalators would be filled with bodies surpassing the Bataclan in Paris 13 November 2015.

-The motorized traffic on the Strip represents another huge danger to tourists. The traffic is backed up to the point it takes 30 minutes to an hour to go a mile during peak seasons (Spring/Summer). With special events it is even worse.

The traffic light system allows for terrorists to disable the motorized vehicles at the North and South ends of the Strip and attack the buses, autos, and tourist vehicles that cannot move North or South, nor can they go East or West due to the casinos. The San Bernadino terrorists had a similar plan for the freeway system in California (as sent in the previous email http://www.latimes.com/local/lanow/la-me-ln-san-bernardino-marquez-20151217-story.html). They may simply drive vehicles to the designated traffic lights, or use their vehicles as truck bombs. They may attack tourists in vehicles to achieve the halt of moving traffic, I would be ready for any scenario and be prepared to have kill units ready to address the attackers all the way down to tow trucks. Speed is the key to disrupting the plot and negating the physical damage at either target location.

- The casinos are no different than the Taj Mahal and Oberoi hotels Mumbai that were attacked in 2008, with the exception there are far more targets. Terrorists have decided to attack the casino-hotels for the same reason they attacked the hotels in Mumbai https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=eBKTekkYy-E&nohtml5=False:

-Unlimited victims

-Mumbai is the entertainment capital of India, Las Vegas touts itself as the entertainment capital of the world

-The casinos are large and with thousands of tourists on the main floors gambling, dining, checking in, and going to shows-any attack on a Las Vegas casino would dwarf the number of victims killed the Mumbai attacks. The attacks will be simultaneous and involve several hotels. Again, it would take police days to find and remove all of the terrorists.

HOTEL DEATH TOLL ESTIMATES:

-MINIMUM 500 deaths X5 wounded

-MEDIUM 1000 deaths X3 wounded
ISIS and Al Qaeda will make good on their threats, as they always do, and the results are devastating in terms of loss of life and losses to the economy.

The terrorists will use assault weapons and bombs (with ball bearings, nails, rat poison etc). They may attack police stations and hospitals to slow the response of law enforcement. And of course they will go after McCarran, I would not depend on the TSA, again it is not a security entity http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2013/12/23/airport-security_n_4494308.html and as I warned the various pilot and steward unions in 2015, terrorists will go after them on buses, and the security free areas of the airport.

COUNTERMEASURES
-Their view of security MUST be PRE-ACT don't react. Enacting extra/proper security after the attack serves as a double negative in terms of human losses and economic losses.

-There are security measures that can be taken without alarming the public or interfering with tourism.

-Intelligence and an EFFECTIVE "see something, say something" apparatus that works. Currently it does not locally or nationally. The smallest piece of information can prevent a disaster as with Times Square http://www.nydailynews.com/news/crime/times-square-vendors-lance-horton-duane-jackson-alerted-cops-times-square-car-bomb-article-1.445824, and if James Woods had been correctly questioned and his information ran to ground from 1 August 2001 https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=l0lzZvCNkJw. Terrorist will buy weapons from gangbangers/criminals and this provides for an opportunity for them to be exposed.

-A real world active shooter counter plan based on worse case scenario for the Strip and Fremont. All officers must have access to rifles (not that officers have to necessarily carry them, but they should be close by) http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/ct-campus-police-rifles-20160409-story.html. There must be plans to clear hotels infiltrated by the terrorists, speed is the important factor.

-The standing policy must be the Strip and Fremont 1st in the event of an attack and in preventing an attack-other parts of the city are on a "get to when possible" status.

-Las Vegas needs more police-50% more police officers, the time is now to get that funding from the federal government, but if tourists have to pay a little more, I would not hesitate to add that tax.

-The Strip has to divided into security sections with a commander in charge for the sole purpose of putting down terrorists. This should be every 4.5 blocks maximum. There are numerous ways to achieve this without alarming tourists-they would have no idea of the increased security. The same works for Fremont adjusted to the size of the site. This allows for law enforcement to be in charge of the situation even after an attack has begun by limiting the mobility and space that the attackers can operate in. That is if attackers are limited to the area where their attack began, it will create disruption to their plan and more importantly confusion. They will be confined to a small operating area, leading to less casualties and their quick neutralization.

-More undercover agents for intelligence and physical security.

-Snipers and surveillance units staged covertly throughout the sites mentioned.

With the Sunnis (ISIS and Al Qaeda) engaged in their "Tet Offensive" it is not if but when Vegas is attacked, that will be either/and in the Spring, Summer, or Fall of 2016.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Despite what most intelligence, law enforcement, and the public thinks, ISIS and Al Qaeda have complete and vast networks within the US to support their fighters. The terrorists see themselves as and are part of a large army based in the Muslim world, and supported by nations and prominent individuals such as the Saudi Royal Family as the links below indicate. The Canadian estimate from CSIS is more accurate, but still underestimates the true scope of the threat.

http://www.miamiherald.com/news/state/article1973642.html

http://www.floridabulldog.org/2013/04/fbi-records-say-sarasota-saudis-who-fled-had-many-connections-to-individuals-tied-to-911/

http://www.miamiherald.com/news/local/community/miami-dade/article4395183.html

-To this point, the EU and US authorities responsible for security from the political, intelligence, and security/law enforcement entities have failed to see the big picture, and worse the grand picture, and this is lethal. This has to be corrected. Law enforcement on the local level are fighting an army, and ISIS and Al Qaeda are Islamic Special Forces. It was always their plan to use the battlefield experienced gained by fighting Delta Force, Navy SEALS, Army Rangers, etc. and then turn those battle hardened fighters lose on American civilians. They plan to win or lose the war North America, specifically the cities of America and secondary towns. This network provides for additional intelligence gathering.

-The attackers and their handlers would have visited Las Vegas several times http://www.nbcnews.com/storyline/brussels-attacks/suspect-admits-being-brussels-airport-attacker-known-man-hat-prosecutors-n553461

-They will be educated, despite the myth of the opposite. Usually engineers or involved in the heavy sciences.

-They will have local contact(s) for logistic support, these individuals will be business owners, Mosque leadership, etc. They will have access to Western Union/Moneygram as part of their business. Ownership of small stores/grocery stores allows for access to the money transfer systems and materials such as acetone and peroxide in bulk.

-They will own restaurants as in the case of La Shish https://www.fbi.gov/news/stories/2007/november/prouty_111307, a convenient meeting place that does not arouse suspicion. The restaurant and stores also allow for endless money laundering and financial support of the terror network.

-As with the Sarasota case, there are very high level visitors to Las Vegas involved in plotting attacks in Las Vegas i.e. a Godfather. There is an example of this I can discuss with the utmost confidentiality. There are hundreds of people that know of real world terrorist plots directed at Nevada, and are not going to say 1 word. When I stated that everyone who knew Nada Prouty and the owner of La Shish were involved with Hezbollah, that is literal. Although, Hezbollah are Shia's and ISIS and Al Qaeda are Sunnis, they do work together in the US as they do abroad, i.e. the Palestinian Sunni military wing Izzedine Al Qassam working with Hezbollah's military wings, which go by several names. Remember their sole objective is to attack Americans and Westerners and the instructions that the actually attackers have been given is, "Go to where the Whites are." As has been the case from the Bali bombings in 2002, through Paris, and Brussels.

There is more information, however I would move to take such issues as Black Lives Matter and school shooters off the plate of law enforcement. This can be easily done with the information in my possession and new tactics. Las Vegas has the opportunity of leading the way in this area, and at the same time expanding its budget by hosting the conference I warned was a necessity in 2015. As you can now see, my warnings, particularly the warning to get prepared for the ISIS/AL Qaeda onslaught was unfortunately accurate. Law enforcement is far behind the terrorists and this should be corrected immediately (with the proper equipment, personnel, and new legislation on the local and state level to prevent attacks and maximize law enforcement effectiveness).

Thank you and good luck.

Sincerely,
Jerome Almon

Mr. Almon, thank you for sharing your concerns about terrorism and its potential impact to the Las Vegas area. I have recently expressed my own concerns directly with Secretary Johnson of the Department of Homeland Security. As a city, we invest in many resources to ensure the safety of the community and the visitors we serve. As you know, we cannot prevent every possible act of violence or terrorism. We work very hard to ensure communication, cooperation and coordination with our local government agencies, the private sector and our state and federal partners to be prepared to achieve our 5 mission areas: prevent, protect, mitigate, respond, recover from terror attack.

I am forwarding your concerns to our Joint Terrorism Task Force and the Southern Nevada Counter Terrorism Center for further investigation. If you have knowledge of specific planned targets, modes of attack, or dates and times of planned attack, please file a SAR (Suspicious Activity Report) as soon as possible with our Counter Terrorism Center. This report may be sent anonymously if so desired."

Subject: PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL FOR REVIEW BY MAYOR GOODMAN RE: TERRORISM THREAT

The Honorable Mayor Carolyn Goodman:

I am contacting you concerning the information on terrorism below. Due to 2 incidents in Las Vegas and my familiarity with terrorism, I sent the email below to a Las Vegas commander, and have since contacted other commanders, corporate, and a Las Vegas politician with my concerns. Unfortunately, the response was as inadequate as the response the FBI agents, civilians, and well known individuals experienced when warning top DC officials about 9/11. This is why I and others are so reluctant to contact authorities concerning the issue, and specifically why I hesitated to contact the Las Vegas commander with my original warning (due to what I witnessed in Las Vegas). If it were not for the fact so many EU, Australian, Chinese, and Indian friends/kids that I know visit Las Vegas I would just ignore the situation and let it happen and then say I told you so to the media. (I am also covering myself by having proof that I did warn every authority responsible for public safety in Las Vegas, the US, and abroad.) I assure the situation is far worse than you know, and I would not underestimate it or the ruthlessness of the enemy. They have already picked out their targets and made their decision to carry out their missions no matter what. They will have to be physically stopped by and aggressive and competent campaign led by competent and aggressive law enforcement/intelligence officers.

Due to the seriousness of the situation, my ties to the EU, Australia, and other countries, I have warned Ministers that I have had previous contact with and others this week concerning issuing a travel warning to their citizens. I have not mentioned the city of concern, however as of next week I may have to. I do not want to get involved in the situation at all, I like 3 other top terrorist experts are fed up with the incompetence and politicizing of terrorism that has led to the disastrous attacks from 9/11, Paris, San Bernardino, and now Brussels. (The experts are former Clinton & Bush terrorism expert Richard Clark, former CIA agent/CNN consultant Bob Baer, and former Bin Laden desk Chief Michael Scheuer.) We have all reached this point due our being completely correct in our forecasts and strategies for addressing terrorist threats, and the individuals and entities that were listened to being dead wrong each and every time. An audit of my record on forecasting terrorist trends and events to be irrefutably accurate, and an audit of the "experts" to be irrefutably inaccurate.

The individuals that are sought after to address terrorism in the US by the government and media are not actually experts-are you aware of that? If you are counting on US or local counter terrorism officials to save Las Vegas-I would stock up on body bags, you're going to need them.

Those responsible for anti-terrorism measures in Las Vegas and the US as a whole have no idea what they are up against, nor do they have a clue as to how to negate the threat-hence why ISIS/Al Qaeda continue to beat them to the punch.

EXAMPLES:

-The only people that did not know that Ms. Prouty a terrorist mole were the Directors of the FBI and CIA (literally) that fought over her and gave her the highest awards the agencies has https://www.justice.gov/archive/opa/pr/2007/November/07_nsd_910.html http://www.cbsnews.com/news/the-case-against-nada-prouty-26-03-2010/. There are a lot more Nada Prouty's in the US committing the same act. Ms. Prouty proves a Middle Easterner cannot be vetted, there are many just like her in the US that have US passports, driver's licenses, and they are in no way who the government thinks they are right down to the names on those documents.

-This terrorist pioneer lived 2 miles down the road from me http://articles.chicagotribune.com/1985-06-19/news/8502090070_1_lebanon-david-berry-nabih-berri

I grew up here and know or have met all of the people connected to this issue and I assure you the situation is far worse than is suspected by authorities. I have met and talked to many of the individuals responsible for stopping these terrorists, and trust me-the terrorists are far ahead of the opposition.

http://www.mlive.com/news/detroit/index.ssf/2014/08/report_more_residents_in_dearb.html

https://www.google.com/webhp?sourceid=chrome-instant&ion=1&espv=2&ie=UTF-8#q=plane+terrorism+dearborn+

LAS VEGAS CONNECTION

http://www.wxyz.com/news/local-news/investigations/happys-pizza-headquarters-raided-by-irs-criminal-division-dea (Las Vegas has a franchise and a lot more connections to Detroit/Dearborn than you likely are aware of. It is a case of this https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JcZHSGyos6g)

I have talked with the founders of this business several times and this case was strictly about terrorist funding as in this case http://www.mlive.com/lansing-news/index.ssf/2011/12/report_several_southeast_michi.html.

In closing, my original warning should have been ran to ground, the fact that it wasn't is proof of just how off and far behind Las Vegas is in addressing Paris and Brussels style attacks (this week every Minister from every foreign country I contacted responded with a phone call or/and email seeking further information because they now "get it".) To be direct, authorities in Las Vegas and the US have their heads in the sands regarding the issue of terrorism and must change their strategy and tactics while they still have a chance to do so. With Las Vegas having the worst inherent terrorist vulnerabilities of any major city, Las Vegas should be much more precise and aggressive in avoiding such an attack (which is possible). An attack in the manner that I have forecast would dwarf the Paris body count by a minimum of X5, however it will be worse. The intelligence, physical security, and counter measures of Las Vegas are an invitation for an attack, and the terrorist know all of the cities vulnerabilities as well as I do.

No casino pit boss, dealer, etc. could have the record of the anti-terrorism leadership and still be employed in Las Vegas, it is the equivalent to them "losing" track of a million dollars every day for a year and the casino owners and Gaming Control Board accepting any explanation he came up with as legitimate. This would never happen. The see something say something just does not work as Brussels, Paris, and San Bernardino prove with the number of people that knew and didn't talk for various reasons. The #1 reason is that people simply have no confidence in authorities taking proper action. Examine my experience with the issue, each time I am putting my life and business life in danger by even contacting authorities in Las Vegas, and not once has anyone so much as responded or asked me how and why I reached the conclusions I have reached. This is a mirror of the warning by James Woods cited below regarding 9/11-it all could have and should have been ended right then and there. The mindset of law enforcement/political leadership on the municipal level must change, at the end of the day the battle and ramifications are like all politics-local.

As you know the odds always catch up, and luck runs out. Vegas' luck is about to run out in the worst of ways. If you would like the scenario I war gamed, I will forward it upon your request.

Thank you and good luck-

Sincerely,
Jerome Almon

Sheriff Moody:

Thank you for you response and time regarding the issues below:

1)THE TERRORISM ISSUE:

As you are certainly aware of, Al Qaeda has Las Vegas as one of its top 5 main targets, specifically the Strip. I am certain that the area has been scouted and targets selected based on my experience in the area and my observations of individuals and groups while in Las Vegas. They will hit what is most familiar with them, and Las Vegas is very familiar to them. (For example the mastermind behind 911 graduated from the University of North Carolina http://edition.cnn.com/2002/US/South/12/19/al.qaeda.aggie/ .

ACTIONS THAT WILL BE TAKEN BY TERRORIST:

A) http://newyork.cbslocal.com/2014/03/19/al-qaeda-magazine-calls-for-car-bombings-in-u-s-new-york

B) http://www.cnn.com/2013/09/18/world/asia/mumbai-terror-attacks/

RECOMMENDED COUNTER MEASURES:

A) Special response teams will not get to the site in time, and must be in place PRIOR to any incident in the immediate area.
B) CONTAIN AND KILL-officers must be prepared to neutralize the terrorist at the point of attack, i.e. the attacker cannot be allowed out of the building, off the block, or off the side of the street where they attacked (Las Vegas Blvd is a perfect kill zone for a terrorist due to its geography, such as the inability to cross the Strip in certain areas combined with the natural traffic volume.) Point blank, these are the same individuals and groups that Delta Force, Navy SEALS, Army Rangers, Airforce Commandos, and Marine RECON/special forces faced on the battlefields of Iraq and Afghanistan-they are not to be under estimated. (Essentially they are Islamic special forces.) They are going to attack sooner than later.
C) Las Vegas should have its own anti-terrorism unit on the level of the NYPD's anti-terrorism unit, NYC learned its lesson the hard way 911-YOU CANNOT DEPEND ON THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO PROTECT YOUR CITY. As you will see in the information from the Canadian CIA (CSIS) and the response to that information from both that unit and myself, the federal authorities are grossly out of touch with reality regarding terrorism.

I assure you this is not close to the worst.
I am well versed in this area as you will see due to my studies/duties as a university guest lecturer, and personal experiences however most of my experience is first hand. I left college and joined the US Army, several individuals that I attended college with left college and joined our enemy and did fight against the US in numerous war zones around the world. These individuals are supported by groups in America, and know the country as well as you and I do.

Secretary Napolitano-

I am writing you concerning a pervasive and unacceptable sanctioned policy within the Department of Homeland Security of the sexual harassment of female traveler's entering the United States. I have been informed by numerous female travelers coming to visite me in the United States from Norway, Germany, and especially Canada that they are routinely harassed by male DHS inspectors. I find the allegations completely credible due to the carbon copy stories from the females, and the profile of the females- all attractive teen or near teen girls traveling alone. The harassment is so overt that it is impossible that supervisors are not aware of it, do not witness it, and in fact sanction it.

I have a substantial amount of both academic and field study experience in this area, and have personally witnessed the practice by DHSemployees myself. This is should be addressed in the open without hesitation. It is insulting to the female travelers, and also opens up US females to the retaliatory actions by the security personnel of other countries-which I assure has happened. Certainly with all the alleged dangers facing Americans and the gaping holes in border security at the various ports of entry, DHS does not have the luxury expending valuable energy and tax payers money on sexually harassing female travelers.

I thank you for your time and consideration and will await your reply.

Sincerely,

Jerome Almon

Dear Jerome,
Thank you for contacting me about the reports of sexual misconduct and abuse by U.S. Customs and Border Protection agents. I appreciate that you have taken the time to communicate your views and concerns with me.

I share your concern about this issue. Should related legislation come before the U.S. Senate for a vote, I will keep your views in mind, and share your thoughts on this issue with my colleagues who serve on the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee.

Thank you again for contacting me. Please continue to keep me informed about issues of concern to you and your family.

website_comments: I have had previous contacts with your office issues (specifically Bonnie Tischler). I feel it is necessary to reintroduce this information (I will send a copy of thisinformation to US Senator Carl Levin.) I have made compliants against certain procedures and individuals at the Detroit/Windsor border crossing. I also corresponded with the Canadian Minister for Immigration (Elinor Caplan) concerning the fact that even the supervisors at the Canadian border do not understand much of the information they need to concerning legitimate vs. false documentation. (I unfortunately am able to prove this point.) Meaning if say a person was on a wanted list -the Canadians often ask the person to interpret the information.
Finally the Detroit/Windsor tunnel. It is a disaster waiting to happen. Since the US checks cars AFTER they have entered the tunnel (as does Canada) -doesn't that defeat the objective of stopping a terrorist act in the tunnel? The check should happen before the tunnel is entered, and after-or the tunnel should be closed.

I originally warned a agent at a federal law enforcement entity of the threat on 9/11 and although he agreed I was correct, he took no action, stating he didn't exactly know what to do regarding the information, and that he was quite frankly stunned at the danger. Only when an individual drove through the tunnel with what appeared to be a bomb on his front seat did the politicians take the matter up, as you will see with NYC. The tunnel is in a far worse position than it was on 9/11 due to Detroit's economic collapse, the influx of more Middle Easterners into Canada, and this http://www.reuters.com/article/us-detroit-tunnel-bankruptcy-idUSBRE96O0RT20130725.

Tighter security at border hits snag

Legal issues may block U.S., Canada checks before crossing

WASHINGTON -- Checking travelers between the United States and Canada after they've crossed the border -- which some liken to checking airline passengers after they land -- is being scrutinized by officials concerned that bridges and tunnels could be vulnerable to attack.

Lawmakers are pressuring the U.S. Customs Service and Canadian officials to come up with a decision this week on whether the countries can swap inspection locations.

An alternative to paying a toll, crossing the bridge or tunnel, and then being scrutinized by Customs officials once inside the other country's territory is to do inspections before crossing.

Although the reverse inspection system is the only solution being lobbied to enhance infrastructure safety, the two nations haven't agreed on how to settle legal obstacles. An old idea revived by the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, a revised system would involve numerous agencies in both countries in the decision.

"This reverse clearance proposal has a number of sovereignty and structure issues attached to it," said Michel Proulx, spokesman for the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency in Ottawa.

"There are a lot of players involved in all of this. It's difficult to get a sound, concrete answer. No one department or agency would be able to say yes or no."

There's little to stop someone who wanted to damage the Ambassador

Bridge, Detroit-Windsor Tunnel, or even Detroit Metropolitan Airport, if the crime is done before the perpetrator even gets to an inspection point, critics say.

Besides the human safety concern, destroying any one of the border-crossing points would do serious harm to the auto industry, one of the United States' economic engines, and many other businesses that rely on just-in-time delivery of material. Michigan had $70 billion in trade with Canada in 2000.

"Every time I drive through that tunnel, I expect something to happen," said Jerome Almon, a Detroiter who drives to and from Toronto at least twice a month.

"Osama bin Laden says the economy is what they want to attack, and you cannot find a more decimating effect than that bridge or tunnel on our economy. You will kill Detroit, it's over, goodbye. But think of the effect on the rest of America."

Firearms an issue

Aside from jurisdiction, the question of whether U.S. Customs agents should carry firearms in Canada is of particular concern to Canadians. Canada is known for being much less tolerant of guns than the United States.

"Our Customs officers are not armed and at this point in time we still feel there is no reason for them to be," Proulx said.

"We have a study going on right now to determine whether the tools they have are adequate to do their jobs safely and with full security. The U.S. (agents) are (armed) and definitely that would be one of the snags in the issue."

The preclearance concept does have precedent. U.S. Customs agents inspect U.S.-bound passengers at six Canadian airports so they don't have to be routed through Customs once they arrive like travelers on flights from every other country, said former Michigan Gov. James Blanchard.

He spearheaded the "open skies" agreement when he was U.S. ambassador to Canada.

The real stumbling block to doing this at bridges and tunnels will be working out how much authority each side is given to enforce the other country's laws, he said.

"You could always prevent (a suspicious passenger) from getting on the plane," Blanchard said. "The question is who arrests them, can they say 'I choose not to fly' then go home, or do we hold them?"

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Detroit, said he thinks all of the issues can be worked out.

"The only impediment here is bureaucratic impediment," he said. "Even though there's supposed to be an urgency after Sept. 11, there seems to be some unnecessary foot-dragging."

Levin and Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, sent a letter to Customs Commissioner Robert Bonner on Jan. 4, insisting on a progress report by Friday.

"It is obvious that inspecting vehicles for dangerous contents such as bombs or explosives after they enter our tunnels or cross our bridges is inadequate," they wrote.

Customs spokesman Jim Michie said he wasn't sure when a decision would be made on reverse inspections, but that it was being closely studied.

Tighter local security

Local authorities say they've taken the steps they can to bolster security.

Travelers who use the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel are no longer allowed through unless operators are certain they can make to the other side without backups, said Gordon Jarvis, president of the Detroit & Canada Tunnel Corp.

"If there is an incident and you need to get out, there is space for you to do so, and there are fewer cars in the tunnel at any one time," Jarvis said. "It also makes it much easier for us to identify when there are incidents in the tunnel."

Jarvis said reverse inspections are a viable option at the tunnel, despite the smaller queue area, compared to other crossing points like the Ambassador Bridge.

The owners of the Ambassador Bridge have installed new lighting, fencing and surveillance cameras, as well as armed security 24 hours a day, said Dan Stamper, president of the Detroit International Bridge Co. Stamper said the bridge company is paying for the extra security.

"We're not sure whose responsibility it is for the cost of security, but we are not in the position to say it's not going to be done," he said.

The bridge authority has completed plans showing that logistically, preclearance can be implemented on an interim basis within 90 days, Stamper said. In doing so, there would be the added bonus of huge efficiencies in traffic flow.

"The current six lanes that cross the border, two at the tunnel and four at the bridge, become traffic lanes and not parking lots," Stamper said. "It increases the capacity of both the tunnel and the bridge, a lot more than anything else we can do today."

Blue Water Bridge study

Bruce Campbell, the engineer manager of the Blue Water Bridge, said the proposal is being examined as part of a long-term security review of the span connecting Port Huron with Sarnia, Ontario.

With the Ambassador Bridge being the busiest U.S.-Canada entry point, carrying 12 million vehicles a year, the economic implications for the region are enormous.

"One 18-wheeler goes across that bridge every eight seconds," said Carmine Palombo, director of transportation planning at the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The implications for the bridge and tunnel operators are significant as well.

"They're all looking at an out-of-pocket expense they hadn't anticipated," said Neil Gray, director of government affairs at the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association, which represents toll agencies.

"Nobody wants to do a toll increase to reflect this, in fact I'm not sure anyone has proposed one, but it's an issue we are all having to think about."

Protecting airports is a concern as well, though most of the attention has been on protecting aircraft against air piracy, Capt. Duane E. Woerth, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, told senators late last year.

Noting that airports in Rome and Vienna have been hit, Woerth said he's worried terrorists could attack ticket counters, check-in facilities and lines of passengers waiting outside.

Airlines, bridges and tunnels are experiencing lower traffic flow because of leisure travelers concerned about terrorist risks.

Almon, the Detroiter who travels to Toronto on business, said he's a former combat engineer with the Army and he's concerned about how easily a carload of explosives put together with store-bought material could take out the bridge or tunnel.

"At the mouth of the Detroit tunnel sits General Motors headquarters, a terrorist would get two for one with that," Almon said.

The issue with the Ambassador Bridge is equally troubled, the owner has successfully blocked a new bridge being built. The issue too closely resembles the Dubai Ports issue https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manuel_Moroun. Ottawa wrote me 90 days after my warning to CYA and because again what I warned them about occurred.

The largest portion of the trade comes through the tunnel and bridge mentioned https://www.commerce.gov/news/blog/2014/01/secretary-pritzker-highlights-strong-economic-partnership-between-usa-and-canada

Dr. Zagar-

Good to hear from you. I am sorry I just got to my email messages, I am working on several other huge projects that all come back to the migrant issue. I will have to hook up Skype, I don't know how it works to be honest.

The situation in the States is pretty dire. We are essentially at civil war with the country collapsing socially. All of the work that you and Dr. Feinstein did and your forecasts turned out to be 100% accurate. Simply put, America bet on the wrong people with the wrong plans and now we are getting our comeuppance.

I am against the re-settling of immigrants in the US or Europe, it will most certainly lead to more conflict in both areas and the Middle East. The only hope is establishing a safe zone in Syria and Iraq, which is as close to impossible as it gets considering the collapse of the basic structures and the radicalization of the factions. Electing George Bush was the worse event that has happened to the world since WWII. I will get on Skype and send you another email asap. I am moving to Berlin to work on a large social media project in the next 30-60 days. In the meantime I am sending these articles for your review concern my thoughts on the migrant issue. Would you be able to attend a conference on the issue of the migrants and school shooter issues in Europe or the US with all expenses and a fee paid to you?

The other issue I am extremely concerned about is a threat that would end Detroit, cost America 2 million jobs in a week, and plunge the stock market to below 2008 and 911 levels. The Iran deal was done in part due to Iran has 40,000 agents in or at America's borders prepared to attack if Iran's nuclear facilities were attacked. That is the good news, the bad news is the Sunnis have 3X that many agents in the US and are preparing for their "Islamic Tet offensive." With Russia, out of necessity intervening in the Syrian/Iraq war and the US govt. giving behind the scenes approval for the Russian-Iranian-Alawite axis which will inevitably bring in Israel and the US the Sunnis will go after the US and Canadians on their own soil in a much more aggressive and massive way. My assessment is that the Chinese will be drawn into the war due the unrest with the Xinjiang Province and the Uighars. The Islamic State (IS) has spread throughout Central Asia and will take Afghanistan and defeat the Taliban in the end unless there is a "mass war event." It is my contention that Putin has decided to that. He cannot lose the Syrian-Iraq War, he cannot allow the IS to continue to grow in the Central Asian Republics, and Afghanistan, and he is not giving up Crimea, and does not have the military resources nor money to fight a prolonged war. I believe Putin is planning to use a tactical/battle field nuclear weapon (NATO appears to be thinking that way on the Ukraine which is insane). Most of the intelligence guys that I respect believe that is the only way to stop the IS/Sunnis or to completely withdraw from the Middle East. What is your opinion?
Thanks-
Jerome

(My numbers on the size of the networks mentioned are accurate I assure you. 2 other respected security/intelligence officers that have a proven track record of accuracy, agree with me. The messages I sent to US authorities were more detailed and were sent in the Spring of 2014, and the Spring and Summer of 2015.)

WARNING TO AIRLINE INDUSTRY THAT FORESAW BRUSSELS ATTACK

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: THE THREAT OF TERRORISM TO THE TRAVEL INDUSTRY AND CORRECTIONS THAT MUST BE MADE
From: <act@preactdontreact.com>
Date: Sun, November 29, 2015 7:59 pm
To: president@apfa.org, Nancy.Rivard@airlineamb.org, public-comment@alliedpilots.org, PMcIsaac@americanpilots.org, comm.chair@alliedpilots.org
Cc: communications@apfa.org

Sir or Madam: I am forwarding the following information sent to first responders, due to its application to your industry. To be direct, I have warned your union several times since 9/11 of these very threats, and the actions of the leadership has not matched the threat. Unfortunately, this is the same conduct of law enforcement and political leadership regarding what is now a catastrophic situation. That is, the industry will suffer huge losses in both personnel and revenue due to the lack of taking prudent steps to pre-act rather than react to obvious threats. The only hope in negating or minimizing the threat is for the travel, hotel, and tourism industries along with the pilot and flight attendant unions (and their allies) to join forces and seek to have necessary security and industry support measures put in place without political consideration. The needed measures must be completely based on the real world security and economic threat that exists, and is getting worse by the minute. The losses France and Belgium are suffering are just the beginning, and minor in compared to an Egypt Air or Russian Sharm El Sheikh incident in North America or Europe. I assure you, the threat is far worse than is known even to most of the law enforcement community.

Sincerely,

Jerome Almon

UNADDRESSED THREATS TO YOUR INDUSTRY

-Foreign pilots compromised by ISIS or Al Qaeda committing an act similar to the pilot of Egypt Air 990 at an airport, city, or against another passenger airliner -An attack on airports using car/truck bombs and suicide bombers/shooters against shuttle buses and the non-secure areas of the airport such as ticketing -Compromised airport personnel (this is worse than is indicated here)

TRUE STATE OF THE TERRORIST THREAT IN AMERICA

From Canada's CIA (CSIS):
"Many Canadians may be surprised to learn that, with the exception of the United States, there are more terrorist groups active in Canada today than in any other country in the world."

VERIFICATION

The information was removed from the website in late 2013 due to White House protests, the largest number of these terrorist are at the South end and North end of the tunnel and bridge cited below.

ANALYSIS

Reviewing Clinton's Immigration Positions As Election Nears

Although Hillary Clinton hasn't been too vocal on business immigration issues such as the H-1B visa program this election cycle, it's worth noting the Democratic nominee has staked out some ambitious positions in other areas, including going beyond President Barack Obama's executive actions on deportation. Here, Law360 provides an overview of where the former secretary of state stands on the hot-button issue.

The AIA At 5: New Rules Bring New Patent Filing Strategies

The enactment of the America Invents Act five years ago this week fundamentally altered filing rules for patent applications, but those changes have in many ways have had less of an effect on patent prosecution than the law's new proceedings for challenging patents, attorneys say.

Fortiline: FTC's New Twist On 'Invitation To Collude'

The standards for proving an invitation to collude already are ambiguous. The Federal Trade Commission's recent action challenging piping distributor Fortiline brings further ambiguity, as this is the FTC's first invitation-to-collude case against an entity that is both a direct competitor with, and a distributor for, the alleged invitee, say attorneys with Jones Day.

Mitchell-Lama Cooperatives: An Alternative To Privatizing

Although New York's Mitchell-Lama program was intended to provide affordable housing, it allows Mitchell-Lama cooperatives to voluntarily privatize, which increases rent for New Yorkers. These cooperatives should consider an alternative option, the Article II to Article XI conversation program, says Erica Buckley of Stroock & Stroock & Lavan LLP.

A Look Inside The Future Of Telemedicine In Texas

In the last several years, Texas has generated significant news related to the disagreements between the Texas Medical Board and Teladoc, a telehealth medical provider. While the dispute and subsequent corollary issues linger in litigation, some telemedicine providers have been in a holding pattern with their business operations in Texas. However, there may be legislative and regulatory changes on the horizon, says Michelle Apodaca with Haynes and Boone LLP.

The Jesinoski Opinion Vs. The Statute Of Limitations

Although the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Jesinoski v. Countrywide Home Loans Inc. that borrowers do not need to file within a three-year period in order to enforce the right to rescind under the Truth-In-Landing Act, borrowers should respect that TILA rescission claims must be brought within a one-year period, say John Hosack and Jason Goldstein of Buchalter Nemer.

3 Secrets To Retaining Millennial Attorneys

Law firms that want to prevent millennial attorneys from moving to their competitors need to develop retention plans that adhere to the firm's culture while keeping an eye on the ethos of the under-35 set, who tend to prioritize work-life balance over long hours, according to legal industry experts. Here, Law360 looks at three secrets that will keep the future of your firm from leaving.

Davis Polk Wants Female Ex-Associates Back At Work

Davis Polk & Wardwell LLP is launching a “returnship” program aimed at attorneys who have taken a long break from the firm — namely, women who left to have and raise children — to help them transition back to full-time practice, the firm said Tuesday.

Female Partners at Chadbourne Disavow Discrimination Suit

A group of female partners at Chadbourne & Parke fired back at the attorney who filed a proposed class action alleging the firm discriminates against women, saying in a letter Monday that nobody consulted them about their experiences before filing suit on their behalf.

When Kirkland & Ellis LLP brings the entire fleet of 17 attorneys at Bancroft PLLC into its fold Oct. 1, the firm will gain a good deal more legal talent than former U.S. Solicitor General Paul Clement alone. Here, five other Bancroft attorneys that have turned heads with their legal prowess.

Scalia Won Battle Over Statutory Interpretation, Kagan Says

U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice Elena Kagan admitted Tuesday that the late Justice Antonin Scalia had, over his career, succeeded in impressing his unique view of statutory interpretation on even his most intractable colleagues, elevating the once low standing of textual analysis to something akin to reverence in the American legal system.

Pro Bono Firm Of 2016: Arnold & Porter

Arnold & Porter's defense of Planned Parenthood against illegal fetal-tissue sale allegations as well as its victories for an innocent man on death row and mentally ill defendants facing lengthy jail terms before trial are just three of the reasons the firm landed a place on Law360's Pro Bono Firms of 2016.

Rainmaker Q&A: McDermott's Ira Coleman

The hardest part of remaining a rainmaker is that every year, on Jan. 1, all of your columns go to zero and you have to start all over again. I use this time as an opportunity to reflect and get re-energized. I feel an obligation to myself and to my clients to do more and be better, says Ira Coleman, global head of McDermott Will & Emery’s corporate and transactional group.

Rainmaker Q&A: Baer & Troff's James Baer

Being a rainmaker is less about being a good lawyer and more about developing your business. Like brushing your teeth, you have to do it every single day. It requires constant attention and must be regarded with high importance, says James Baer, principal and founding partner at Baer & Troff LLP.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

The US Supreme Court In 2017

The ideologue’s main problem is believing in conformity of thought. They will now search for true believers, but fortunately very few judges harbor the dark, conservative uniformity desired. If they do find one, the Senate will not confirm, says James Brosnahan, a senior trial counsel with Morrison & Foerster LLP.

Tax Policy In The Trump Era: Part 1

Nearly three decades have passed since the last major overhaul of the U.S. tax code. Republican and Democratic policymakers agree (often for different reasons) that reform is needed. In the first of a three-part series, attorneys with Squire Patton Boggs consider unfinished tax business in the current lame duck session, then look at how tax policy, and prospects for reform, will be affected by changes in Congress and at federal agencies.

Post-Election Thoughts On Antitrust

President-elect Donald Trump has not outlined a formal antitrust policy agenda. However, the announcement that former Federal Trade Commissioner Joshua Wright will be leading the transition team effort for the FTC suggests that the administration may be at least considering a more traditional Republican approach to antitrust, says Pete Levitas of Arnold & Porter LLP.

5 Questions About The Future Of US Environmental Regs

The election of Donald Trump as the 45th president of the United States may spur the most significant changes to U.S. environmental laws since the 1970s. In this atmosphere of uncertainty, however, we hope to shed some light on the baseline questions about the future of environmental regulation, say attorneys at Hogan Lovells.

Measuring DCAA's Actual Progress On Incurred Cost Audits

In a recent memorandum to regional directors, the Defense Contract Audit Agency stated that it has reduced its incurred cost proposal backlog to under 18 months and can again provide audit support for non-U.S. Department of Defense entities. While the announcement is promising, congratulations may be premature, say Dave Nadler and David Yang of Blank Rome LLP.

CMS Outpatient Payment Rule: The Good And The Bad

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services recently issued its outpatient prospective payment system final rule, which included the much-anticipated changes to the treatment of off-campus provider-based departments. The final rule contains some good news and some bad news for both excepted and nonexcepted OPBDs, says Ann Hollenbeck, chairwoman of the health care practice group at Honigman Miller Schwartz and Cohn LLP.

Pennsylvania Attorney General Kathleen Kane renewed her allegations on Thursday that the criminal charges against her relating to grand jury leaks did not stand up because of a biased prosecution, after having an earlier filing dismissed on a technicality.

Fattah Pushed For Friend's Appointment, Sen. Tells Jury

A U.S. senator was called into federal court in Philadelphia on Wednesday to testify for prosecutors accusing Rep. Chaka Fattah, D-Pa., of taking bribes from a friend in exchange for his ultimately unsuccessful efforts to secure an ambassadorship from President Barack Obama.

NEW JERSEY

Gov. Christie Nominates NJ Acting AG As Judge

New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie on Thursday nominated Acting Attorney General Robert Lougy for a judge position in the state's superior court system, just three months after promoting him to serve as the state's top law enforcement official.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

What To Know About The DOL's New Overtime Regulations

After the 2015 release of its proposed changes to the overtime exemption regulations, many believed the U.S. Department of Labor would take the opportunity to amend the Fair Labor Standards Act's qualitative duties standards to more closely resemble California's model. However, for many employers the new rule appears as a compromise against what many in the industry feared would be a much broader reworking of the regulations, say attorneys at Littler Mendelson PC.

To Un-Jam Transportation Infrastructure Tenn. Tries P3s

Following the lead of at least 33 other states, Tennessee's new mass transit focused public-private partnership law should offer a solution to Nashville's growing traffic problem without dipping too deep into public coffers, say Zachary Jones and Cassidy Rosenthal at Stites & Harbison PLLC.

Inside FinCEN's Beneficial Ownership Final Rule

Institutions covered by the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network's recently published final rule extending customer due diligence requirements may need to amend their Bank Secrecy Act programs to include a new fifth pillar to the traditional "four pillars" of an effective anti-money laundering program. It is also important to keep in mind that federal functional regulators may set their own, additional supervisory expectations, say attorneys with Dykema Cox Smith.

3 Bad Habits Associates Need To Break Now

Snapping chewing gum can annoy others and biting fingernails can wreck a manicure, but young lawyers often exhibit more serious bad habits that have the potential to derail a career, experts say. Here, legal career coaches and attorneys share the top three bad habits holding associates back.

4 Rules For Handing Off A Client Before Retirement

Whether or not a major client remains with a retiring partner's law firm after they're gone hinges on how the outgoing attorney handles handing off the client to a younger face at the firm. Here are four rules for executing the perfect client transition.

McDermott Bumps Up New Recruits' Bar Exam Stipend To $5K

McDermott Will & Emery LLP gave recent law school graduates planning to join the firm one more reason to toss their caps this week by bumping up their stipend for expenses related to the looming bar exam to $5,000.

Thiel's Gawker Crusade Belies Business Of Litigation Funding

Paypal co-founder Peter Thiel's admission this week that he secretly bankrolled Hulk Hogan's sex-tape lawsuit against Gawker has thrown a spotlight onto third-party litigation funding, though industry experts say the billionaire's personally motivated patronage differs dramatically from how the business typically operates.

Law360's Weekly Verdict: Legal Lions & Lambs

Williams & Connolly LLP rose to the top of this week's list of legal lions when the Second Circuit threw out a $1.3 billion penalty against its client Bank of America in a fraud case, while Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati PC found itself among a flock of legal lambs for failing to thwart a $70 million trade secrets verdict against its client Neovasc Inc.

UK Proposals Aim New Sanctions At Offshore Tax Dodgers

U.K. taxpayers with offshore accounts will be forced to report undeclared tax liabilities before September 2018 or pay up to three times the amount owed, according to new proposals unveiled by British customs authorities on Wednesday.

DOL Defends Authority For Fiduciary Rule In DC Court

The D.C. federal judge presiding over the first major challenge to the U.S. Department of Labor's fiduciary rule said in court Thursday that he was puzzled over whether the agency had exceeded its authority by enabling investors to sue financial institutions under state contract law, suggesting such a right is normally conferred by Congress.

Biden Expects Gitmo Closure Before Obama Leaves Office

Vice President Joseph Biden said Thursday he expected that the contentious Guantanamo Bay military prison will be closed before the Obama administration exits the White House, drawing swift pushback from Republican lawmakers.

Nationwide Scope Of Immigration Action Block Challenged

An immigrant whose work authorization period was reduced after a Texas judge blocked President Barack Obama's immigration executive actions filed a complaint Thursday seeking to exempt New York residents from the Texas injunction, arguing that it is "unlawfully broad."

Texas Attys To Keep Right To Vote On Disciplinary Changes

Texas lawyers would retain their right to vote on proposed changes to state disciplinary rules under a plan approved this week by a state legislative committee, but the much-criticized rule-making process leading up to attorney voting would be modified.

Effort To Shrink Immigration Block Faces Steep Battle

A new suit in New York federal court hoping to narrow the scope of the block against President Barack Obama's immigration actions is being called "novel" and "creative" by experts, but they say the case may face a tough road ahead since federal judges don't often buck each other's injunctions.

ENERGY & ENVIRONMENTAL

Challengers Say 7th Circ. Decision Irrelevant To CPP Fight

Business groups opposed to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Clean Power Plan told the D.C. Circuit on Thursday that the court rulings the agency has cited to support the plan don't apply.

Green Groups Challenge Feds' Oil And Gas Leases Approval

WildEarth Guardians and Physicians for Social Responsibility sued the U.S. Department of the Interior and its Bureau of Land Management in D.C. federal court on Thursday, claiming that the approval of nearly 400 leases that allow for drilling and fracking on public lands across three western states flouted environmental law.

MEDIA & ENTERTAINMENT

NJ Agency OKs $1B Bonds For Delayed Meadowlands Project

The New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority on Thursday approved $1.15 billion in bonds for American Dream Meadowlands, breathing new life into the long-delayed retail and entertainment project that supporters say will pump thousands of jobs into the regional economy and critics claim will add to the area's traffic woes.

Philly Controller Faces Slander Suit Over 'Slush Fund' Claim

Philadelphia's city controller was slapped with a lawsuit on Thursday by a former city official claiming she was defamed in reports about a so-called "slush fund" in which money primarily from the proceeds of the Philadelphia Marathon was used to pay for pet projects of former Mayor Michael Nutter.

TRANSPORTATION & INFRASTRUCTURE

Port Authority Says NY Case Doesn't Impact AAA Toll Dispute

The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey told a federal judge Thursday that a recent court ruling that the New York State Thruway Authority improperly diverted toll revenues is irrelevant to the Automobile Club of New York's challenge to the bistate agency's 2011 plan raising bridge and tunnel fees.

DOD Releases Guidance On Military Lending Act

The U.S. Department of Defense on Thursday issued interpretive guidance on the Military Lending Act, meant to clarify several murky points in its regulation implementing the law, which is intended to protect service members from predatory lending.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

USTR Opens Door For More Tariff Cuts On Travel Goods

The Office of the U.S. Trade Representative on Thursday said it would consider expanding the tariff cuts granted to travel goods under the Generalized System of Preferences, heeding the calls of industry reps and lawmakers who said that the initial round of duty reductions was insufficient.

US Chicken Producers Squawk About Chinese Tariff Extension

U.S. chicken producers on Wednesday blasted the Chinese government's decision to extend countervailing duties on their products for another five years, claiming that Beijing is brazenly flouting a World Trade Organization decision that struck down the tariffs three years ago.

TAX

Industry Urges Simplicity, Consistency In BEPS Rule

The Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development released nearly 180 pages of stakeholder comments Thursday calling for a consistent and simple approach to the base erosion and profit-shifting project proposal for the so-called group ratio rule that would allow higher net interest tax deductions for multinationals.

IMMIGRATION

8th Circ. Revives 'No Risk' Spousal-Visa Petition Class Action

The Eighth Circuit Thursday revived a class action stemming from the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services' denial of a spousal visa petition filed by a U.S. citizen with a history of sexual abuse, saying the district court has jurisdiction over whether the so-called "no risk" requirement and other rules and statutes apply to his case.

After Congress Hack, FCC Urged To Hurry Phone Flaw Probe

U.S. Rep. Ted W. Lieu, D-Calif., has pressed the Federal Communications Commission to hasten its investigation into a cellphone security flaw in the wake of recent hacks targeting congressional members, saying the problem “is no longer a theoretical threat.”

EXPERT ANALYSIS

EPA Clean Water Rule Rests On High Court Army Corps Case

Even if the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's clean water rule survives all court challenges and becomes the law of the land, the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in U.S. Army Corps of Engineers v. Hawkes may impact its eventual implementation, because the decision would be applied to the category of waters in the rule known as “significant nexus” waters, says Kimberly Bick at Bick Law LLP.

Fantasy Overwhelms The Transfer Tax

The IRS recently proposed rules that are intended to prevent the undervaluation of transferred interests in corporations and partnerships for transfer tax purposes. However, these regulations are overreaching and decry the principles of economic reality used in business valuation, says Steven Horowitz of Horowitz & Rubenstein LLC.

A Facelift For IP-Licensing Antitrust Guidelines

The Federal Trade Commission and the U.S. Department of Justice recently announced that they are seeking public views on a set of proposed updates to the 1995 Antitrust Guidelines for the Licensing of Intellectual Property. The proposed guidelines may be most interesting for what they do not change, say attorneys with Vinson & Elkins LLP.

More Restrictions On Physician Noncompetes Ahead?

Recently, several states have followed the trend toward constraining the use of restrictive covenants in agreements with medical practitioners. Although the specific language in the new statutes differs, they all limit employers’ ability to craft restrictive employment contracts, shifting negotiating power back to doctors, say attorneys at Hinckley Allen & Snyder LLP.

What Happens When A State Runs Out Of Money?

A number of states, including Illinois, New Jersey and Ohio, could become insolvent in the next two decades. It is not too early for Congress and the next president to start planning. Both the Detroit and Puerto Rico bankruptcies were preceded by years of denial in the face of increasingly inevitable facts, says Joseph Kennedy, former chief economist for the U.S. Department of Commerce.

3 Ways Law Firms Can Avoid Conflicts Of Interest

Every law firm wants to bring in work and increase its client roster. However, it's not a good idea to take on just any client, as conflicts of interest can cause headaches and dampen business. Law360 spoke with experts who shared advice on how to avoid such dilemmas.

Firms Bumping Revenue With Rate Hikes, Not More Work

Revenues for 130 mid- to large-size law firms have risen nearly 3.5 percent on average so far this year, according to a report from a Wells Fargo division obtained by Law360 on Thursday, but that increase stems from a few firms that outperformed their peers, mainly by increasing hourly rates.

Sidley Austin, Clyde & Co. Names Used In Phishing Scams

Clients of major law firms should be on high alert because email scammers are now regularly using the names of prominent firms to lure in their victims, with Clyde & Co. targeted on Thursday and Sidley Austin LLP last week, U.K. watchdogs have said.

Law360's Weekly Verdict: Legal Lions & Lambs

Attorneys representing Michelin and Takata were the top legal lions this week, convincing a Florida jury Wednesday to clear the parts makers of an $80 million personal injury suit, while Proskauer Rose LLP was a legal lamb after its arguments to the NLRB fell on deaf ears and the board ruled graduate students at Columbia University can unionize.

Litigation Powerhouse: Weil Gotshal & Manges

Weil Gotshal & Manges LLP has a reputation as a go-to litigation firm, and over the past year, it has succeeded in delivering victories to clients in several high-profile cases, from a big win in Morgan Stanley's first jury trial in over a decade to the complete dismissal of a $24 billion class action against Credit Suisse, earning the firm a place among Law360's Litigation Powerhouses.

NY Court Hands Deceased Attorney's Clients To Local Bar

A New York appeals court on Thursday answered a question that may haunt many lawyers who haven't heeded the call of succession planning yet: What happens to my practice when I'm gone?

Magic Circle Inroads Mean Midmarket UK Firms Must Scale Up

U.K. law firms focused on middle-market clients are seeing their work go to larger Magic Circle competitors, and in order to survive the squeeze they need to join forces with an accountant or a financial services firm and become a multidisciplinary practice, a report released Thursday said.

Rainmaker Q&A: Jackson Lewis' Felice Ekelman

Maintaining and solidifying client loyalty is based on trust. Clients trust attorneys who they believe understand them, their business and their goals. The only way to understand a client is to listen well, says Felice Ekelman, principal at Jackson Lewis PC.

Rainmaker Q&A: Atkinson Andelson's Nate Kowalski

Getting clients to trust you to solve their problems doesn't happen overnight. In one case, it took at least a dozen correspondences and two years of courtship before I got assigned one small case. As Christopher Morley said, "Big shots are only little shots who keep shooting," says Nate Kowalski of Atkinson Andelson Loya Ruud & Romo.

White Paper: Top 7 account opening predictions

Research shows that while 70% of applicants would prefer to submit a digital application, less than a quarter of new checking accounts are opened online. The gap suggests a poor user experience, an area in which financial institutions lag other sectors. That, in turn, points to the first prediction in a new white paper: "User Experience (UX) Will Be Crowned King." Sponsored by Bottomline Technologies. Read more

White Paper: Making the case for insourcing in financial services

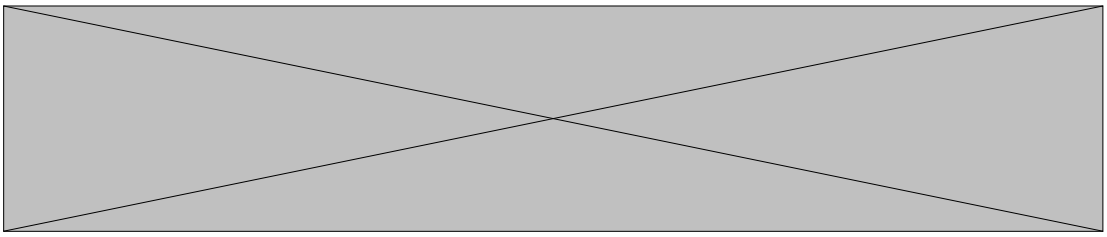
Subject: Harris, Colleagues Take Action to Curb the Epidemic of Gun Violence

A message from Senator Kamala D. Harris

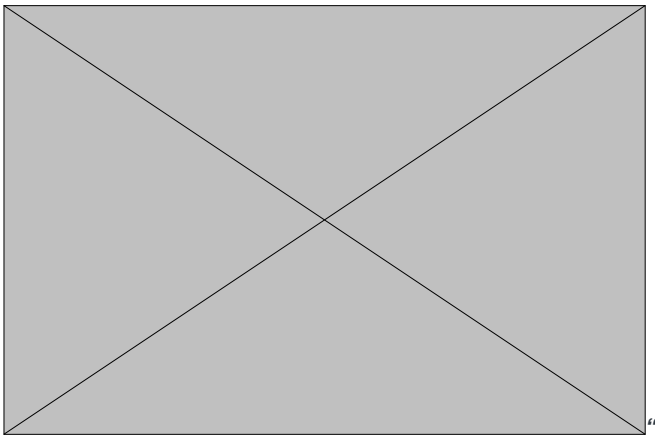


Harris, Colleagues Take Action to Curb the Epidemic of Gun Violence

Dear Friend,

This week, we learned of unspeakable news out of Las Vegas. Our brothers and sisters from across the state were injured and murdered by a single gunman. I send my deepest condolences to all the victims and their families.

I wanted to share with you Senator Harris' sentiments following the tragedy in Las Vegas:



"This morning, we awoke to horrific news out of Las Vegas. More than 50 people were murdered and over 500 more injured, at the hands of a lone gunman. Our hearts break for the victims and their families. We pray for a full recovery for those wounded, and are grateful to the brave first responders for their heroic actions on the scene. My thoughts are especially with the California officers and firefighters who were injured. This kind of tragedy has become too routine in America. As a nation, we are weary. We've lost far too many of our classmates, friends, family members, and children to gun violence. That's why as we pray for those recovering, we also must commit ourselves to action. Another moment of silence won't suffice. Ninety Americans are killed, on average, every day by guns. We cannot simply throw up our hands or continue to justify the presence of weapons of war whose primary purpose is to kill the largest number of human beings in the shortest amount of time possible. We must honestly acknowledge the epidemic of gun violence and work together, now, to curb it."

In an interview with KQED, the Senator mentioned "we don't need weapons of war on the streets of America." In fact, this is not about upending the Second Amendment or the right to responsibly own guns. Instead, people need to be reasonable. "I think all the people who are going to express an opinion about whether or not we're going to have reasonable gun safety laws should be forced to look at the autopsy photographs of the victims of that violence," Senator Harris said. "And then, speak with their conscience and speak with courage."

As Senator Harris expressed, we must work together now to curb the epidemic of gun violence. That being said, here are a few bills that Senator Harris introduced this week:

On Wednesday, Senator Harris (D-Calif.) joined Senator Dianne Feinstein (D-Calif.) and 37 Democrats in introducing the Automatic Gun Fire Prevention Act, a bill to close a loophole that allows semi-automatic weapons to be easily modified to fire at the rate of automatic weapons, which have been illegal for more than 30 years. This bill would ban the sale, transfer, importation, manufacture or possession of bump stocks, trigger cranks and similar accessories that accelerate a semi-automatic rifle's rate of fire.

In addition, Senator Harris also co-sponsored Senator Mendez's Keep Americans Safe Act, Senator Blumenthal's Equal Justice for Victims of Gun Violence Act, and the Background Check Completion Act.

If you or a loved one is a victim of the Las Vegas shooting, the California Vitim Compensation Board may be able to provide financial assistance.

Hold your loved ones tight today and every day. And let's be clear – the loss of each one of our fellow Americans impacts a whole community, including our communities in California. When we allow this type of violence in our society, we all suffer, and that is why we must roll up our sleeves and act now.

Thanks,
Julie

Carolyn G. –

We've just released a new poll showing massive support for Dreamers – and Congress needs to hear about it. Can you call your Members of Congress now and make sure they know about this important new poll?

Along with our partners at TargetPoint Consulting, we polled Republican and conservative voters about their attitudes towards Dreamers – and the results are stunning:

- 80% of conservative and Republican voters support a deal to increase border security in exchange for protections for Dreamers.
- Among Trump's base, the numbers are even more striking, with 86%* of Trump base voters supporting a border security for Dreamers deal.

Tell your Members of Congress to side with the American people – not the tiny minority of anti-immigrant extremists.

It's clear from these numbers that no matter where Americans fall on the political spectrum, they support Dreamers. Creating a solution for Dreamers is good economics, good politics, and simply the right thing to do.

Please, call your Members of Congress right now to make sure they know about this critical new poll.

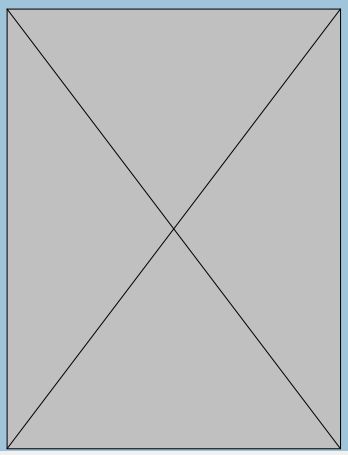
How Digital Banking is Transforming Fraud Detection



Financial institutions are undergoing a digital revolution. But finding the sweet spot between new opportunities and the inherent risks of a digital world is a challenge. The need to deliver a seamless user experience must be matched by strong and user-friendly fraud protection. This white paper from IBM summarizes how the digital revolution is changing banking and how fraud detection must evolve to keep pace.

Learn Four Strategies to Help Mitigate Risk:

1. Leveraging behavioral biometrics
2. Gaining cross-channel visibility
3. Receiving adaptive intelligence fueled by cognitive technologies
4. Using solutions that support "white box" analytics

Quote of the Day

"What everyone should be taking away from this study is that when the leagues are pushing for integrity fees and or legal requirements for purchasing of data, they really are tripping over dollars to pick up pennies when it comes to the grand scheme of the revenues that they would gain through legal sport betting."

From the Editors

Revenues for the National Football League could increase by more than $2 billion a year by 2020 as a result of legal sports gambling, according to a study commissioned by the American Gaming Association. Our Humberto Sanchez looked at the study and talked to the interested parties in this story.

Subject: [Marketing Mail] Out of Network Providers: Maximize recovery against health plans and generate more revenue

Good morning,

Patients are increasingly seeking out-of-network (OON) services and this trend is expected to continue. As consumer demand drives out of network activity, ínsurance companies are coming up with OON benefits integrated in their policies.

Since OON reimbursement tends to be higher than in-network reimbursement, payers use different strategies to discourage it, including bill reduction tactics, limits on benefits policies and third-párty rental agreements that lower reimbursement. Out-of-network represents the last great opportunity for many providers to increase their reimbursement. But remember, what has worked for you in the past is no longer effective in recovering revenue for your practice. The climate has changed and so must you!

Join expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., in this On-demand Webinar—"Everything the Out-of-Network Provider Needs to Know to Generate More Revenue for its Practice" tomorrow, Tue, Jun 28, 2016, to get deeper insights on effective revenue recovery techniques for your out-of-network services. Get strategies to maximize recovery against health plans while ensuring that your patients pay their fair share of charges. Thomas will analyze and discuss in detail the procedures necessary to be successful as an OON provider—starting with scheduling and involving the entire revenue cyclè.

Plus, you will receive instructions for revising patient forms, drafting appeals and balance bill letters, and steps necessary in holding the health plan accountable to the law.

You'll get 1 AAPC CEU from this event.

Session Highlights:

- Discussion on Out-of-Network claims
- Out-of-Network v. In-Network—the advantages and disadvantages
- The importance of patient disclosures and upfront estimates of charges
- ERISA: Friend or Foe?
- How to use ERISA law to appeal denied and under-reimbursed claims for employer-sponsored plans
- Are You Getting an Appropriate Response From the Health Plan?
- What is a recoupment and what to do when faced with one?
- How to get a full and fair review in case of a recoupment?
- Affordable Care Act (ACA) Emergency Services Mandate
- How to object to and defend health plan recoupments
- The importance of Charity Care Program/ Financial Hardship Policy
- Review of dispute resolution for emergency services
- Review of dispute resolution for non-emergency "Surprise Bills"
- Timing of Benefit Determination
- Manner and Content Rules
- Fee Forgiveness (ínsurance fraud)—how to avoid them
- Interplay with State Insurancè Laws
- Disclosure rules
- Dispute Resolution for Emergency and Non-Emergency Services
- Insights on Affordable Care Act and the emergency services mandate
- Mandatory disclosures for OON providers
- Expanded consumer protections

The role of the CFO is changing. It's become more strategically-focused, more value-focused, and more future-focused. The modern CFO must approach strategy formulation and performance monitoring in a manner than goes beyond reporting to provide accurate, actionable business insights.

According to pwc, the modern finance organization must "evolve from an emphasis on rigorous planning and budgeting to building business acumen and designing effective collaboration models." To deliver on this value proposition finance must provide planning solutions that link operational metrics to financial plans and forecasts.

This session will present:

- Technology drivers impacting adoption of EPM solutions
- Ways to systematize business planning and consolidation, profitability management, and compliance

- How to drive collaboration across the enterprise
- How to bridge the communication gap between finance and operations

Speaker:

Jim Perry
Director of EPM Enablement Infor

How The ACA Survived A 7-Year War

The Affordable Care Act has cheated death over and over during the past seven years, evading a number of potentially lethal lawsuits and somehow surviving the slings and arrows of a federal government controlled by hostile Republicans. Here's a look at the ACA's improbable journey through a harrowing gauntlet of legal and political attacks. Read more »

3 Questions Environmental Attorneys Have About CERCLA

The Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act provides the federal government with a framework for allocating liability when multiple polluters have contaminated a site. But as enforcers have begun tackling larger and larger Superfund sites, uncertainties about how exactly the law applies — and how accused polluters may use it against each other — have snowballed. This is the sixth in a seven-part series on important open questions in environmental law. Read more »

BYOD is dead! Long live CYOD

So writes Lee Naik, managing director, Accenture Digital, in a blog on LinkedIn. He states that: "…the real issue with [Bring Your Own Device] is the enforceability of security policies. Keeping a BYOD fleet secure is quite simply nearly impossible. Most devices contain or give access to proprietary enterprise information. According to Gartner, one in four business users surveyed admit to having a security issue on their private device. ...

"Happily, all these issues are adequately addressed by an evolutionary off-shoot of BYOD—choose-your-own-device (CYOD). Allowing employees to choose between pre-approved devices, CYOD makes concessions for user choice without sacrificing enterprise control." Read more

Police Need to Get Social

Social media has become ubiquitous–everyone from the Pope to your second grade English teacher has a following. The one group that's lagging behind? Law enforcement. That's not to say that police aren't investing in technology–quite the opposite, in fact. "Law enforcement organizations invest pretty heavily in technology, but it's not clear when that technology actually improves public safety," Mark Forman, former Federal CIO and current global head for the Public Sector at Unisys, told MeriTalk State & Local. A recent report from Unisys found that more than 1,500 urbanites from ages 18 to 74 in Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, and Philadelphia want more online interaction with law enforcement.

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S.

Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Narrative

On today's date and time, victim Floyd Mayweather Sr., came to Metro Police Records to report a Fraud.

Mayweather stated the following:

On or about June 24, 2015, the suspect, Ann Barlow, and the victim, Floyd Mayweather Sr., entered into a business partnership. Ann Barlow stated she was a publisher and that she would promote Mayweather's Sr. foundation, the Floyd Mayweather Foundation, and that she was also a tax preparer.

During the course of the last two months, Ann has stolen money from the account that belongs to Mayweather Sr.'s, foundation. The monies that are in the account are used to assist people. Suspect Ann Barlow began removing monies from this account for personal use. She also gained access to Mayweather Sr., social security number and the social security number was used to open up credit cards without his permission.

Mayweather Sr., stated at no time did he give her permission to remove, borrow or otherwise take away any funds from his foundation and from any bank accounts. On 09/15/15, a letter from Mayweather Sr., attorney, Taylor L. Randolph, Esq., sent a Notice to Cease and Desist Communication and Notice of Termination of Unenforceable Agreement, to the suspect Ann Barlow. This letter stated she was to cease and desist all communication with Mayweather Sr. Even after the letter was sent to her, Ann Barlow continued to harass Mayweather Sr., to include making face-to-face contact with him, taking pictures and continuing to ask him for money.

It was also learned through the course of this report, Ann Barlow was also extorting money from two other alleged victims, Dieter Wiesner and Johnny Gill's friend (name unknown). Ann allegedly extorted approximately $10,000.00 from Dieter and approximately $7,000.00 from Johnny Gill's friend. Both of these victims will be forthcoming and this report taker will add their information to this report upon receipt.

Documents are included with this report as attachments and will be scanned into Onbase.

RE: Floyd Mayweather Sr. and Floyd Mayweather Foundation

NOTICE TO CEASE AND DESIST COMMUNICATION AND NOTICE OF TERMINATION OF UNENFORCEABLE AGREEMENT

Dear Ms. Barlow,

This firm represents Floyd Mayweather Sr. and Floyd Mayweather Foundation (collectively "Mr. Mayweather") with respect to the agreement Mr. Mayweather entered into with Positive Image Consulting Services & PR ("PIC") dated June 24, 2015 (the "Agreement"). Please direct any future correspondence to this office.

This correspondence is our formal notice to you and PIC to cease and desist all further communication with Mr. Wayweather except for the reasons specifically set forth in applicable federal law. All future calls, inquiries and correspondence should be directed to this office only.

Further, this correspondence is Mr. Mayweather's notice to PIC of the termination of the Agreement. As is explained below, the Agreement is unenforceable under Nevada law because there was no meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and PIC. Further, even if the Agreement were somehow enforceable, this letter marks the end of it.

It is well settled in Nevada that basic contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration. See Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012). A meeting of the minds exists only when the parties have agreed upon the contract's essential terms. See Id. Without a meeting of the minds between the parties as to the essential terms of the contract, there is nothing to enforce.

Here, the Agreement is unenforceable since there was never a meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and PIC concerning its essential terms. Mr. Mayweather understood that he was signing for the purpose of setting up a foundation to raise money to help people with auto immune disease. Mr. Mayweather believed that the purpose of the Agreement was so that he could have assistance with setting up the foundation, since he has no prior experience in that area. He signed the Agreement for that specific purpose. He never had any intention to enter into any sort of agreement for public relations representation with PIC or any other entity.

However, the Agreement, which was prepared by PIC and presumably contains its intentions, speaks to an arrangement for public relations consulting. If Mr. Mayweather had understood that what he was signing concerned public relations consulting instead of assistance in setting up a foundation for auto immune disease, he never would have signed it. There was clearly never a meeting of the minds when it comes to the Agreement, since each party's understanding of the basic intentions of the Agreement are completely distinct from one another. Because there was no meeting of the minds concerning the Agreement's essential terms, there is nothing to be enforced from it.

Moreover, in the virtually inconceivable case that the Agreement were to somehow be determined enforceable, PIC has already violated its terms and breached the Agreement at least twice. The terms of the Agreement provide that "the Basic Fee does not include certain costs and expenses all of which require prior approval by client." See Addendum A (emphasis added). As paragraph 4(a) of the Agreement further provides, Mr. Mayweather agreed to begin paying the "Basic Fee" starting January 1, 2016, and it was to be a total of 10% of earnings derived by PIC and nothing more.

Therefore, any cost or expense whatsoever to Mr. Mayweather through December 31, 2015, and then any cost or expense beyond the Basic Fee after that, must be specifically authorized by Mr. Mayweather according to the terms of the Agreement. On at least two occasions PIC has already forced or attempted to force Mr. Mayweather to incur certain costs and expenses without his prior approval. First, PIC called Mr. Mayweather's financial advisor Mark and asked him to wire upwards of $60,000 from Mr. Mayweather's bank account without Mr. Mayweather's prior knowledge.

Then, again without consulting Mr. Mayweather, PIC set up a fundraising event at Caesars and to Mr. Mayweather's knowledge PIC received $10,000 from Dieter Wiesner. These funds were wired without Mr. Mayweather's knowledge and consent and we hereby demand that you refund these funds to Dieter Wiesner. Mr. Mayweather has not seen these funds, nor does he want to benefit from any such deposits purportedly made to benefit Floyd Mayweather Foundation.

Both examples as detailed above represent breaches of the Agreement since any such action would obviously require Mr. Mayweather's specific approval under the Agreement.

Further, since the Agreement is not enforceable and hereby terminated as of the date of this correspondence, any agreements and/or contracts that have been entered into deriving from the Agreement are hereby also deemed terminated and unenforceable. Mr. Mayweather does not have extensive knowledge of what these agreements and/or contractual obligations these may be, but one such agreement that was brought to his attention by Marsha Stewart is the Non-Disclosure Agreement entered into on August 11, 2015 by and between Mr. Mayweather and/or PCI and Marsha Stewart. Mr. Mayweather is not a signatory to this Non-Disclosure Agreement and hereby releases Marsha Stewart from any contractual obligations related to same. It is Mr. Mayweather's understanding that Marsha Stewart has already noticed you of the termination of the Non-Disclosure Agreement.

Finally, seeing as the contract does not limit either parties ability to do so in any way, it is plain that the Agreement may be terminated for any or no reason by either party. Pursuant to Paragraph 5(a) of the Agreement, in the event of termination, Mr. Mayweather shall pay PIC "all amounts due... through the date of termination." As was discussed above, the total amounts that could ever be due to PIC under the Agreement include the Basic Fee and any pre-approved costs or expenses. As is also explained above and in Paragraph 4(a) of the Agreement, the Basic Fee expense does not start until January 1, 2016. And as of right now, there have been no costs or expenses pre-approved by Mr. Mayweather pursuant to the Agreement. As such, since the Agreement is terminated as of the date of this correspondence, there are no fees due to PIC as of the date of termination and both parties can go their separate ways without any further liability to one another.

Very truly yours,

DISTRICT COURT

CLARK COUNTY, NEVADA

FLOYD MAYWEATHER SR., an individual; FLOYD JOY MAYWEATHER FOUNDATION, a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation, Plaintiffs, vs. ANN BARLOW, an individual; TIM CHAN, an individual; DOES I through X, inclusive; ROE CORPORATIONS XI through XX, inclusive, Defendants.	CASE NO.: A-15-725238-C DEPT NO.: XXXI COMPLAINT [EXEMPT FROM ARBITRATION AS AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY EXCEEDS $50,000]

Plaintiffs Floyd Mayweather Sr. ("Mr. Mayweather"), an individual, and Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation (the "Foundation"; collectively with Mr. Mayweather, the "Plaintiffs"), a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation, complains against the defendants Ann Barlow ("Barlow") and Tim Chan ("Chan"; collectively with Barlow, the "Defendants") as follows:

1. Mr. Mayweather is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.
2. The Foundation is a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation headquartered in Clark County, Nevada.

3. Upon information and belief, Defendant Barlow is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.

4. Upon information and belief, Defendant Chan is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.

5. The actions complained of herein occurred in Clark County, Nevada.

6. The true names and capacities of the defendants designated as Doe or Roe Corporations are presently unknown to Plaintiffs at this time, who therefore sue said defendants as fictitious names. When the true names and capacities of these defendants are ascertained, Plaintiffs will amend this Complaint accordingly.

7. At all pertinent times, Defendants were agents, servants, employees or joint venturers of every other Defendant, and at all times mentioned were acting within the scope and course of said agency, employment, or joint venture, with knowledge and permission and consent of all other name Defendants.

8. Mr. Mayweather is a former professional boxer who previously suffered from Sarcoidosis.

9. On or about June 1, 2015, Mr. Mayweather engaged with Defendant Barlow in order to get assistance setting up a non-profit corporation for Sarcoidosis and other ailments that former fighters often suffer from.

10. On or about June 24, 2015, Mr. Mayweather entered into a contract with Barlow for the purpose of getting assistance setting up the above-mentioned non-profit (the "Agreement").

11. Unbeknownst to Mr. Mayweather, the Agreement, which Barlow prepared for Mr. Mayweather's signature, concerned an arrangement for public relations consulting rather than an arrangement for obtaining assistance in setting up a non-profit foundation.

12. Mr. Mayweather would not have signed the Agreement had he known it concerned public relations consulting.

13. The Agreement provided that Mr. Mayweather would pay Barlow 10% of his earnings starting January 1, 2016.

14. The Agreement provided that any other costs or fees must be approved by Mr. Mayweather.

15. On or about July 31, 2015, Barlow filed Articles of Incorporation with the Nevada Secretary of State to form the Foundation.

16. The Articles of Incorporation name Barlow as registered agent, and the Defendants and Mr. Mayweather as members of the board of directors.

17. On or before July 31, 2015, Mr. Mayweather opened a bank account at Chase bank as Floyd Joy Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation (the "Bank Account").

18. As of the morning of September 11, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $13,845.19.

19. On September 11, 2015, Barlow made 7 teller withdraws from the Bank Account totaling approximately $8,603.00, and used the Bank Account's debit card to spend roughly $4,500.00 on approximately 10 other transactions.

20. By September 12, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $722.96.

21. Barlow was not authorized to withdraw or spend money from the Bank Account.

22. Upon information and belief, Barlow used the funds from the Bank Account for personal endeavors.

23. On or about September 15, 2015, Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow ordering her to cease and desist all contact with Mr. Mayweather, and explaining that the Agreement was unenforceable or otherwise terminated as of the date of the letter.

24. Despite the correspondence, Barlow continued to attempt to be involved in Mr. Mayweather's dealings.

25. On or about September 22, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a police report concerning Barlow's conduct.

26. To Plaintiff's knowledge and belief Defendant is using his name and image on various websites and media, such as facebook, twitter, Instagram and others without his permission and Plaintiff is seeking Defendant to seize same.

27. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' actions, Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of an attorney, incurring attorney's fees and costs to bring this action.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Declaratory Relief – Unenforceable Agreement)

28. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

29. Nevada contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration. See Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012).

30. Because Mr. Mayweather and Barlow failed to have a meeting of the mind concerning the essential terms of the Agreement, it is unenforceable under Nevada Law.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Declaratory Relief – Termination of Agreement)

31. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

32. The terms of the Agreement provide that it may be terminated by either party at any time for any or no reason.

33. If it were ever enforceable, Plaintiffs' correspondence terminated the Agreement as of September 15, 2015.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Fraudulent Misrepresentation)

34. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

35. Barlow falsely represented to Mr. Mayweather that the Agreement pertained to him gaining assistance in setting up a non-profit organization.

36. Barlow knew that the Agreement concerned public relations consulting and intended to induce Mr. Mayweather into signing by telling him the Agreement was about the Foundation.

37. Mr. Mayweather relied on Barlow's misrepresentations and has incurred more than $10,000.00 in damages because of that reliance.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Constructive Fraud)

38. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

39. As members of the Foundation's board of directors, Defendants owed Plaintiffs a fiduciary duty.

40. Defendants breached that duty by misrepresenting their intentions for the Foundation and embezzling funds.

41. Defendants have incurred more than $10,000 in damages because of Defendants' breach.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of Fiduciary Duty)

42. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

43. As members of the Foundation's board of directors, Defendants owed Plaintiffs a fiduciary duty.

44. Defendants breached that duty.

45. Defendants have incurred more than $10,000 in damages because of Defendants' breach.

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of Contract)

46. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

47. The Agreement provides that any and all costs to Mr. Mayweather must be approved before incurred.

48. Barlow participated in at least 17 financial transactions involving Mr. Mayweather's money and failed to ask for approval.

49. Barlow's breach of contract has caused Plaintiffs to incur more than $10,000.00 in damages due to Barlow's breach.

SEVENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing)

50. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

51. Mr. Mayweather and Barlow entered into the Agreement and Barlow owed Mr. Mayweather a duty of good faith arising from the Agreement.

52. An element of fiduciary duty existed between Mr. Mayweather and Barlow.

53. Barlow breached the duty of good faith and fair dealing by engaging in misconduct involving taking funds from the Foundation.

54. Barlow's breach of contract has caused Plaintiffs to incur more than $10,000.00 in damages due to Barlow's breach.

EIGHTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Unjust Enrichment)

55. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

56. Defendants unjustly retained the money or property of Defendants against fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscious.

NINTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Conversion)

57. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

58. Barlow committed a distinct act of dominion wrongfully exerted over the funds in the Bank Account.

59. Barlow did not have a right to the funds in the Bank Account.

60. The funds in the Bank Account belong to Plaintiffs, and Barlow's act was in derogation, exclusion, or defiance of Plaintiffs' right and title to those funds.

TENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Protection Order)

61. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

62. Barlow continues to harass Mr. Maywcather despite correspondence and instruction not to.

63. Mr. Mayweather requires a protection order from the Court in order to prevent Barlow's continued harassment.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for judgment against Defendants as follows:

1. That the Court declare the Agreement unenforceable under Nevada law.
2. That the Court declare the Agreement terminated as of September 15, 2015.
3. That the Court grant judgment in favor of Plaintiffs in an amount greater than $10,000.00 to be determined at trial, plus interest, costs and attorneys' fees.
4. That the Court award Plaintiffs punitive damages in an amount to be determined at trial.
5. That the Court grant a protection order in favor of Mr. Mayweather against Barlow.
6. For such other and further relief that the Court may consider just and proper.

AFFIDAVIT OF TAYLOR L. RANDOLPH

I, Taylor L. Randolph, counsel for Plaintiffs in the above-captioned matter, hereby declare the following:

1. I am an attorney with the Randolph Law Firm, P.C. and based on the verified Complaint I have knowledge of the facts set forth herein and Plaintiff is competent to testify thereto if called upon to do so. I make this Declaration of support of Plaintiffs Motion for Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction on Order Shortening Time (the "Motion").
2. Good cause exists to expedite the hearing on this Motion, since the Plaintiffs could be potentially stolen from and otherwise harassed without the Court's intervention.
3. After personal attempts for a phone conference and communication by mail, and sincere effort to do so, I have been unable to resolve this matter without Court action.
4. Without an order from this Court, the Defendants will continue to have access to the Plaintiffs' property and be able to harass Mr. Mayweather. Every day that passes before a hearing on this issue could cost Mr. Mayweather both his money and sanity.
5. This Application for Order Shortening Time is made in good faith.
6. I swear under Penalty of Perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

I. INTRODUCTION

This is a straightforward Motion. Plaintiffs are asking this honorable Court to order two things:

1. That the Defendants be restrained from any and all further communication, contact, and association with Plaintiffs and their business; and
2. That the agreement the Plaintiffs and Barlow entered into on June 24, 2015 is unenforceable or, in the alternative, was terminated as of September 15, 2015.

The straightforwardness of this Motion comes from the simplicity of the facts, which show that the Court has good cause to enter a protection order in favor of the Plaintiffs and to declare the above-mentioned agreement unenforceable or otherwise terminated. As is shown below, because Plaintiffs are likely to win on the merits of these issues and would be irreparably harmed without the Court's help, this Motion should be granted.

II. RELEVANT FACTS

Mr. Mayweather is a former professional boxer and current professional boxing trainer. During a period of time in the past, Mr. Mayweather suffered from Sarcoidosis, an inflammatory disease that often affects former boxers. On or about June 1, 2015, Mr. Mayweather engaged Barlow for the purpose of gaining her assistance in setting up a non-profit organization for Sarcoidosis and other ailments that typically affect former fighters. Mr. Mayweather had no personal experience setting up non-profit corporations, and was made to understand that Barlow did.

On or about June 24, 2015, Mr. Mayweather signed a contract that was prepared by Barlow (the "Agreement"). Mr. Mayweather understood that the Agreement concerned the Foundation, the non-profit that he wanted to start. However, the Agreement actually concerned an arrangement for Barlow to provide public relations consulting for the Plaintiffs. Mr.

Mayweather did not know the Agreement concerned public relations consulting and would not have executed it had he known. The terms of the Agreement provided that Mr. Mayweather would pay Barlow 10% of his earnings starting January 1, 2016, and that any other fees or expenses would require specific approval from Mr. Mayweather.

On or about July 31, 2015, Barlow filed Non-Profit Articles of Incorporation with the Nevada Secretary of State to form the Foundation. The Articles of Incorporation list Barlow as the Foundation's registered agent, and the Defendants and Mr. Mayweather as the members of the board of directors. Shortly before that point in time, Mr. Mayweather opened a bank account at Chase Bank as Floyd Joy Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation (the "Bank Account").

As of the morning of September 11, 2015, the Bank Account had a balance of $13,845.19. On September 11, 2015, Barlow made 7 teller withdraws from the Bank Account totaling approximately $8,603.00, and used the Bank Account's debit card to spend roughly $4,500.00 on approximately 10 other transactions. By September 12, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $722.96. Barlow was not authorized to withdraw or spend money from the Bank Account.

On or about September 15, 2015, Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow ordering her to cease and desist all contact with Mr. Mayweather, and further explaining that the Agreement was unenforceable or otherwise terminated as of the date of the letter. Despite the letter, Barlow has continued to attempt to contact and be involved with the Plaintiffs and their dealings. On September 22, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a police report about Barlow's conduct.

III. ARGUMENT

A. Legal Standard.

The Nevada Supreme Court has stated that a "preliminary injunction is available if an applicant can show a likelihood of success on the merits and a reasonable probability that the non-moving party's conduct, if allowed to continue, will cause irreparable harm. The district court may also weigh the public interest and the relative hardships of the parties in deciding whether to grant a preliminary injunction." Clark Cnty. Sch. Dist. V. Buchanan, 112 Nev. 1146, 1149, 924 P.2d 716, 719 (1996) (internal citations omitted); see also NRS 33.010 (codifying the cases in which "[a]n injunction may be granted"); see also Dixon v. Thatcher, 103 Nev. 414, 415, 742 P.2d 1029, 1029 (1987).

B. Plaintiffs Are Likely to Succeed on the Merits of Their Action for a Temporary Restraining Order and for Declaratory Relief.

a. There is good cause to enter a temporary protection order restraining the Defendants from any and all contact and involvement with the Plaintiffs and their property.

Barlow has removed and used funds from the Bank Account without authorization from the Plaintiffs, the Bank Account's owners. In addition, after being asked by Mr. Mayweather both verbally and via correspondence from his attorney to cease all further contact with Plaintiffs, Barlow continues to attempt to communicate and come into contact with Mr. Mayweather. Furthermore, the Defendants set up the Foundation in a manner that allowed them to gain access to Mr. Mayweather's property, which they took. Without the Court's intervention in this manner, there is no way to confidently say Barlow's actions will not continue. As such, there is good cause to enter an order restraining the Defendants from any and all contact and involvement with the Plaintiffs and their property.

b. The Agreement is unenforceable under Nevada law or was otherwise terminated as of September 15, 2015.

"Basic contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration." Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012) (emphasis added) citing to May v. Anderson, 121 Nev. 668, 672, 119 P.3d 1254, 1257 (2005). A meeting of the minds exists when the parties have agreed upon the contract's essential terms. Id. citing to Roth v. Scott, 112 Nev. 1078, 1083, 921 P.2d 1262, 1265 (1996).

Here, there was never a meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and Barlow concerning at least one absolutely essential term of the Agreement. Namely, it's purpose. Mr. Mayweather was certain that the Agreement was about him receiving help in setting up a non-profit corporation. In contrast, it is clear from the content of the Agreement that Barlow's understanding of the purpose of the Agreement was completely different, since she drafted it and it concerns public relations consulting. Because there was never a meeting of the mind about the Agreement's purpose, it should be declared unenforceable.

Alternatively, if the Agreement were determined to be enforceable, the Court should acknowledge through an order that it was terminated as of September 15, 2015. The Agreement does not set out any notice requirement for termination, making it terminable upon demand. On September 15, 2015, counsel for Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow terminating the Agreement. As such, the Court should find that the Agreement did in fact terminate as of that date.

C. Plaintiffs Will Suffer Irreparable Harm Absent Injunctive Relief.

Without the Court's intervention, there is no way to prevent the Defendants from taking property that belongs to the Plaintiffs. The Bank Account was opened by Mr. Mayweather prior to the official creation of the Foundation with the Nevada Secretary of State by Barlow. Barlow was not supposed to have access to the funds in the Bank Account. However, because Barlow filed the Articles of Incorporation naming herself as a board member, she was able to gain unauthorized access to the account. She also continues to harass Mr. Mayweather despite a cease and desist letter from his attorney. Without an order from this Court, the Plaintiffs will not be able to stop Barlow from accessing the Bank Account or harassing them. Such access would irreparably harm Plaintiffs.

Additionally, Plaintiffs would be irreparably harmed if the Agreement were not to be declared unenforceable or terminated as of September 15, 2015 since that means Barlow could potentially earn up to 10% of Mr. Mayweather's earnings beginning January 1, 2016. Mr. Mayweather never intended to obtain public relations consulting and should not be forced to pay for it. Even if the Agreement is enforceable, the fees were contractually not obligated to start until January 1, 2016, and therefore no fees would be due upon termination. Mr. Mayweather would be irreparably harmed by any termination date that falls on or after January 1, 2016, making the September 15, 2015 proper.

D. Public Interest and the Relative Hardships of the Parties Favor Granting This Motion.

Public interest favors granting this Motion because it is against public policy to force citizens to endure obligations that arose from a contract that they did not fully understand. It is best for the public that parties who attempt to contract but do not have a meeting of the minds as to the ultimate purpose of the contract are able to void their agreement. Public interest demands that the Agreement should be determined unenforceable, and if it is not, then that it should be considered terminated.

The potential hardships to the Plaintiffs in the event this Motion is not granted could be severe, since the Defendants would continue to have access to their property. On the other hand, in granting this Motion, the Court would not be taking anything away from the Defendants.

Given the scenario in this case, it is clear that the relative hardships of the parties favors granting this Motion.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the above-mentioned reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court order the following:

1. That the Defendants be restrained from any and all further communication, contact, and association with Plaintiffs and their business; and
2. That the Agreement is unenforceable or, in the alternative, was terminated as of September 15, 2015.

Public Relations Agreement

This Agreement ("Agreement") between Positive Image Consulting Services & PR, Inc. ("Firm"), And ("Client")Floyd Mayweather Sr./Floyd Mayweather Foundation

Client and Firm understand and agree that:

1. Client engages and retains Firm as Client's personal consultant for Public Relations services for Floyd Mayweather Foundation and Client's Publicist as outlined in Addendum "A" to this Agreement (the "Project").

2. This Agreement constitutes the sole and complete agreement between the Parties hereto, superseding and invalidating all previous agreements, both written and oral by Artist with any other Publicist, Personal Consultant or PR Firm. Publicist will report directly to Client as it relates to but not limited to prior approvals, career plans and projects. Publicist will have a working relationship with Attorney, Manager and Agent; however will only be subordinate to Client.

3. To promote quality workmanship and on-time performance by Firm, Client will provide Firm on a timely basis with the information and materials necessary for Firm to perform the services specified in this Agreement and generally to carry out the Project. The Basic Fee (as defined in paragraph 4 below) is premised on 20 hours per week spent working and providing services to Client including travel when necessary. Client agrees to fees arising from talent cost, third party cancellation charges, and other additional costs and expenses; all costs and expenses arising out of delays caused by Client will be borne by Client and Client will pay them upon invoice. All additional fees require prior approval by Client.

4. (a) Client agrees to pay Firm a basic fee (the "Basic Fee") per month for Firm's services under this Agreement starting January 1, 2016 with an end date of June 1, 2021. Client agrees to a term of 5 years for Public Relations services with Ann Barlow starting June 1, 2015. Public Relations services rendered from June 1, 2015 until December 31, 2015 for Client were rendered by "no compensation" to Firm or Publicist; however the "Basic Fee" for public relations services will be determined on or prior to January 1, 2016. Client agrees to compensate Firm at 10% of gross earnings derived directly or indirectly from Firm which includes but not limited to endorsements, public appearances, and products. Firm agrees to invoice Client on the first day of the month for that month's services, and Client agrees to pay such invoice by the 30th of that month.

(b) All out-of-pocket expenses pre-approved by Client and other costs are in addition to the Basic Fee and are to be paid by Client upon presentation of invoice and upon such further terms as provided in Addendum A, as stipulated hereto.

5. (a) Upon termination of this Agreement, Client shall pay Firm for all amounts due Firm at that time including but not limited to any amounts due as provided in paragraph 4(a) above and all other costs for work done and liabilities incurred (including any obligations incurred with third parties) relating to the Project through the effective date of termination

AZ FM (initial)

(b) The provisions of paragraphs 8 and 9 shall survive any cancellation or termination of this Agreement, whether for cause, without cause or pursuant to a cancellation or termination right provided in this Agreement.

6. Notwithstanding paragraph 4(a) above, if one or more Acts of God or other causes beyond the parties' control renders the performance of services or provisions of material or other performance by either party impossible or delays it for six (6) months in the aggregate, either party, upon prompt written notice to title other specifying the event(s) or cause(s), will be excused from such nonperformance or delay, and either party then has the right to terminate this Agreement on further written notice to the other.

7. Firm and its personnel working on the Project pursuant to this Agreement are independent contractors and not employees of Client or Firm. Firm carries all insurance necessary to comply with the workmen's compensation and employer's liability laws of the state(s) in which Firm's work is to be performed for Client.

8. Client will fully protect and indemnify Firm from any claim of infringement or violation of any copyright, patent, trademark or other right of any kind of any person, or any claim of libel or slander, relating to any materials supplied by Client, its employees, agents, members or guests, or any materials as to which Client is responsible for securing any necessary or desirable permissions and releases.

9. During the entire duration of the agreement and three years after its termination, for any cause whatsoever, the Client and the Firm undertake not to hire as salaried employee, nor use directly or indirectly, the other contracting party's employees, sub-agents, former employees and former sub-agents.

10. All prior understandings and negotiations between Firm and Client, both written and oral, are merged in this Agreement, which is the entire agreement between them. No representation, inducement or promise has been made or relied upon by either party, unless expressly set forth in this Agreement. This Agreement may be altered or changed only in writing signed by both parties.

11. Either party may not assign this Agreement without other party's prior written consent.

12. The validity, interpretation and performance of this Agreement shall be controlled by and construed under the laws of the State of Nevada.

13. Publicist shall advise, disclose, and report directly to Client only, in this a Client and Publicist relationship shall be established without prior consent, rights or advice from a Manager or Agent.

14. The Firm, Publicist and Client agree to a Non Disclosure Agreement concerning all existing, future projects and discussions between each other. Furthermore, Publicist reserves the right of first mention and release of projects, images, photographs, and videos to the general public and media. Client and Publicist agree to keep all such information under confidentiality for the period of this agreement and 3 years after the agreement terminates.

Re: Floyd Mayweather Sr. claims fraud in Vegas lawsuit against Ann Barlow

Honorable Mayor Goodman,

My name is Ann Barlow. I am the sister in law of Council Ricki Barlow and faithful church member of Pastor Michael Hatch at Prayer Center Rival Church for the past 14 ½ years. I am writing to you for support. I was recently summoned with a civil lawsuit with Floyd Mayweather Sr. whom I worked for as his Publicist and Executive Director of Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation. I engaged in the Public Relations Agreement on June 24, 2015 and formed Articles of Incorporation for Non Profit, Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation on or about July 31, 2015. The mission of the foundation was to bring awareness and research to Sarcoidosis and other Autoimmune Diseases. Mr. Mayweather was diagnosed with Sarcodosis, however currently in admission. I planned along with other Board of Director, Tim Chan a soft launch of the foundation, "VIP Pre Fight Reception" on September 11,2015. Although it was verbally agreed by witnesses (as late as September 11, 2015) for his appearance, he did not appear. The "Fight to Make Difference" Pre Fight Reception was held at Carmines Italian family style restaurant located inside the Forum Shops. The purpose of this event was to soft launch the Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation.

The foundation received donations to afford the expenses of hosting event, in which allegations state I withdrew money for 'personal endeavors'. All monies deposited and withdrew are verified by invoice and/or receipts. Mr. Mayweather did not deposit any of his personal money into the Floyd Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation account. The foundation raised the sum of $16,600 from sponsors which were allocated for hosting the soft launch of the Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation and operating expenses. I still have in my possession a cashier's check from the foundation payable to Floyd Mayweather Sr. for $2500 that he would have received as an appearance fee had he showed up. I also have a check for $2000 from a sponsor payable to Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation; The check was not deposited into Mayweather Sr. Foundation account due to name discrepancy on the check vs. account name. We were scheduled to change account name after filing officers, however due to training camp it was prolonged.

I received a phone call by Deputy Allan on 10/1/15 to pick up court documents in which I picked up on 0/2/15. The documents notified me of a hearing scheduled for October 15, 2015 at 1:30pm in Department 4 located at 200 Lewis Avenue in Courtroom 7D Floor 7 for allegedly stalking and harassing Mr. Mayweather Sr. The documents included a police report that was filed on September 22, 2015 for obtaining money under false pretense and harassing along with a Cease and Desist Communication and Termination of Agreement from Attorney Randolph Taylor dated September 15, 2015. Apparently the Cease and Desist letter went to a previous address listed on Secretary of State Website. On October 3, 2015, I was sub-served with a Summons for civil lawsuit from Floyd Mayweather Sr. claiming fraud and other allegations. (Please reference attachments) I have supporting evidence of my innocence in all allegations.

I am requesting your prayers and support in this matter. The reputation of my character and my family name is at stake along with my future business affairs. I have faithfully volunteered and participated in The National Day of Prayer, City-Wide Unity Prayer hosted by Pastor Michael Hatch, Domestic Violence

Awareness, Breast Cancer Awareness, Shade Tree, Rescue Mission, Salvation Army, Yellow Ribbon, NAACP, Political campaigns for Councilman Ricki Barlow, Campaign Manager for Laura Perkins, Andre Agassi Foundation, and founded Virtuous Women of Power a Non Profit Organization to empower women in business and ministry just to name a few. I will gladly supply references upon request.

I've reached out to your son, Ross Goodman on October 8, 2015. I am prayerfully hoping for representation from an attorney that is aggressive and accustom to high profile cases, however I am without financial resources. I believe Attorney Ross Goodman is capable of presenting all supporting evidence for my innocence and also a counter lawsuit for slander and defamation of my character. I have received harassing phone calls by a mutual acquaintance of myself and Floyd Sr. and had my vehicle's windshield cracked. No matter what disagreements a family may have at times, at the end of the day we are always there for each other as I have supported my brother in law, Councilman Ricki Barlow on every campaign and other events he has held throughout the duration of his office. I certainly do not want our family name slandered in a city that we have all lived in for many years and love! The RJ Newspaper listed this case in an Article on October 6th which can be viewed on www.reviewjournal.com/news/las-vegas/floyd-mayweather-sr-claims-fraud-vegas-lawsuit.

I am requesting a meeting or phone call with you to share further details of my case in effort to clear my personal and family name in the community. It has come up on several occasions during the course of allegations that I am the wife of Councilman Ricki Barlow instead of brother in Law. I do not want his name slandered or our family name ''Barlow" damaged by default of untrue allegations.

I sincerely appreciate your time, prayers and support. As you may know, this is a very difficult time for me. Thank you and Oscar Goodman for decades of tireless dedication and efforts in the wonderful City of Las Vegas. I can be contacted at [redacted] or reached via cell phone at [redacted] My home address is [redacted]

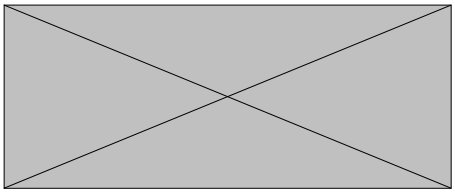
Subject: [Marketing Mail] Your gift for democracy and equal justice



Dear Friend,

The country we love has entered unmapped territory, but one thing is plain:

The Brennan Center for Justice will never stop defending America's most sacred ideals: Democracy. The Constitution. Equal justice for all.

Just this week, for example, we're fighting an unprecedented attack on the integrity of our elections. In response to President-elect Trump's outrageous claims of massive voter fraud, we're pushing back with facts and analysis to debunk this dangerous allegation. It's an urgent fight.

The Brennan Center's charge is clear, but we need you by our side to do this vital work.

Today is Giving Tuesday: a one-day, worldwide celebration of the causes that mean the most to us. Please make your generous gift to the Brennan Center now to help strengthen our democracy so it works for all and protects the most vulnerable.

Here are some of the ways we will — together — stand up for all Americans:

- Protect Voting Rights: We'll fight discriminatory voting laws and advance automatic, universal voter registration.

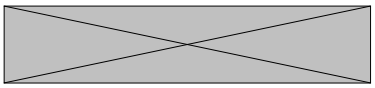
- Fight Islamophobia and Safeguard the Rule of Law: We'll expose the ugly face of xenophobia, which violates our most basic values, and protect law-abiding Americans from ethnic and religious profiling.

- End Mass Incarceration: With partners on both sides of the aisle, we'll reform our broken criminal justice system, one of the greatest racial injustices of our time.

This is not a new fight. It's the oldest and greatest fight — the fight to make our country live up to its ideals.

We are stronger with you by the Brennan Center's side, so please make your contribution today!

With my deepest thanks,



Michael Waldman

Hello Dan, Two risks:
1) breach of fiduciary duties for ERISA.
55% of healthcare spending is waste and fraud (PwC). Yet there is virtually NO SCRUTINY.
There has been an incredible shift.... the courts and DOL are now calling for SCRUTINY....401(k) like scrutiny.
The message is clear...administer the plan in the sole interest of the employee member ("it's their money").
Lawyers see an opportunity to shine a light on how employees' interests have been compromised.
CEO Ignorance of Fraud & Abuse Happening Under Their Nose Won't Be a Viable Defense 10/31/16 Forbes
2) risk from activist shareholders concerns-- employers are not implementing proven benefits solutions...and have failed to actively manage care.
Healthcare's Biggest Lie: Employers Can't Do Anything About Massive Pricing Failure 12/11/15 Forbes
Dave Chase is founder Health Rosetta (501-c3); producer of "The Big Heist", former Microsoft exec.
1 Rosen Hotel pays 50% less per capita for healthcare.
2 Pittsburgh Teachers Thwart Healthcare Stealing From Education 3/30/16 Forbes
Pittsburgh schools pay $4,661 per member. Allegheny County consortium has 48,000 members.
3 Have PPO Networks Perpetrated The Greatest Heist In American History? 9/5/16 Forbes Dave Chase
•unnecessary spending is over $1 TRILLION per year. •employers overpay by 30%-50%
(yet expect employees to undo this through HDHPs...all the while transparency is non-existent.)
4 employers are doing a poor job of purchasing high-value. eg., workplace wellness programs:
"They're a waste of time and money, they don't improve health outcomes; they cause harm." theysaidwhat.net/in-the-news-2/
5 IBM recently made a decision as to where to locate 4,000 new hires based on their analysis of where they received the best value from their healthcare expenditure. After looking at the graph below it's easy to understand why they determined that Dubuque, Iowa, was the best location to expand their employment.
With wide cost differentials, some argue that CFOs and CEOs are failing in their fiduciary responsibility to not shift to models that are proven to save money.
6 Healthcare is the Single Greatest Immediate Threat to America 2/12/16 Part 1 and 2 Dave Chase
Dave Chase, Bill Gates, Tommy Thompson on healthcare:
1) Nest eggs have been crushed by $1M due to healthcare costs 5/27/15 Forbes
Over the course of the last 30 years, the under-performing healthcare system has "stolen" over $30 TRILLION from retirement accounts.

2) Bill Gates TED Talk healthcare costs are directly devastating education budgets.
State budgets disguise true cost. eg., California:
$3 million set aside for $62 BILLION liability. Taxpayers are paying for this.
3) Tommy Thompson, chair of HealthcarePays (HCP); former HHS Sec.
HCP's aim is to see that fraudulent claims are not paid in the first place.
"employers' lack of mgmt has given the industry a blank check; there is inability to get a handle on waste and fraud"
55% of spending is waste and fraud (PwC). Yet there is virtually NO SCRUTINY. (See How Claims Are Paid)

Employers are essentially putting employees' money into a health plan where 55% of what is spent adds no value.

HCP's homepage refers to the spate of lawsuits that Mark Flores has reported on (Mark Flores/AVYM)
The plaintiffs are seeking hundreds of millions of dollars in damages. Note: HCP targets provider fraud. HVYM targets TPA fraud.

•Recover: AVYM can assist in the recovery of fraud & hidden fees in TPA/ASO overpayment recoupments.
Recent Supreme Court decisions have provided a formula for plan assets recovery.

•Avoid Personal Liability: we can help the plan recover plan assets, consistent with the Plan's own fiduciary duties.

You likely signed a PPO/ASO agreement that prohibits you from auditing claims. AVYM can work around/through this.

GAP, CB&I, AT&T, DHL Express, JPMorganChase, Chevron, StanleyBlack/Decker, Waste Mgmt, Macy's, Valero, BASF and 100 others have been sued for allowing their TPAs to allegedly withhold/ convert/ embezzle plan assets.

•"The DOL is arguing that fiduciary dereliction in health benefits is rampant."
•"fiduciaries put themselves at risk by simply assuming that BUCA vendors are acting in patients' and purchasers' interests"

CEO Ignorance of Fraud & Abuse Happening Under Their Nose Won't Be a Viable Defense
A Growing Nightmare for Corporate Risk Managers: Dereliction of ERISA Fiduciary Duty. 10/31/16 Forbes, Dave Chase
"CEOs and CFOs somehow miss that the BUCAs processing their claims have little financial interest in stopping fraud."
BUCAs benefit from upward premium pressure. BUCAs make a % of total cost.. incentive to make health care cost more.
(Blues, United, Cigna or Aetna)

"What's Legal....Sets Up Perfectly For Large Scale Fraud."

1 BUCA TPAs pay claims from a bill with no details. Claims are overpaid.
The BUCA TPA may do a self-audit months/ years later.
When they find overpayment or excess charges and successfully recoup, they return about 60% -70%;
that's a 30-40% fee for catching their own mistake. (they keep it all, if you are no longer a client).

2 BUCAs do something similar to fraud with out-of-network charges.
BUCAs use Over-payment Recoupment to force OON providers into their low value networks.

3 "Even worse, the spate of lawsuits that Mark Flores has reported on Mark Flores@AVYM allege the TPA/ASO actually retained the "recovered" money."

Alleged conversions are concealed through various schemes disguised as legitimate practices:

•PPO repricing discounts (hidden fees).
•Anti fraud initiatives (over-payment recoupment/ offset)
•Out-of-Network Cost Containment (managed care savings)
•Anti-Assignment provisions that may help TPA's conceal embezzlement of Plan Assets.

Over-payment recoveries by BUCAs have reached into the $billions.
Plan fiduciaries are required to monitor over-payment recoveries to determine if they are plan assets.
Fiduciaries that fail to recover plan assets, may be held personally liable. (btw: this is your money, don't you want it?)

See also Hi-Lex Controls vs BCBSM – Hidden Fees in PPO "Discounts" case.

•BCBSM admitted to deceiving 85% of their Michigan self insured clients. BCBSM is settling 50 similar suits.

•an actuary from Milliman Inc. testified under oath that many other insurers engaged in the same practices.

that put programs and medical mgmt into place to mitigate clinical and financial risks.

•RBP: Begin by using RBP for OON claims/ wrap claims. By not using your wrap PPO, you can audit claims for excess charges/ do your fiduciary duty to be prudent with plan assets.

•Phase out wellness: Keep the best components of your current wellness program and swap out the rest for Quizzify.

•AVYM groundbreaking TPA auditing. It is not subrogation-- our services address the practice of overpayment recoupments that occurs between the TPAs/ASOs and providers. There is NO NEW COST. What do you have to lose? (except what you lose from continuing to overpay). Why wait till the DOL knocks on your door with an audit alert?

Narrative

On today's date and time, victim Floyd Mayweather Sr., came to Metro Police Records to report a Fraud.

Mayweather stated the following:

On or about June 24, 2015, the suspect, Ann Barlow, and the victim, Floyd Mayweather Sr., entered into a business partnership. Ann Barlow stated she was a publisher and that she would promote Mayweather's Sr. foundation, the Floyd Mayweather Foundation, and that she was also a tax preparer.

During the course of the last two months, Ann has stolen money from the account that belongs to Mayweather Sr.'s, foundation. The monies that are in the account are used to assist people. Suspect Ann Barlow began removing monies from this account for personal use. She also gained access to Mayweather Sr., social security number and the social security number was used to open up credit cards without his permission.

Mayweather Sr., stated at no time did he give her permission to remove, borrow or otherwise take away any funds from his foundation and from any bank accounts. On 09/15/15, a letter from Mayweather Sr., attorney, Taylor L. Randolph, Esq., sent a Notice to Cease and Desist Communication and Notice of Termination of Unenforceable Agreement, to the suspect Ann Barlow. This letter stated she was to cease and desist all communication with Mayweather Sr. Even after the letter was sent to her, Ann Barlow continued to harass Mayweather Sr., to include making face-to-face contact with him, taking pictures and continuing to ask him for money.

It was also learned through the course of this report, Ann Barlow was also extorting money from two other alleged victims, Dieter Wiesner and Johnny Gill's friend (name unknown). Ann allegedly extorted approximately $10,000.00 from Dieter and approximately $7,000.00 from Johnny Gill's friend. Both of these victims will be forthcoming and this report taker will add their information to this report upon receipt.

Documents are included with this report as attachments and will be scanned into Onbase.

RE: Floyd Mayweather Sr. and Floyd Mayweather Foundation

NOTICE TO CEASE AND DESIST COMMUNICATION AND NOTICE OF TERMINATION OF UNENFORCEABLE AGREEMENT

Dear Ms. Barlow,

This firm represents Floyd Mayweather Sr. and Floyd Mayweather Foundation (collectively "Mr. Mayweather") with respect to the agreement Mr. Mayweather entered into with Positive Image Consulting Services & PR ("PIC") dated June 24, 2015 (the "Agreement"). Please direct any future correspondence to this office.

This correspondence is our formal notice to you and PIC to cease and desist all further communication with Mr. Wayweather except for the reasons specifically set forth in applicable federal law. All future calls, inquiries and correspondence should be directed to this office only.

Further, this correspondence is Mr. Mayweather's notice to PIC of the termination of the Agreement. As is explained below, the Agreement is unenforceable under Nevada law because there was no meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and PIC. Further, even if the Agreement were somehow enforceable, this letter marks the end of it.

It is well settled in Nevada that basic contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration. See Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012). A meeting of the minds exists only when the parties have agreed upon the contract's essential terms. See Id. Without a meeting of the minds between the parties as to the essential terms of the contract, there is nothing to enforce.

Here, the Agreement is unenforceable since there was never a meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and PIC concerning its essential terms. Mr. Mayweather understood that he was signing for the purpose of setting up a foundation to raise money to help people with auto immune disease. Mr. Mayweather believed that the purpose of the Agreement was so that he could have assistance with setting up the foundation, since he has no prior experience in that area. He signed the Agreement for that specific purpose. He never had any intention to enter into any sort of agreement for public relations representation with PIC or any other entity.

However, the Agreement, which was prepared by PIC and presumably contains its intentions, speaks to an arrangement for public relations consulting. If Mr. Mayweather had understood that what he was signing concerned public relations consulting instead of assistance in setting up a foundation for auto immune disease, he never would have signed it. There was clearly never a meeting of the minds when it comes to the Agreement, since each party's understanding of the basic intentions of the Agreement are completely distinct from one another. Because there was no meeting of the minds concerning the Agreement's essential terms, there is nothing to be enforced from it.

Moreover, in the virtually inconceivable case that the Agreement were to somehow be determined enforceable, PIC has already violated its terms and breached the Agreement at least twice. The terms of the Agreement provide that "the Basic Fee does not include certain costs and expenses all of which require prior approval by client." See Addendum A (emphasis added). As paragraph 4(a) of the Agreement further provides, Mr. Mayweather agreed to begin paying the "Basic Fee" starting January 1, 2016, and it was to be a total of 10% of earnings derived by PIC and nothing more.

Therefore, any cost or expense whatsoever to Mr. Mayweather through December 31, 2015, and then any cost or expense beyond the Basic Fee after that, must be specifically authorized by Mr. Mayweather according to the terms of the Agreement. On at least two occasions PIC has already forced or attempted to force Mr. Mayweather to incur certain costs and expenses without his prior approval. First, PIC called Mr. Mayweather's financial advisor Mark and asked him to wire upwards of $60,000 from Mr. Mayweather's bank account without Mr. Mayweather's prior knowledge.

Then, again without consulting Mr. Mayweather, PIC set up a fundraising event at Caesars and to Mr. Mayweather's knowledge PIC received $10,000 from Dieter Wiesner. These funds were wired without Mr. Mayweather's knowledge and consent and we hereby demand that you refund these funds to Dieter Wiesner. Mr. Mayweather has not seen these funds, nor does he want to benefit from any such deposits purportedly made to benefit Floyd Mayweather Foundation.

Both examples as detailed above represent breaches of the Agreement since any such action would obviously require Mr. Mayweather's specific approval under the Agreement.

Further, since the Agreement is not enforceable and hereby terminated as of the date of this correspondence, any agreements and/or contracts that have been entered into deriving from the Agreement are hereby also deemed terminated and unenforceable. Mr. Mayweather does not have extensive knowledge of what these agreements and/or contractual obligations these may be, but one such agreement that was brought to his attention by Marsha Stewart is the Non-Disclosure Agreement entered into on August 11, 2015 by and between Mr. Mayweather and/or PCI and Marsha Stewart. Mr. Mayweather is not a signatory to this Non-Disclosure Agreement and hereby releases Marsha Stewart from any contractual obligations related to same. It is Mr. Mayweather's understanding that Marsha Stewart has already noticed you of the termination of the Non-Disclosure Agreement.

Finally, seeing as the contract does not limit either parties ability to do so in any way, it is plain that the Agreement may be terminated for any or no reason by either party. Pursuant to Paragraph 5(a) of the Agreement, in the event of termination, Mr. Mayweather shall pay PIC "all amounts due... through the date of termination." As was discussed above, the total amounts that could ever be due to PIC under the Agreement include the Basic Fee and any pre-approved costs or expenses. As is also explained above and in Paragraph 4(a) of the Agreement, the Basic Fee expense does not start until January 1, 2016. And as of right now, there have been no costs or expenses pre-approved by Mr. Mayweather pursuant to the Agreement. As such, since the Agreement is terminated as of the date of this correspondence, there are no fees due to PIC as of the date of termination and both parties can go their separate ways without any further liability to one another.

Very truly yours,

FLOYD MAYWEATHER SR., an individual; FLOYD JOY MAYWEATHER FOUNDATION, a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation, Plaintiffs, vs. ANN BARLOW, an individual; TIM CHAN, an individual; DOES I through X, inclusive; ROE CORPORATIONS XI through XX, inclusive, Defendants.	CASE NO.: A-15-725238-C DEPT NO.: XXXI COMPLAINT [EXEMPT FROM ARBITRATION AS AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY EXCEEDS $50,000]

Plaintiffs Floyd Mayweather Sr. ("Mr. Mayweather"), an individual, and Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation (the "Foundation"; collectively with Mr. Mayweather, the "Plaintiffs"), a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation, complains against the defendants Ann Barlow ("Barlow") and Tim Chan ("Chan"; collectively with Barlow, the "Defendants") as follows:

1. Mr. Mayweather is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.
2. The Foundation is a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation headquartered in Clark County, Nevada.

3. Upon information and belief, Defendant Barlow is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.

4. Upon information and belief, Defendant Chan is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.

5. The actions complained of herein occurred in Clark County, Nevada.

6. The true names and capacities of the defendants designated as Doe or Roe Corporations are presently unknown to Plaintiffs at this time, who therefore sue said defendants as fictitious names. When the true names and capacities of these defendants are ascertained, Plaintiffs will amend this Complaint accordingly.

7. At all pertinent times, Defendants were agents, servants, employees or joint venturers of every other Defendant, and at all times mentioned were acting within the scope and course of said agency, employment, or joint venture, with knowledge and permission and consent of all other name Defendants.

8. Mr. Mayweather is a former professional boxer who previously suffered from Sarcoidosis.

9. On or about June 1, 2015, Mr. Mayweather engaged with Defendant Barlow in order to get assistance setting up a non-profit corporation for Sarcoidosis and other ailments that former fighters often suffer from.

10. On or about June 24, 2015, Mr. Mayweather entered into a contract with Barlow for the purpose of getting assistance setting up the above-mentioned non-profit (the "Agreement").

11. Unbeknownst to Mr. Mayweather, the Agreement, which Barlow prepared for Mr. Mayweather's signature, concerned an arrangement for public relations consulting rather than an arrangement for obtaining assistance in setting up a non-profit foundation.

12. Mr. Mayweather would not have signed the Agreement had he known it concerned public relations consulting.

13. The Agreement provided that Mr. Mayweather would pay Barlow 10% of his earnings starting January 1, 2016.

14. The Agreement provided that any other costs or fees must be approved by Mr. Mayweather.

15. On or about July 31, 2015, Barlow filed Articles of Incorporation with the Nevada Secretary of State to form the Foundation.

16. The Articles of Incorporation name Barlow as registered agent, and the Defendants and Mr. Mayweather as members of the board of directors.

17. On or before July 31, 2015, Mr. Mayweather opened a bank account at Chase bank as Floyd Joy Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation (the "Bank Account").

18. As of the morning of September 11, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $13,845.19.

19. On September 11, 2015, Barlow made 7 teller withdraws from the Bank Account totaling approximately $8,603.00, and used the Bank Account's debit card to spend roughly $4,500.00 on approximately 10 other transactions.

20. By September 12, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $722.96.

21. Barlow was not authorized to withdraw or spend money from the Bank Account.

22. Upon information and belief, Barlow used the funds from the Bank Account for personal endeavors.

23. On or about September 15, 2015, Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow ordering her to cease and desist all contact with Mr. Mayweather, and explaining that the Agreement was unenforceable or otherwise terminated as of the date of the letter.

24. Despite the correspondence, Barlow continued to attempt to be involved in Mr. Mayweather's dealings.

25. On or about September 22, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a police report concerning Barlow's conduct.

26. To Plaintiff's knowledge and belief Defendant is using his name and image on various websites and media, such as facebook, twitter, Instagram and others without his permission and Plaintiff is seeking Defendant to seize same.

27. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' actions, Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of an attorney, incurring attorney's fees and costs to bring this action.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Declaratory Relief – Unenforceable Agreement)

28. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

29. Nevada contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration. See Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012).

30. Because Mr. Mayweather and Barlow failed to have a meeting of the mind concerning the essential terms of the Agreement, it is unenforceable under Nevada Law.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Declaratory Relief – Termination of Agreement)

31. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

32. The terms of the Agreement provide that it may be terminated by either party at any time for any or no reason.

33. If it were ever enforceable, Plaintiffs' correspondence terminated the Agreement as of September 15, 2015.

(Fraudulent Misrepresentation)

34. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

35. Barlow falsely represented to Mr. Mayweather that the Agreement pertained to him gaining assistance in setting up a non-profit organization.

36. Barlow knew that the Agreement concerned public relations consulting and intended to induce Mr. Mayweather into signing by telling him the Agreement was about the Foundation.

37. Mr. Mayweather relied on Barlow's misrepresentations and has incurred more than $10,000.00 in damages because of that reliance.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Constructive Fraud)

38. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

39. As members of the Foundation's board of directors, Defendants owed Plaintiffs a fiduciary duty.

40. Defendants breached that duty by misrepresenting their intentions for the Foundation and embezzling funds.

41. Defendants have incurred more than $10,000 in damages because of Defendants' breach.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of Fiduciary Duty)

42. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

43. As members of the Foundation's board of directors, Defendants owed Plaintiffs a fiduciary duty.

44. Defendants breached that duty.

45. Defendants have incurred more than $10,000 in damages because of Defendants' breach.

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of Contract)

46. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

47. The Agreement provides that any and all costs to Mr. Mayweather must be approved before incurred.

48. Barlow participated in at least 17 financial transactions involving Mr. Mayweather's money and failed to ask for approval.

49. Barlow's breach of contract has caused Plaintiffs to incur more than $10,000.00 in damages due to Barlow's breach.

SEVENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing)

50. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

51. Mr. Mayweather and Barlow entered into the Agreement and Barlow owed Mr. Mayweather a duty of good faith arising from the Agreement.

52. An element of fiduciary duty existed between Mr. Mayweather and Barlow.

53. Barlow breached the duty of good faith and fair dealing by engaging in misconduct involving taking funds from the Foundation.

54. Barlow's breach of contract has caused Plaintiffs to incur more than $10,000.00 in damages due to Barlow's breach.

EIGHTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Unjust Enrichment)

55. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

56. Defendants unjustly retained the money or property of Defendants against fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscious.

NINTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Conversion)

57. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

58. Barlow committed a distinct act of dominion wrongfully exerted over the funds in the Bank Account.

59. Barlow did not have a right to the funds in the Bank Account.

60. The funds in the Bank Account belong to Plaintiffs, and Barlow's act was in derogation, exclusion, or defiance of Plaintiffs' right and title to those funds.

TENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Protection Order)

61. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

62. Barlow continues to harass Mr. Mayweather despite correspondence and instruction not to.

63. Mr. Mayweather requires a protection order from the Court in order to prevent Barlow's continued harassment.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for judgment against Defendants as follows:

1. That the Court declare the Agreement unenforceable under Nevada law.
2. That the Court declare the Agreement terminated as of September 15, 2015.
3. That the Court grant judgment in favor of Plaintiffs in an amount greater than $10,000.00 to be determined at trial, plus interest, costs and attorneys' fees.
4. That the Court award Plaintiffs punitive damages in an amount to be determined at trial.
5. That the Court grant a protection order in favor of Mr. Mayweather against Barlow.
6. For such other and further relief that the Court may consider just and proper.

AFFIDAVIT OF TAYLOR L. RANDOLPH

I, Taylor L. Randolph, counsel for Plaintiffs in the above-captioned matter, hereby declare the following:

1. I am an attorney with the Randolph Law Firm, P.C. and based on the verified Complaint I have knowledge of the facts set forth herein and Plaintiff is competent to testify thereto if called upon to do so. I make this Declaration of support of Plaintiffs Motion for Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction on Order Shortening Time (the "Motion").
2. Good cause exists to expedite the hearing on this Motion, since the Plaintiffs could be potentially stolen from and otherwise harassed without the Court's intervention.
3. After personal attempts for a phone conference and communication by mail, and sincere effort to do so, I have been unable to resolve this matter without Court action.
4. Without an order from this Court, the Defendants will continue to have access to the Plaintiffs' property and be able to harass Mr. Mayweather. Every day that passes before a hearing on this issue could cost Mr. Mayweather both his money and sanity.
5. This Application for Order Shortening Time is made in good faith.
6. I swear under Penalty of Perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

I. INTRODUCTION

This is a straightforward Motion. Plaintiffs are asking this honorable Court to order two things:

1. That the Defendants be restrained from any and all further communication, contact, and association with Plaintiffs and their business; and
2. That the agreement the Plaintiffs and Barlow entered into on June 24, 2015 is unenforceable or, in the alternative, was terminated as of September 15, 2015.

The straightforwardness of this Motion comes from the simplicity of the facts, which show that the Court has good cause to enter a protection order in favor of the Plaintiffs and to declare the above-mentioned agreement unenforceable or otherwise terminated. As is shown below, because Plaintiffs are likely to win on the merits of these issues and would be irreparably harmed without the Court's help, this Motion should be granted.

II. RELEVANT FACTS

Mr. Mayweather is a former professional boxer and current professional boxing trainer. During a period of time in the past, Mr. Mayweather suffered from Sarcoidosis, an inflammatory disease that often affects former boxers. On or about June 1, 2015, Mr. Mayweather engaged Barlow for the purpose of gaining her assistance in setting up a non-profit organization for Sarcoidosis and other ailments that typically affect former fighters. Mr. Mayweather had no personal experience setting up non-profit corporations, and was made to understand that Barlow did.

On or about June 24, 2015, Mr. Mayweather signed a contract that was prepared by Barlow (the "Agreement"). Mr. Mayweather understood that the Agreement concerned the Foundation, the non-profit that he wanted to start. However, the Agreement actually concerned an arrangement for Barlow to provide public relations consulting for the Plaintiffs. Mr.

Mayweather did not know the Agreement concerned public relations consulting and would not have executed it had he known. The terms of the Agreement provided that Mr. Mayweather would pay Barlow 10% of his earnings starting January 1, 2016, and that any other fees or expenses would require specific approval from Mr. Mayweather.

On or about July 31, 2015, Barlow filed Non-Profit Articles of Incorporation with the Nevada Secretary of State to form the Foundation. The Articles of Incorporation list Barlow as the Foundation's registered agent, and the Defendants and Mr. Mayweather as the members of the board of directors. Shortly before that point in time, Mr. Mayweather opened a bank account at Chase Bank as Floyd Joy Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation (the "Bank Account").

As of the morning of September 11, 2015, the Bank Account had a balance of $13,845.19. On September 11, 2015, Barlow made 7 teller withdraws from the Bank Account totaling approximately $8,603.00, and used the Bank Account's debit card to spend roughly $4,500.00 on approximately 10 other transactions. By September 12, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $722.96. Barlow was not authorized to withdraw or spend money from the Bank Account.

On or about September 15, 2015, Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow ordering her to cease and desist all contact with Mr. Mayweather, and further explaining that the Agreement was unenforceable or otherwise terminated as of the date of the letter. Despite the letter, Barlow has continued to attempt to contact and be involved with the Plaintiffs and their dealings. On September 22, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a police report about Barlow's conduct.

III. ARGUMENT

A. Legal Standard.

The Nevada Supreme Court has stated that a "preliminary injunction is available if an applicant can show a likelihood of success on the merits and a reasonable probability that the non-moving party's conduct, if allowed to continue, will cause irreparable harm. The district court may also weigh the public interest and the relative hardships of the parties in deciding whether to grant a preliminary injunction." Clark Cnty. Sch. Dist. V. Buchanan, 112 Nev. 1146, 1149, 924 P.2d 716, 719 (1996) (internal citations omitted); see also NRS 33.010 (codifying the cases in which "[a]n injunction may be granted"); see also Dixon v. Thatcher, 103 Nev. 414, 415, 742 P.2d 1029, 1029 (1987).

B. Plaintiffs Are Likely to Succeed on the Merits of Their Action for a Temporary Restraining Order and for Declaratory Relief.

a. There is good cause to enter a temporary protection order restraining the Defendants from any and all contact and involvement with the Plaintiffs and their property.

Barlow has removed and used funds from the Bank Account without authorization from the Plaintiffs, the Bank Account's owners. In addition, after being asked by Mr. Mayweather both verbally and via correspondence from his attorney to cease all further contact with Plaintiffs, Barlow continues to attempt to communicate and come into contact with Mr. Mayweather. Furthermore, the Defendants set up the Foundation in a manner that allowed them to gain access to Mr. Mayweather's property, which they took. Without the Court's intervention in this manner, there is no way to confidently say Barlow's actions will not continue. As such, there is good cause to enter an order restraining the Defendants from any and all contact and involvement with the Plaintiffs and their property.

b. The Agreement is unenforceable under Nevada law or was otherwise terminated as of September 15, 2015.

"Basic contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration." Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012) (emphasis added) citing to May v. Anderson, 121 Nev. 668, 672, 119 P.3d 1254, 1257 (2005). A meeting of the minds exists when the parties have agreed upon the contract's essential terms. Id. citing to Roth v. Scott, 112 Nev. 1078, 1083, 921 P.2d 1262, 1265 (1996).

Here, there was never a meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and Barlow concerning at least one absolutely essential term of the Agreement. Namely, it's purpose. Mr. Mayweather was certain that the Agreement was about him receiving help in setting up a non-profit corporation. In contrast, it is clear from the content of the Agreement that Barlow's understanding of the purpose of the Agreement was completely different, since she drafted it and it concerns public relations consulting. Because there was never a meeting of the mind about the Agreement's purpose, it should be declared unenforceable.

Alternatively, if the Agreement were determined to be enforceable, the Court should acknowledge through an order that it was terminated as of September 15, 2015. The Agreement does not set out any notice requirement for termination, making it terminable upon demand. On September 15, 2015, counsel for Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow terminating the Agreement. As such, the Court should find that the Agreement did in fact terminate as of that date.

C. Plaintiffs Will Suffer Irreparable Harm Absent Injunctive Relief.

Without the Court's intervention, there is no way to prevent the Defendants from taking property that belongs to the Plaintiffs. The Bank Account was opened by Mr. Mayweather prior to the official creation of the Foundation with the Nevada Secretary of State by Barlow. Barlow was not supposed to have access to the funds in the Bank Account. However, because Barlow filed the Articles of Incorporation naming herself as a board member, she was able to gain unauthorized access to the account. She also continues to harass Mr. Mayweather despite a cease and desist letter from his attorney. Without an order from this Court, the Plaintiffs will not be able to stop Barlow from accessing the Bank Account or harassing them. Such access would irreparably harm Plaintiffs.

Additionally, Plaintiffs would be irreparably harmed if the Agreement were not to be declared unenforceable or terminated as of September 15, 2015 since that means Barlow could potentially earn up to 10% of Mr. Mayweather's earnings beginning January 1, 2016. Mr. Mayweather never intended to obtain public relations consulting and should not be forced to pay for it. Even if the Agreement is enforceable, the fees were contractually not obligated to start until January 1, 2016, and therefore no fees would be due upon termination. Mr. Mayweather would be irreparably harmed by any termination date that falls on or after January 1, 2016, making the September 15, 2015 proper.

D. Public Interest and the Relative Hardships of the Parties Favor Granting This Motion.

Public interest favors granting this Motion because it is against public policy to force citizens to endure obligations that arose from a contract that they did not fully understand. It is best for the public that parties who attempt to contract but do not have a meeting of the minds as to the ultimate purpose of the contract are able to void their agreement. Public interest demands that the Agreement should be determined unenforceable, and if it is not, then that it should be considered terminated.

The potential hardships to the Plaintiffs in the event this Motion is not granted could be severe, since the Defendants would continue to have access to their property. On the other hand, in granting this Motion, the Court would not be taking anything away from the Defendants.

Given the scenario in this case, it is clear that the relative hardships of the parties favors granting this Motion.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the above-mentioned reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court order the following:

1. That the Defendants be restrained from any and all further communication, contact, and association with Plaintiffs and their business; and
2. That the Agreement is unenforceable or, in the alternative, was terminated as of September 15, 2015.

Public Relations Agreement

This Agreement ("Agreement") between Positive Image Consulting Services & PR, Inc. ("Firm"), And ("Client")Floyd Mayweather Sr./Floyd Mayweather Foundation

Client and Firm understand and agree that:

1. Client engages and retains Firm as Client's personal consultant for Public Relations services for Floyd Mayweather Foundation and Client's Publicist as outlined in Addendum "A" to this Agreement (the "Project").

2. This Agreement constitutes the sole and complete agreement between the Parties hereto, superseding and invalidating all previous agreements, both written and oral by Artist with any other Publicist, Personal Consultant or PR Firm. Publicist will report directly to Client as it relates to but not limited to prior approvals, career plans and projects. Publicist will have a working relationship with Attorney, Manager and Agent; however will only be subordinate to Client.

3. To promote quality workmanship and on-time performance by Firm, Client will provide Firm on a timely basis with the information and materials necessary for Firm to perform the services specified in this Agreement and generally to carry out the Project. The Basic Fee (as defined in paragraph 4 below) is premised on 20 hours per week spent working and providing services to Client including travel when necessary. Client agrees to fees arising from talent cost, third party cancellation charges, and other additional costs and expenses; all costs and expenses arising out of delays caused by Client will be borne by Client and Client will pay them upon invoice. All additional fees require prior approval by Client.

4. (a) Client agrees to pay Firm a basic fee (the "Basic Fee") per month for Firm's services under this Agreement starting January 1, 2016 with an end date of June 1, 2021. Client agrees to a term of 5 years for Public Relations services with Ann Barlow starting June 1, 2015. Public Relations services rendered from June 1, 2015 until December 31, 2015 for Client were rendered by "no compensation" to Firm or Publicist; however the "Basic Fee" for public relations services will be determined on or prior to January 1, 2016. Client agrees to compensate Firm at 10% of gross earnings derived directly or indirectly from Firm which includes but not limited to endorsements, public appearances, and products. Firm agrees to invoice Client on the first day of the month for that month's services, and Client agrees to pay such invoice by the 30th of that month.

(b) All out-of-pocket expenses pre-approved by Client and other costs are in addition to the Basic Fee and are to be paid by Client upon presentation of invoice and upon such further terms as provided in Addendum A, as stipulated hereto.

5. (a) Upon termination of this Agreement, Client shall pay Firm for all amounts due Firm at that time including but not limited to any amounts due as provided in paragraph 4(a) above and all other costs for work done and liabilities incurred (including any obligations incurred with third parties) relating to the Project through the effective date of termination

(b) The provisions of paragraphs 8 and 9 shall survive any cancellation or termination of this Agreement, whether for cause, without cause or pursuant to a cancellation or termination right provided in this Agreement.

6. Notwithstanding paragraph 4(a) above, if one or more Acts of God or other causes beyond the parties' control renders the performance of services or provisions of material or other performance by either party impossible or delays it for six (6) months in the aggregate, either party, upon prompt written notice to title other specifying the event(s) or cause(s), will be excused from such nonperformance or delay, and either party then has the right to terminate this Agreement on further written notice to the other.

7. Firm and its personnel working on the Project pursuant to this Agreement are independent contractors and not employees of Client or Firm. Firm carries all insurance necessary to comply with the workmen's compensation and employer's liability laws of the state(s) in which Firm's work is to be performed for Client.

8. Client will fully protect and indemnify Firm from any claim of infringement or violation of any copyright, patent, trademark or other right of any kind of any person, or any claim of libel or slander, relating to any materials supplied by Client, its employees, agents, members or guests, or any materials as to which Client is responsible for securing any necessary or desirable permissions and releases.

9. During the entire duration of the agreement and three years after its termination, for any cause whatsoever, the Client and the Firm undertake not to hire as salaried employee, nor use directly or indirectly, the other contracting party's employees, sub-agents, former employees and former sub-agents.

10. All prior understandings and negotiations between Firm and Client, both written and oral, are merged in this Agreement, which is the entire agreement between them. No representation, inducement or promise has been made or relied upon by either party, unless expressly set forth in this Agreement. This Agreement may be altered or changed only in writing signed by both parties.

11. Either party may not assign this Agreement without other party's prior written consent.

12. The validity, interpretation and performance of this Agreement shall be controlled by and construed under the laws of the State of Nevada.

13. Publicist shall advise, disclose, and report directly to Client only, in this a Client and Publicist relationship shall be established without prior consent, rights or advice from a Manager or Agent.

14. The Firm, Publicist and Client agree to a Non Disclosure Agreement concerning all existing, future projects and discussions between each other. Furthermore, Publicist reserves the right of first mention and release of projects, images, photographs, and videos to the general public and media. Client and Publicist agree to keep all such information under confidentiality for the period of this agreement and 3 years after the agreement terminates.

AK FM (initial)

15. Client agrees to give Publicist sole right as Publicist to advise, counsel, and act as the liaison between the general public, journalist and media. Publicist will attend all press junkets, interviews with Media, escort Artist at all red carpet events and issue statements on behalf of Client. Publicist reserves the right to attend all but not limited to all public appearances, interviewing, and meetings involving Client.

16. The parties understand that Publicist's position is that of an independent contractor. Publicist may appoint or engage other persons, firms or corporations to perform any and all services (both routine and non-routine) that this Agreement states Publicist shall perform. Publicist's services are not exclusive - Publicist is now and shall continue to perform somewhat similar services for other artists and other businesses.

17. The following addendum and schedules are attached to and form an integral part of this Agreement:

ADDENDUM A

Re: Floyd Mayweather Sr. claims fraud in Vegas lawsuit against Ann Barlow

October 8, 2015.

Honorable Mayor Goodman,

My name is Ann Barlow. I am the sister in law of Council Ricki Barlow and faithful church member of Pastor Michael Hatch at Prayer Center Rival Church for the past 14 ½ years. I am writing to you for support. I was recently summoned with a civil lawsuit with Floyd Mayweather Sr. whom I worked for as his Publicist and Executive Director of Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation. I engaged in the Public Relations Agreement on June 24, 2015 and formed Articles of Incorporation for Non Profit, Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation on or about July 31, 2015. The mission of the foundation was to bring awareness and research to Sarcoidosis and other Autoimmune Diseases. Mr. Mayweather was diagnosed with Sarcodosis, however currently in admission. I planned along with other Board of Director, Tim Chan a soft launch of the foundation, "VIP Pre Fight Reception" on September 11,2015. Although it was verbally agreed by witnesses (as late as September 11, 2015) for his appearance, he did not appear. The "Fight to Make Difference" Pre Fight Reception was held at Carmines Italian family style restaurant located inside the Forum Shops. The purpose of this event was to soft launch the Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation.

The foundation received donations to afford the expenses of hosting event, in which allegations state I withdrew money for 'personal endeavors'. All monies deposited and withdrew are verified by invoice and/or receipts. Mr. Mayweather did not deposit any of his personal money into the Floyd Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation account. The foundation raised the sum of $16,600 from sponsors which were allocated for hosting the soft launch of the Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation and operating expenses. I still have in my possession a cashier's check from the foundation payable to Floyd Mayweather Sr. for $2500 that he would have received as an appearance fee had he showed up. I also have a check for $2000 from a sponsor payable to Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation; The check was not deposited into Mayweather Sr. Foundation account due to name discrepancy on the check vs. account name. We were scheduled to change account name after filing officers, however due to training camp it was prolonged.

I received a phone call by Deputy Allan on 10/1/15 to pick up court documents in which I picked up on 0/2/15. The documents notified me of a hearing scheduled for October 15, 2015 at 1:30pm in Department 4 located at 200 Lewis Avenue in Courtroom 7D Floor 7 for allegedly stalking and harassing Mr. Mayweather Sr. The documents included a police report that was filed on September 22, 2015 for obtaining money under false pretense and harassing along with a Cease and Desist Communication and Termination of Agreement from Attorney Randolph Taylor dated September 15, 2015. Apparently the Cease and Desist letter went to a previous address listed on Secretary of State Website. On October 3, 2015, I was sub-served with a Summons for civil lawsuit from Floyd Mayweather Sr. claiming fraud and other allegations. (Please reference attachments) I have supporting evidence of my innocence in all allegations.

I am requesting your prayers and support in this matter. The reputation of my character and my family name is at stake along with my future business affairs. I have faithfully volunteered and participated in The National Day of Prayer, City-Wide Unity Prayer hosted by Pastor Michael Hatch, Domestic Violence

Awareness, Breast Cancer Awareness, Shade Tree, Rescue Mission, Salvation Army, Yellow Ribbon, NAACP, Political campaigns for Councilman Ricki Barlow, Campaign Manager for Laura Perkins, Andre Agassi Foundation, and founded Virtuous Women of Power a Non Profit Organization to empower women in business and ministry just to name a few. I will gladly supply references upon request.

I've reached out to your son, Ross Goodman on October 8, 2015. I am prayerfully hoping for representation from an attorney that is aggressive and accustom to high profile cases, however I am without financial resources. I believe Attorney Ross Goodman is capable of presenting all supporting evidence for my innocence and also a counter lawsuit for slander and defamation of my character. I have received harassing phone calls by a mutual acquaintance of myself and Floyd Sr. and had my vehicle's windshield cracked. No matter what disagreements a family may have at times, at the end of the day we are always there for each other as I have supported my brother in law, Councilman Ricki Barlow on every campaign and other events he has held throughout the duration of his office. I certainly do not want our family name slandered in a city that we have all lived in for many years and love! The RJ Newspaper listed this case in an Article on October 6th which can be viewed on www.reviewjournal.com/news/las-vegas/floyd-mayweather-sr-claims-fraud-vegas-lawsuit.

I am requesting a meeting or phone call with you to share further details of my case in effort to clear my personal and family name in the community. It has come up on several occasions during the course of allegations that I am the wife of Councilman Ricki Barlow instead of brother in Law. I do not want his name slandered or our family name ''Barlow" damaged by default of untrue allegations.

I sincerely appreciate your time, prayers and support. As you may know, this is a very difficult time for me. Thank you and Oscar Goodman for decades of tireless dedication and efforts in the wonderful City of Las Vegas. I can be contacted at [redacted] or reached via cell phone at [redacted] My home address is [redacted]

Law360 Cheat Sheet: Cases Challenging The New Travel Ban

With several court challenges pending against President Donald Trump's latest travel ban, the legal battle over the controversial executive order is heating up, with two big hearings slated for Wednesday. Here, Law360 breaks down where the challenges to the new order currently stand, and what to watch for in the coming week.

Trump Says New Travel Ban Answers Suing States' Concerns

The Trump administration told a Washington federal judge Tuesday that its newly revised immigration ban is "substantially different" from an earlier version halted after states raised constitutional concerns, while pushing back against the contention that the ban is religiously motivated.

NY AG Clarifies Legal Guidance For 'Sanctuary' Cities

New York Attorney General Eric T. Schneiderman has issued updated guidance on how New York municipalities may maintain so-called sanctuary city practices while not blatantly contradicting new federal immigration enforcement practices laid out in President Donald Trump's executive orders and policies.

NATIVE AMERICAN

Tribe Tells 9th Circ. It Can't Trust BIA Absent Injunction

The Northern Arapaho asked the Ninth Circuit Monday to uphold an injunction barring the Bureau of Indian Affairs from entering contracts for services on a shared Wyoming reservation without the consent of both tribes.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

FCC's Dem Pushes 5G, Expanded Broadband Access

The Federal Communications Commission's lone remaining Democrat said in a speech Monday that she's willing to negotiate when formulating policy but will not compromise her principles, pressing for progress on 5G, universal service reform and efforts to add diverse media voices.

Carriers Say FCC Privacy Regs Hurt Small ISPs

The Competitive Carriers Association has pressed the Federal Communications Commission on its request for the agency to reconsider privacy rules passed last year for broadband providers, saying they create uneven regulation in the internet ecosystem and hurt small providers.

PEOPLE

Trump Taps Sullivan, Proskauer, Greenberg Attys For Posts

A Greenberg Traurig LLP shareholder and two partners from Sullivan & Cromwell LLP and Proskauer Rose LLP are among eight individuals tapped by President Donald Trump for key administration posts, the White House announced Tuesday.

Ex-DOJ Heavyweight Joins Linklaters' White Collar Team

Linklaters LLP has bolstered its white collar practice with the addition of Matthew Axelrod, a former top-ranking U.S. Department of Justice attorney who exited the agency after President Donald Trump fired acting U.S. Attorney General Sally Yates for refusing to support an immigration ban.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Immigration Compliance Dangers In The Shared Economy

While many shared economy companies have strong background check systems to address questions of status, the penalties for their failure to ensure freelancers are authorized to work in the U.S. are almost nonexistent. This is a growing problem for employers in relation to the Trump administration's focus on immigration enforcement, says Davis Bae of Fisher Phillips.

Rebuttal

Beware Intended Consequences Of Class Action Reform, Too

The authors of a recent Law360 guest column on H.R. 985, a class action reform bill before the House, insist it is needed to protect corporations forced to settle meritless claims. But studies have debunked the myth of class action blackmail. The new bill simply creates obstacles for true victims of corporate fraud, say David Stein and Andre Mura of Gibbs Law Group LLP.

Florida Condo Fraud Laws Should Protect Directors

The Miami-Dade County grand jury's final report has confirmed the existence of financial and election fraud in many Miami-Dade condominiums. The report recommends that directors be held personally liable for certain acts or omissions even when "willful conduct" has not been established, but such a blanket approach would ultimately be adverse to the interests of most condominium owners, say Rosa de la Camara and Marlyn Perez-Martinez of Becker & Poliakoff LLP.

How The Most Profitable Law Firms Structure Their C-Suites

The most successful Am Law 200 law firms have evolved from being partner-run to being run by a group of highly skilled professionals reporting to firm shareholders. The data collected from our recent survey indicates this model is generally conducive to increased profitability, says Anita Turner, senior director at Colliers International.

Fifteen law firms set themselves apart from the crowd over the past decade by gobbling up smaller firms at a faster pace than everyone else in the industry. Here, the firms that have closed the most acquisitions since 2007, according to a report released Tuesday.

Southern Law Firms Targeted Most For Tie-Ups

Of the 688 combinations involving a U.S. law firm completed over the past decade, more than a quarter involved a Southern law firm as the target for acquisition, a new report released Tuesday shows.

BigLaw Lateral Partner Moves Fell By 7% In 2016

Lateral partner movement between large U.S. law firms fell by 7 percent in 2016 compared to the year before, data collected by Law360 shows, a drop-off experts say was likely the result of uncertainty surrounding the U.S. presidential election.

Ex-Perkins Coie Atty Accuses Firm Of Anti-Jewish Bias

A former intellectual property attorney for Perkins Coie LLP has sued the firm in D.C. federal court accusing it of failing to accommodate his observance of Jewish holidays by scheduling work-related events on those days, saying the firm penalized and eventually fired him for choosing religion over work.

Fewer Bankruptcies But Heavier Caseloads Emerged In 2016

New bankruptcy petitions continued a downward trend for the sixth straight year in 2016, while federal appellate and district courts across the country faced higher caseloads, according to a report released Tuesday.

Judicial Conference To Propose 57 New Federal Judgeships

The national policymaking body for the federal courts said Tuesday it will propose to Congress the creation of 57 new Article III judgeships at the district court and appellate levels to account for the rise in filings since 1990, the last time comprehensive judgeship legislation was passed.

Gov. Seeks Del. Justices' Take On Bench Political Balance

Delaware Gov. John Carney has asked the state Supreme Court to issue an advisory opinion about whether the First State's requirement for party balance on its judicial benches violates the U.S. Constitution, noting a federal lawsuit challenging the issue, which he received more time to reply to Monday.

Blog by Atom is smashing

Atom Bank is a new bank in Britain that hasn't opened its physical doors yet, but which is saying a lot on the web. From a company blog:

"… lots of new companies describe themselves as fintechs and not banks. They think that what banking does is commoditised and adds no real value. They believe that the customer experience can be shaped and enhanced by building better digital front-ends. Better apps, better websites. Here at Atom we disagree. Our Chairman often reminds us that you can put lipstick on a pig, but that doesn't change the fact that it's still a pig. I prefer using the cliché that real beauty is more than skin deep. Either way, we agree with each other." Read more

Bank analytics—using the right data to support decision making

White paper—Predictive analytics help banks manage risk, but without understanding how and why your institution got to its current financial condition, you may repeat or even compound risks. Properly structured analytics can help a bank analyze pricing decisions of individual loan officers for past, current, and expected performance, and can predict the performance impact of loan and spread runoff. DAYS UNTIL NEVADA DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUS: 186

DAYS UNTIL 2020 PRIMARY ELECTION: 304

DAYS UNTIL 2020 GENERAL ELECTION: 441

Good morning, everyone. John Vellardita, a k a the reason state Sen. Keith Pickard exists, is threatening a strike Sept. 10, as Jackie Valley reports. And Pickard appears not to know NSEA and CCEA do not stand together. As I said on Twitter, the real questions are how many teachers actually would strike, and will the governor be able to head this off? Didn't CCEA support him? My memory is hazy…. I wonder if Vellaradita and that barnacle, Steve Sanson, ever talk? I wonder why a news organization would run a story based on a frivolous ethics complaint filed by a clown whom the editor of said newspaper once exposed as a complete fraud? I wonder. (Phew. Already out of breath and still have the meat of Flash to write.)

What's below: McCurdy's move, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a quartet.

COMING UP

Not a strike….

MCCURDY TO OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCE

Assemblyman William McCurdy, who moonlights as the state Democratic Party chair, plans to announce today he is running for the Clark County Commission. (He's been putting together his team, led by Jim Ferrence and Bradley Mayer, since the session ended.) It won't be a cakewalk. North Las Vegas Councilman Isaac Barron is expected to run, too, assuming Mayor John Lee gives him permission. Others will consider it, too; an open commission seat doesn't come around too often.

A QUARTET OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 2 – In the race for GOP chair, the inconstant, mercenary Chuck Muth has abandoned Michael McDonald and teamed up with his old fellow serial loser, George Harris, to support Annie Black. McDonald is now a lock.

Nugget No. 3 -- Wire Act follies.
Nugget No. 4 -- Prince Harry trashes centerpiece of Bernie's campaign and more. Seems Bidenloving to

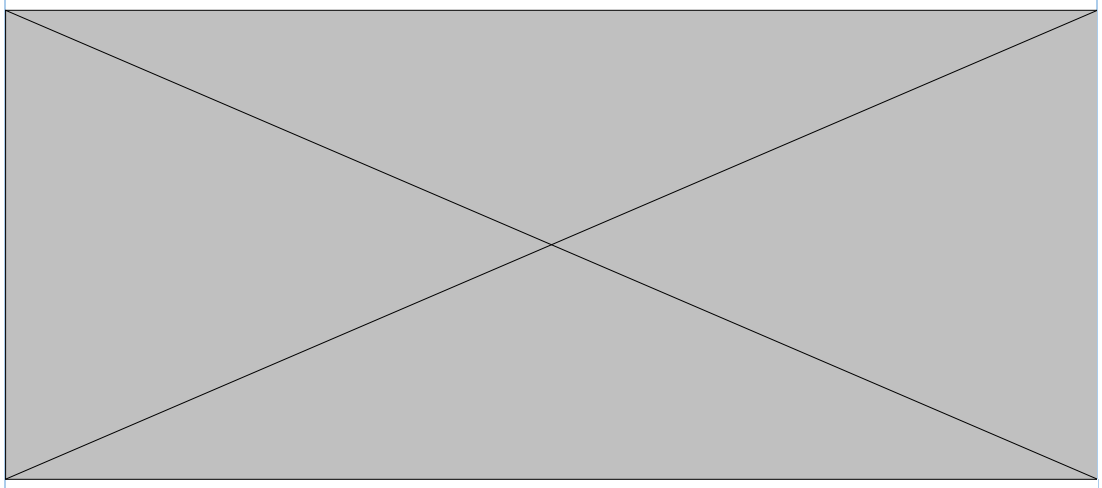
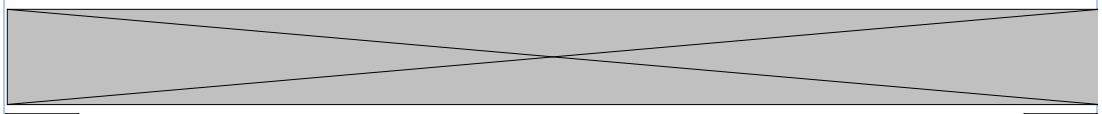
Are Manual Reviews Robbing You of Profits? - Download eBook





More and more merchants are relying on manual reviews as one of their last lines of defense against fraud. Yet even as the use of manual reviews increases, data confirms that the "average" manual review process is taking longer and costing more... with no visible impact on decline or approval rates. What's more, accelerating e-commerce volumes, innovations like mobile wallets, and special requirements like in-game purchasing seem likely to aggravate the problem even further.

Discover six best practices to reduce or eliminate manual reviews from the industry average of 27% of orders to 5% or less — while actually improving fraud prevention and order approval rates. Download this eBook to learn:

- How automated screening reduces the number of manual reviews
- How to best capitalize on artificial intelligence and human insight
- How to reduce time per review from minutes or hours to seconds
- How to optimize your "review zone" using transaction data

Trump's Prosecutor Purge Stokes DOJ Strife

The Trump administration on Friday abruptly forced out all remaining Obama-era U.S. attorneys, a move supporters were quick to defend as par for the course. But what made this different, critics say, was the hasty execution and suspicion that it was driven by a cable news pundit or the desire to head off a troublesome investigation or two.

How Preet Bharara Made A Name For Himself

Preet Bharara long called serving as the U.S. attorney in Manhattan his dream job, and for seven-and-a-half years he lived that dream — all the while haunting the nightmares of lawbreakers on Wall Street, in Albany and elsewhere.

House Passes Frivolous Suit Sanctions Bill

The House of Representatives passed a measure Friday to make sanctions for frivolous federal lawsuits mandatory again, with Republican backers claiming the bill would cut down on frivolous lawsuits.

Bharara Fired After Refusing To Resign

U.S. Attorney Preet Bharara said on Saturday that he had been fired after he refused to comply with Attorney General Jeff Sessions' order directing Obama-appointed U.S. attorneys to resign.

DOD Contract Spending Falls About 31% In 5 Years, GAO Says

U.S. Department of Defense contract spending dropped almost 31 percent from fiscal year 2011 to 2015, the Government Accountability Office said Thursday in a sweeping analysis of overall federal contract spending in that five-year period.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

US, Mexico Pledge New Effort To Clear Sugar Trade Impasse

Officials from the U.S. and Mexico announced Friday that they have renewed their efforts to resolve issues with sugar trade agreements between the two countries after U.S. companies raised red flags over alleged flaws in a deal that halted U.S. trade probes into Mexican sugar imports.

TAX

Reconciliation Offers Path To Tax Reform, Trump Adviser Says

Republicans will "absolutely" pursue tax reform under the budget reconciliation process, the White House National Economic Council director said Friday, referring to the procedure that allows Senate passage of bills related to the budget on a simple majority vote, but is limited to a 10-year time frame.

Fla. House OKs Bill Gutting Gov.'s Tax Incentive Programs

The Florida House of Representatives voted Friday to eliminate the tax incentive programs meant to lure businesses to the state and to increase oversight of the state's tourism marketing corporation, setting up a showdown with the governor, who called it “job-killing legislation.”

Philly Urges Appeals Court To Affirm Soda Tax's Legality

The city of Philadelphia urged a Pennsylvania appeals court Friday to affirm a decision finding that the city’s controversial new levy on sugar-sweetened beverages did not usurp the state’s taxing authority, saying opponents were making political arguments that didn’t implicate the tax’s legality.

Vape Dealers Say Pa. E-Cig Tax Overbroad, Discriminatory

Pennsylvania sellers of nicotine vaping supplies that say the state’s Department of Revenue is enforcing an illegal, overbroad application of a 40 percent tax to items not inherently vape-related had their case removed to federal court Thursday.

McConnell Backs Move To Nix FCC Privacy Rules

The GOP is lining up to push for rollback of Federal Communications Commission rules pertaining to broadband privacy with a new resolution in the House and Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell's support of a Senate measure.

FCC Considering 'Next Generation' Broadcasting Standard

The Federal Communications Commission on Friday published a notice that proposes the authorization of the "next generation" broadcast television standard that would allow for innovations such as ultra high-definition TV, mobile broadcast TV and advanced emergency alerting.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

How GOP Health Care Bill Would Affect Coverage Reporting

The House Republicans' "American Health Care Act" bill would repeal many provisions of the Affordable Care Act but retain and expand the information reporting rules. Health insurance issuers hoping for a full repeal of the ACA's reporting provisions will be disappointed, as the ACA's reporting regime would largely survive, at least temporarily, say Michael Chittenden and Yongo Ding of Miller and Chevalier Chartered.

Early Days Of New Administration Show Influence Of TROs

President Donald Trump's recent executive order banning travel to the U.S. by certain people from several Muslim-majority countries, and the related preliminary injunctive orders, are directly related to concepts of immigration law. However, the temporary restraining order mechanism available under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65(b) is relevant to many practitioners, say attorneys at Skadden Arps Slate Meagher & Flom LLP.

Modernizing New York's Fraudulent Conveyance Laws

A bill recently introduced in the New York State Assembly would repeal the state's version of the Uniform Fraudulent Conveyance Act and replace it with the Uniform Voidable Transaction Act. Adoption of the UVTA would be an important step in ensuring that New York law remains the gold standard in commercial contracts, says Patrick Fitzmaurice of Troutman Sanders LLP.

New Calif. Law Will Change Youth Sports Concussion Cases

California's recently enacted youth sports concussion law significantly expands the scope of the pre-existing "return to play" law, which only applied in the scholastic setting — as is the case in most other jurisdictions throughout the country. Expect to see similar expansions in other states, say Anne Marie Ellis and Paul Alarcon of Buchalter.

In Congress: ACA, Veterans Affairs, Seema Verma

Much of the attention on Capitol Hill this week will remain focused on the House Republican proposal to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act. The plan so far has been met with mixed reviews, with a number of Republican members in both chambers expressing opposition to the legislation in its current form, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

DAYS UNTIL THE 2019 LEGISLATURE ENDS: 89

DAYS UNTIL THE FIRST SPECIAL SESSION BEGINS: 90

Good morning, everyone. I watched "Dark Money" last night on Amazon Prime, mostly because the doc stars a guy I met in Boston last weekend, John S. Adams, who started a non-profit site after getting laid off. It's worth the time to see what happens in a small state with concentrated power. Adams discovered some dark money docs and one of the groups had on its agenda to come to Vegas to get $1 million in funding from a newspaper owner you may know…..

What's below: Inevitable rumor mill, Ward 3 update, RJ nuggets, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a quote.

COMING UP

I guess early voting expansion and same-day reg are dead after that hearing Wednesday. Right, GOP?

COMING IN THREES?

One of the unfortunate and inevitable aftereffects of a week in which there were two resignations by elected officials and the feds were involved in one is the buzzing: Who's next? I was told by no fewer than three sources of varying credibility that the buzz up North and in DC was Kelvin Atkinson was the beginning, not the end. Oh? Of course no one had anything because there is nothing – at least not yet.

One insider with experience in these cases told me that Atkinson likely was pressured to name others. But the kind of wire fraud he committed – he likely will do less than a year – has to do with his money and no one else's, despite the escalating paranoia. He wouldn't know if anyone else is doing it – at least with any certainty – and could only repeat the kind of rumors that….got the feds after him in the first place.

But the fact is this: Unless the state cleans up its own messes and doesn't let them fester, the feds will always happily come in to sweep up.

A COUPLE OF RUBEN RESURRECTION NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – I am reliably told that the primary electorate in that race is 65 percent non-Hispanic and 35 percent Hispanic. Can one candidate get enough of the former so even if Ruben Kihuen gets most of the latter, he still won't get through? Or does this make it more unlikely he AND Olivia Diaz get through – that is, one or the other?

Nugget No. 2 – This list is getting longer. But almost none have said much….

MEET THE NEW RJ

During the same week in which the Review-Journal is publishing a lengthy series on water by one of its better reporters, Henry Brean, showing there are still those over there practicing good journalism, the newspaper shocked the insider world by hiring Steve Sebelius back to oversee its political coverage. This is a fascinating move.

I have known Steve for decades, and his integrity is unimpeachable. I am sure he thought long and hard before going back to a place that forced him out, leaving the paper with two non-journalists as columnists – one who echoes GOP talking points and another who is a conspiracy hate-monger.

My guess is that the paper is getting blowback – and losing readers -- for its lack of ideological diversity and its failed attempt to install Republicans in Carson City. Steve's hiring is great optics for them, an attempt to show they can't be biased because Steve is an unabashed progressive overseeing coverage. (Follow that logic….)

Steve is liberal, but he has never hesitated to call out Democrats for bad behavior. But he also will make sure the coverage by the fine Carson City team is balanced. I just hope that he doesn't experience the mucking around and Adelson fealty by Executive Editor Glenn Cook, whose ideology matches his "columnists," that other editors and reporters have talked about. They have reported Cook accepting talking points from Sands Central on a Sands story (I have this on the record and will write about it at some point.) and of him irritating other editors by editing stories he thought were unfair to…Republicans.

I wish Steve all of the best, as do many others who now see hope for the newspaper.

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 -- Dina and Rachel.

Nugget No. 2 -- The RJ is right on this.

DAYS UNTIL THE NEVADA PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUS (FOR NOW): 260

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 ELECTION: 519

Good morning, everyone. It's so good to be back in Vegas to feel the warmth – or should I say scorching heat? Yes, I am pining for Carson City. So sue me (if that's still allowed).

I hear there may be more stops on the gubernatorial victory tour soon, including stops at his daughter's school and UNLV. I bet lawmakers will be there, too, to celebrate one of the more amazing legislative sessions in history. It ended on time and with far-reaching reforms and funding. ICYMI, how it happened.

What's below: Losers coagulate, gamers organize (?), Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about two important primary results in one day.

COMING UP

Hillary's campaign will do a review of the first 50 days of organizing in Nevada on a morning call with reporters. Maybe we can ask about Yucca Mountain, too?

THE ROAR OF THE PAPER TIGERS

Nugget No. 1 – Why does a guy who is a serial failure and has only a big, nasty mouth merit this kind of headline? Citizen Outhouse vowed to defeat incumbents and Establishment candidates in 2014 and failed abysmally. Citizen Outhouse vowed to recall incumbents, including the speaker, and failed even more abysmally. And now Citizen Outhouse says it will repeal a tax increase that is widely supported by the public, lawmakers, businesses and gaming? Question – and I know this falls on deaf ears: Why do my colleagues take seriously these loudmouth losers? All they do is fail.

Nugget No. 2 – Since I last did a Morning Flash, the Nye County GOP and the state party have sent missives thundering about the tax increase. The usual hyperventilating and threats, signifying nothing. The state GOP has no money and no credibility. So I am sure some of these GOP lawmakers are terrified.

THE ROAR OF THE REAL TIGERS (AND A LION)

Much more interesting than the incessant bleating of partisan know-nothings and shakedown artists is what the gaming industry will do to protect those who went out on a limb to support the governor (not to mention what Brian Sandoval will do to help next year).

One insider put it this way: "Some of the gaming CEOs talked two weeks ago about stepping up. They can make a statement by getting rid of Fiore, Ohrenschall, Seaman, Dickman etc who could lose anyway and protecting (James) Oscarson, PK (O'Neill), Derek (Anderson), (Steven) Silberkraus. It has the potential to make O'Connell look like a whisper."

(I would also mention Erv Nelson and David Gardner.)

That last reference is to Ann O'Connell, the state senator who defied the gamers in 2003 and was defeated in a primary the next cycle by a fellow named Joe Heck. I still think some of the GOP Ass. Caucus members will be almost impossible to dislodge, but it would be nice if the gamers actually stepped up to protect those now at risk.

A QUARTET OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Keep an eye on the voter registration numbers as Team Hillary begins organizing in the state. Democrats are down to a 55,000-voter lead over Republicans statewide. In Clark County, the lead is threatening to go below 100,000. Registration is not destiny, as I have said many times; but it matters.

Nugget No. 2 – Keep an eye on this, too: Ex-garbage monopoly boss Steve Kalish's non-compete expires in September, and it looks as if he is getting ready to rumble. Wonder how that will sit with local governments who have pledged allegiance to the Republic for which it stands, one company, indivisible…..

Nugget No. 3 – All roads lead to Vegas or touch Vegas. Always. Seems some of the dirty FIFA money passed through a Vegas bank. Shocker.

Nugget No. 4 – The paper of record rounded up state legislation, and guess which Nevada bill got attention? Um, we matter?

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

The Sun laments the solar result.

This sounds bad

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Previously a medical building, with William E Ferron's Las Vegas Pharmacy (opened in 1906) at ground level, the Silver Palace Casino opened on the corner of 1st and Fremont St in downtown Las Vegas, NV with a ceremony on June 8, 1956. At 32 E Fremont St, the Silver Palace was the first 2-level club in Las Vegas and also boasted the first escalator in Southern Nevada. The $1.5 million price included 16,700 ft of floor space. Silver Palace closed in 1964. The location became McLaney's Carousel in 1964, then Sassy Sally's in 1980. It is currently occupied by Mermaids Casino between the Las Vegas Club and Binions on Fremont St.

After the death of Howard Hughes, several forged wills appeared in an apparent effort to fraudulently secure a portion of his estate. One such forgery was the so-called "Mormon Will". The hand written will was found in Salt Lake City, UT and left $156 million (1/16 of the Hughes estate) to a Melvin Dummar. Mr Dummar recalls picking up an unkempt man in rural Nevada, offering a trip to the hospital. The man, who introduced himself as Howard Hughes, requested transport to Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, NV. A probate trial was held in Las Vegas, NV, and onJune 8, 1978, the "Mormon Will" was deemed a fraud by a jury in a Clark County, NV court. The story inspired the movie "Melvin and Howard." Dummar also filed an appeal in Utah in 2006, but lost again.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

There may not be another day that so changed the course of recent Nevada political history as this day did a number of years ago. Both primary results would presage general election outcomes that would have a tremendous effects on the state and one prominent family. Who were the two nominees of different parties – one won and the other lost -- who won on this date in the two biggest races in the state, and what family was affected by both races?

Tuesday's winner: Former Secretary of the Senate David Byerman

The question: (Monday) was the anniversary of an election Nevada that changed history. The vote was 168 to 57. What was it?

The answer: Vegas incorporation vote.

Newsom squashes California HSR full build-out

California Gov. Gavin Newsom, citing budget pressures, says the state will not move forward with plans to connect Los Angeles and San Francisco by high-speed rail. Rather, Newsom said the state will build only the 119-mile Central Valley segment of the line, linking Merced and Bakersfield. Newsom's remarks, made during his first State of the State address Feb. 12, were not widely expected.Full Article

Honolulu councilwoman seeks audit of rail project

Suggesting that fraud may be the cause of cost overruns, City Council newcomer Heidi Tsuneyoshi is demanding a forensic audit of contracts tied to a plan to build a transit system for Honolulu. The audit is needed "to determine whether an employee or other person has exploited internal control weaknesses to misappropriate assets or commit other illegal actions," Tsuneyoshi wrote in a council resolution she filed yesterday. Full Article

California HSR: Seven Deadly Mistakes

"Real high-speed rail might still make sense in the U.S. in the densely populated Northeast Corridor and among certain high-population city-pairs elsewhere in the U.S. in the 'sweet spot' of 250-500 miles apart (too far to drive easily, too short to fly conveniently), if costs can be kept under control," writes Eno Center for Transportation Senior Fellow and Eno Transportation Weekly Editor Jeff Davis. "But future high-speed rail projects would do well to avoid seven mistakes that have caused the California system to be indefinitely delayed."Full Article

Virgin Trains USA scuttles IPO

Miami-based Virgin Trains USA LLC, previously known as Brightline before it rebranded itself following a 2018 partnership forged with Virgin Enterprises Ltd. and founder Richard Branson, has canceled issuing the IPO scheduled for the week of Feb. 11, saying it will pursue other fundraising options. No indication was given whether it will reconsider an IPO in the near future. Full Article

FCC's 'Nutrition' Labels Mostly Empty Calories, For Now

The Federal Communications Commission's newly unveiled "nutritional labels" for broadband services are a well-intentioned attempt to help consumers navigate price and performance information, but experts say they may face a long road to major industry adoption and there is no guarantee they will provide real transparency.

Inversion Regs Cast Net Wider Than Pfizer-Allergan Deal

The U.S. Department of the Treasury on Monday issued rules to curb tax-motivated inversions, and while much of the immediate attention focused on how they would affect the proposed Pfizer-Allergan merger, the regulations could ensnare other kinds of cross-border deals or even domestic transactions.

China Imposes Sanctions On N. Korea After UN Vote

The Chinese government on Tuesday banned certain imports of North Korean coal, iron ore and metals, mirroring the language of a recent United Nations sanction resolution and raising hopes that China's leaders were serious about punishing Pyongyang for alleged efforts to improve its nuclear weapons capability.

TAX

NYC Council Wants To Tax Carried Interest, 'Mansion' Sales

The New York City Council on Monday proposed new taxes on carried-interest compensation common among fund managers and on high-value residential property sales, saying the taxes would be a fair way to raise $410 million next year to restock the city's recession-battered fiscal reserves.

DC Circ. Won't Revive Internet Tax Row Over Cigarette Sales

The D.C. Circuit on Tuesday affirmed a lower court ruling tossing a Native American man's constitutional challenge to a law allowing states to collect taxes on Internet tobacco sales, saying that he ran little risk of federal prosecution over unpaid taxes and a ruling on the law couldn't protect him from state or local litigation.

AT&T Says Calif. Cell Tax Class Action Should Be Federal

AT&T Inc., one of several telecommunications companies sued along with a California tax agency for allegedly illegally collecting hundreds of millions of dollars in cell phone sales taxes, asked a California federal judge to take the putative class action on Monday, saying federal law prevents state courts from hearing the dispute.

IMMIGRATION

Fee Change Rule For Immigration Applications Hits The OMB

A new rule aimed at changing the fee schedule for certain immigration applications was submitted to the Office of Management and Budget on Monday, signaling that U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services could be rolling out an update to its fees in the near future.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Sirius Can't Challenge T-Mobile, AT&T Spectrum Leasing: FCC

The Federal Communications Commission on Monday cleared T-Mobile and AT&T subsidiaries to move forward with a spectrum leasing deal, rejecting Sirius XM Radio Inc.'s objections of service interference as inappropriate for the forum.

Berkeley Defends Cellphone Warning Ordinance At 9th Circ.

Berkeley, California, urged the Ninth Circuit on Monday to allow an ordinance mandating that cellphone retailers include a radiation warning with all sales, saying a trade group's challenge to the law misapplied the First Amendment to severely limit government's regulatory powers.

Verizon, AT&T Split At FCC Over US-Cuba Route Rules

AT&T and Verizon separately weighed in on the Federal Communications Commission's floated proposal to open up rate negotiation for telecom services between the U.S. and Cuba, with the companies taking different stances Monday on whether the commission should keep nondiscrimination conditions in place.

TSCA Amendments Are Coming: 5 Ways To Prepare Now

Recent successes in the Senate and House reflect significant progress in efforts to harmonize amendments to the Toxic Substances Control Act. Although the specific terms and scope of the changes are still unclear, there are important actions importers, manufacturers and processors of chemical substances can take to enhance their positions in the market, says Lawrence Culleen of Arnold & Porter LLP.

What You Should Know About The New PTAB Rules

In general, the new Patent Trial and Appeal Board rules — effective May 2 — provide additional clarity on procedural issues and a few substantive areas. While this clarity is likely to streamline certain aspects of the proceedings, allowing patent owners to present testimonial evidence before institution will complicate the pre-institution phase, say attorneys with Finnegan Henderson Farabow Garrett & Dunner LLP.

Do Schools Need Schooling On Sexual Harassment?

The disparate handling of several recent school-based sexual harassment cases could make even a seasoned employment lawyer struggle to remember where the lines in these types of cases are actually drawn. In the wake of such contrasting outcomes, school administrators and employers should be reminded to thoroughly investigate all allegations so as not to be seen as indifferent, says Zachary Cantor, a principal at Cantor Law.

Good Afternoon to everyone!!!
I am still here in LA trying to maintain my peace of mind, it has not been easy, especially given the fact that the NBA followed me to LA (Santa Monica) for this years NBA Award dinner. I was literally 6 miles away during the live taping, I have not and do not intend on watching that foolishness. My intention is to remain in California until after the 4th of July then I might drive to Mexico, then Belize!

I am not in the mood for this foolishness and craziness, Pippen and now Mustapha Farrakhan have followed me to LA and are stalking the living shit out of me and the residents of Santa Monica.

No one deserves this much drama, and since he cannot admit to raping then murdering my son, and there will be no investigation, it is best for me to part my ways, even if that means leaving the country which I have no problem doing.

In case you did not know, my buddy Tom Cruise found me on the beach of Venice, he has not grabbed me yet, I expect him soon!

Joe Biden, nothing is guaranteed, there have been so many promises made that I do not want to hear any new lies, I am waiting or my payout from Obama!

What fails me without question, is how everyone else can face charges, yet Pippen remains a free man, solely for the purpose to harass the living hell out of me (unreported).

I am not a Muslim, I do not like being portrayed as one and I do not give a damn what the Nation of Islam wants, I am not a felon! Therefore I would not fit in, I do not know what his justification is for hanging out in LA I do not want him, and knowing him is an embarrassment to us all. I am not one of the women in his collection and it needs to be said that I don't want him!

My grandmother Debbie Valentine is pictured in the photos attached, that is the woman who help to build President Donald Trump.

I owe no one an apology for who my grandmother is and or why she was so close to Trump, I can share that he loved her, I think he bought her the fur in that photo!

Congressman Danny K Davis, I will refrain from using Bobby Rush any further, I am not part of this hate filled Anti White rhetoric that is dividing and separating our country!

Congresswoman Maxine Waters you know my concerns!

That being said, I do not know what you want me to say, this madness is unbelievable!

I want to know where Pippen is and why he is allowed to wreck chaos in my life, more than that I am very concerned about the conduct and behavior of the LAPD, is it true that the Mayor is targeting me for Magic Johnson? This is the exact reason why I want to leav ethe USA, if you cannot control me you manipulate me!

Thank you for taking Obama out of the country he was getting on my last nerve begging!

See you tonight for the debate, I am not talking, until I am paid for what I have done in the past!

Dear City of Santa Monica,

It is with great anticipation that I submit my resume for your review, in consideration for the role of “Background Investigator”. Allow me to introduce myself, my name is Chyvette A. Valentine.

My resume will offer a quick snapshot of my most recent employment background, what it will not reflect is my background in “Private Investigations, Security, and Armed Guard Training”.

- Capital Credit; Account Recovery Agent (1985-1986)
- BellSouth; Fraud and Risk Management (1992-1994)
- Illinois Department of Corrections; Correction Officer (1995)
- JK Guardian Security; Armed Security Guard (1994-1995)

These are some of the key roles, where I gained most of my experience, and training in my field of study. I am presently an online student pursuing 4 degrees, my primary major is Criminal Justice and this role aligns with my career path.

In addition to those key roles, I need to also mention that I have obtained training and certification from August 1992:

Professional Business School
Private Security, Private Detective and Armed Guard Training 330 S Wells,
Chicago, Illinois 60654
Certification: In Armed Guard and Private Detective/ Investigation
Active Gun Registration: 230-078648 www.idfpr.com

I have relocated to Los Angeles with hopes of securing stable long term employment, which will offer me the opportunity to afford the lifestyle that I love and enjoy, living in the Inglewood community, while building for my retirement.

If I were to cite which of my most notable professional references I could name that would give a great reference, I would name the following:

- President George W Bush (Award for Service)
- President Barack Obama (Award for Service)
- Mayor Rahm Emmanuel, Chicago
- Governor Pat Quinn, Illinois
- Senator Dick Durbin, Illinois
- Senator Mark Kirk, Illinois

Reference: Security website http://cat7thward.wixsite.com/sundayscatering/security

This being said there are no outside influence and/or distractions that would interfere with my performance of the duties to which I would be recruited, and I am able to start immediately. I look forward to being a contributing member of the Inglewood Community.

I am prepared to obtain whatever permits, license and training needed to qualify for this role, and look forward to hearing from you, and preparing for the next step in the interview process for this opening.

This being said there are no outside influence and/or distractions that would interfere with my performance of the duties to which I would be recruited, and I am able to start immediately.

My skills would include (and is not limited to):

- Skip Tracing
- Account Recovery
- Background Investigations
- Fraud Detection
- Employment Verification
- Loan Repayment
- Student Loan Recovery
- Credit Card Detection and Recovery

This can be accomplished using a number of identifiers in account recovery, fraud detection or background investigation using one or more of the following:

- Name
- Address
- Social Security Number

- Account Numbers
- Loans Info

And other relevant identifiers when looking to investigate, locate or recover an account for my client and/or firm.

I have gained security classifications on many levels including and not limited to government accounts, and records. I am prepared to obtain whatever permits, license and training needed to qualify for this role.

I look forward to hearing from you, and preparing for the next step in the interview process for this opening.

Sincerely

3 Questions Environmental Attorneys Have About The ESA

The Endangered Species Act gives the federal government powerful tools to protect animals and plants in danger of extinction, and the Obama administration took steps to use the ESA to beef up safeguards against negative environmental impacts from energy projects and protections for species that aid crop development. But under the Trump administration, how the ESA will be applied is uncertain. This is the fourth in a seven-part series on important open questions about environmental law. Read more »

The "why" behind our merger

FRIDAY, MARCH 16, 2018

Since the founding of Forward Cities by Denise Byrne and Christopher Gergen in 2014, the vision has been singular: to help cities advance inclusive innovation and economic development in their communities through shared learning, collaboration, and intentional effort.

Last summer laid the groundwork for Forward Cities' next step: Gergen was approached about succeeding the outgoing president of CEOs for Cities, a 20-year-old national city-learning network. Instead of a new gig, Gergen envisioned the greater impact the two organizations would have by coming together as one.

The merger between Forward Cities and CEO for Cities was announced Feb. 8. The merged organization will move its operations from Cleveland, Ohio, to Durham, North Carolina, under the brand of Forward Cities.

The expanded platform also gives the broader community an opportunity to focus on a few critical questions such as:

How do we create true, inclusive, economic prosperity? What's the wealth distribution in cities and how many new businesses are being started in the city and by whom? How can we foster true equity of access AND ownership?

Gergen recently discussed the merger, its implications, and the vision for the future with our media partner, Issue Media Group. You can read the Q&A here.

We're not doing this work in a vacuum, and that's where this bimonthly newsletter comes in. Through the merger, we have the opportunity to reach over 15,000 leaders from around the world who are committed to driving economic growth and shared prosperity. We are committed to being an invaluable source of stories, promising practices, and profiles of leaders on the leading edge of innovative practice.

But we need your stories to help us achieve this goal! So please tweet us your stories, ideas, and insights to @ForwardCities so we can retweet them and distribute through the newsletter to help amplify their impact and reach. We're continuing the conversation on Twitter @ForwardCities, and hope you join us! We encourage you to share your stories by tweeting them to us.

Please consider forwarding this newsletter to someone in your network who would be interested in the work we're doing or, better yet, encourage them to subscribe at our website, ForwardCities.org.

Could Mueller Report Swing The Pendulum On Independent Counsel?

Special counsel Robert Mueller's report on whether the Trump campaign was in cahoots with the Russian government has raised old questions about the independence of such investigations. But attorneys who have worked on similar inquiries, from Watergate to Whitewater, say there are no easy answers on how much autonomy their successors should have.

House Dems Want Bipartisanship, Candor From New FCC

A pair of Democratic U.S. representatives on Monday asked the new Federal Communications Commission chairman — Republican Commissioner Ajit Pai — to commit to keeping Congress in the loop, taking a bipartisan leadership approach and avoiding retaliation efforts against FCC employees based on their previous work.

Pai Vows To Tackle 'Digital Divide' As New FCC Chief

Bridging the “digital divide” between Americans will be the one of the top priorities for newly minted Federal Communications Commission Chairman Ajit Pai, he said Tuesday in his first substantive policy remarks since President Donald J. Trump tapped him to lead the agency.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

FCPA Expectations Under President Trump

We are on the lookout for three signs that the Trump administration will enact changes in Foreign Corrupt Practices Act enforcement, say Roderick Thomas and Colin Cloherty of Wiley Rein LLP.

A Return To Republican Antitrust Policies For Pharma

We expect the change in pharmaceutical antitrust enforcement from the Obama administration to the Trump administration will most likely resemble that of the Bush administration vis-a-vis the Clinton administration — a continued focus on enforcing antitrust laws, but a decrease in volume in exchange for enhanced attention on specific regulatory objectives, say attorneys with Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati PC.

Native American Recognition In Newfoundland: Part 1

On Jan. 31, tens of thousands of applicants expect to be denied membership to the Qalipu Mi'kmaq First Nation Band because they do not meet the now stringent membership criteria. Applicants' concerns include heightened and sometimes double standards, the unforgiving point system and the composition of the enrollment committee, says Stephen Anstey of Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP.

Taxing Marijuana: A Hazy Issue For Municipal Bankruptcy

Recent court holdings that marijuana businesses are barred from federal bankruptcy protection may pose a serious problem for fiscally distressed municipalities looking for Chapter 9 relief — specifically those that tax marijuana sales, says Katherine Lewis of Weil Gotshal & Manges LLP.

Payments and the friction of security

In a Feb. 2 blog on the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank's Retail payments Risk Forum, David Lott writes: "One of the critical elements in a consumer's experience when performing a financial transaction is the concept of friction. In the payments environment, friction can be measured by the number and degree of barriers that impede a smooth and successful transaction flow. ... We usually think that to decrease friction is to increase convenience."

Lott raises the issue of increased friction due to the requirement to leave EMV cards in retailer terminals during transactions. Read the blog

EXTERNAL EMAIL

Dear Mayor Goodman,
This is the 20th letter I am writing on behalf of myself and Autistic Daughter who has been scammed out if hundreds of thousands of dollars. There should be laws in place to protect us better. My Autistic daughter was scammed out of over 150,000 investment she made in her younger sisters career by a Mr. Wade Martin who claims to know you as well as be a top music producer. He made promises on paper and verbal as well. It makes me ill that people like this get away with taking your money and leaving you high and dry. I was raised by a strict Jewish family where your word meant something. Because this is a transit town, many get away with scams and No lawyers want to help unless you have another few hundred thousand to front them. This was my Autistic daughter's money and she believed in him. I have seen so much and so many go unpunished and I am appalled at the way things are. This needs to change. I was almost killed in 2006 and was awarded a judgment and still can't collect. I am 57 years young. This person never did time. Really this is the Wild West! I can only ask and hope for change. Please please help us before we are homeless. I will be an advocate to all those who are in need. I understand you have a battle of Cancer as well and we can move mountains together. I want so much to meet with you so we can show you and explain that this is not just an ordinary case but an extraordinary case. We need help, please Respectfully,
Phoenix Neuman

Congress Braces For Fight Over Trump's First Budget

President Donald Trump's first budget for Congress quickly set the stage for political battles over defense spending increases and domestic cuts Thursday, as legislators prepare for a potential government shutdown in fights over funding this year and next.

Analysis

Trump's Defense Budget Gets Lukewarm Reception

The White House's $1.15 trillion budget blueprint for 2018 fulfills President Donald Trump's campaign promise to significantly increase defense spending, but even congressional defense hawks hold reservations about the plan, with a $30 billion supplemental defense spending request for 2017 also raising concerns among lawmakers.

Trump Budgets $1.5B To Fund DHS Cybersecurity Efforts

President Donald Trump floated a budget blueprint for the 2018 fiscal year Thursday that sets aside $1.5 billion for the U.S. Department of Homeland Security to protect federal networks and critical infrastructure from cyberattacks, funding that falls well below the $19 billion the Obama administration proposed spending on such cybersecurity initiatives last year.

Analysis

Trump's Proposed DOJ Budget Cuts Would Gut Civil Rights

The Trump administration's Thursday proposal to cut the U.S. Department of Justice's budget even as spending on immigration enforcement and other areas increases is another indication that the new administration will put less emphasis on civil rights, fair lending, antitrust and other areas, experts say.

9th Circ. Judges Say Split Would Be Step In 'Wrong Direction'

Three sitting jurists on the Ninth Circuit, including former Chief Judge Alex Kozinski, testified Thursday before lawmakers on Capitol Hill, asking them not to split apart the circuit amid renewed legislative efforts to divide it into two.

Neil Gorsuch told Guantanamo Bay's top commander after a 2005 visit that he was "extraordinarily impressed" with conditions at the detention facility, recently released records from his tenure at the Department of Justice reveal, adding another layer to his involvement with detainee issues at the height of the Bush administration's war on terror.

BANKING & SECURITIES

Trump Spares Treasury Financial Crimes Units From Cuts

President Donald Trump's Thursday budget blueprint proposes a raft of spending cuts, but anti-terror and financial security efforts at the U.S. Department of the Treasury appear to have been spared from reduced funding.

SEC Enforcer Sees No Problem With Staff Subpoena Power

The chief enforcer at the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission shrugged off criticism on Thursday that agency staff were given excessive subpoena powers in the wake of the financial crisis, notwithstanding an effort underway by the SEC's new acting chair to scale back that authority.

Analysis

Trump's Shrunken EPA Budget Would Also Hinder States

President Donald Trump's newly unveiled budget proposal aligns with his promises to drastically cut the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's funding, but would also make it difficult for states to step up and fill the gap left by a diminished EPA.

Trump Proposes Slashing EPA's Budget By $2.6B

President Donald Trump on Thursday proposed cutting the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's budget by nearly a third, a $2.6 billion reduction that would prompt drastic changes at the EPA and move the agency further from the climate change goals of the previous administration.

Clean Energy Takes It On The Chin In Trump Budget Plan

Clean energy technology development and federal land acquisitions are on the chopping block in slimmed-down U.S. Energy and Interior Departments budgets proposed Thursday by President Donald Trump, though the agencies were spared the draconian cuts proposed for the Environmental Protection Agency.

Pennsylvania DEP Chief Blasts Proposed EPA Cuts

The chief of Pennsylvania's Department of Environmental Protection ripped President Donald Trump's proposed cuts to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's budget Thursday, highlighting the elimination of funding for the Chesapeake Bay cleanup in a letter to EPA Administrator Scott Pruitt.

High Court Urged To Hear Water Rule Suit Despite Exec. Order

Conservation groups asked the U.S. Supreme Court on Thursday not to pause an appeal of the Sixth Circuit's decision that it has jurisdiction to hear challenges to the so-called Waters of the United States rule, arguing that despite President Donald Trump's executive order to revise or rescind the rule, it was still on the books and should continue its process through the courts.

ACA Watch: Repeal Inches Ahead, Price To Take Mic

House Republicans on Thursday just barely moved their Affordable Care Act repeal bill out of committee, Health Secretary Tom Price scheduled a Friday news conference on the measure, and Democrats coalesced behind a common message of opposition. Here's the latest ACA news.

Ill. Could Lose $40B Under Obamacare Replacement

Illinois stands to lose $40 billion in federal support for the state's health care program for the poor and disabled in the next decade under the health care plan proposed by Republicans in Congress last week aimed at repealing and replacing the Affordable Care Act.

Analysis

DOT Budget Undermines Trump's $1T Infrastructure Promise

President Donald Trump's proposed 13 percent cut in funding to the U.S. Department of Transportation guts a variety of transit and other programs, raising questions about his promise to deliver a $1 trillion infrastructure investment plan, experts say, in an opening salvo in what's likely to be a pitched political battle over road, highway and airport upgrades.

Texas Weighs Proposal To Strip Cities Of Uber, Lyft Oversight

After hearing from cities that they want to be able to require ride-hailing applications like Uber and Lyft to pass more stringent safety checks, the author of a Texas bill to regulate the companies at a statewide level on Thursday indicated he's unlikely to change his proposal.

DOL Budget Cuts Could Mean Less Enforcement, Fewer Rules

The $2.5 billion cut to the U.S. Department of Labor outlined in President Donald Trump's budget blueprint Thursday means the DOL could be a very different agency in the near future. While exactly what will get eliminated as part of the 21 percent reduction is unclear, attorneys say the agency's rulemaking and enforcement efforts will likely take a hit.

Trump Seeks $2.5B Cut For DOL Budget

The U.S. Department of Labor's funding would be scaled back by 21 percent to $9.6 billion under a 2018 budget proposal unveiled Thursday by the White House, cutting deeply into job training programs for senior citizens and young people from disadvantaged backgrounds.

House Reps Float Bill To Add Parental Bereavement To FMLA

A bipartisan group of House Representatives on Thursday introduced a bill to protect the rights of grieving parents under the Family Medical Leave Act, proposing to give those who have lost children up to 12 weeks away from work to deal with the trauma.

Ariz. Min. Wage Hike Withstands Biz Groups' Challenge

Arizona can implement a minimum wage hike and paid sick leave ballot initiative that voters recently approved, the state's top court has said, rejecting a challenge by the Arizona Chamber of Commerce and other business groups.

TAX

2 Of 3 Biz Professionals Don't Expect Tax Reform This Year

Nearly two-thirds of recently surveyed business executives don't expect President Donald Trump and congressional Republicans to make good on their promise to achieve corporate tax reform until next year or 2019, according to results announced Thursday by audit, tax and advisory firm KPMG LLP.

Ill. Lawmakers Look To Extend Substantial Biz Tax Credits

Three possible plans for keeping businesses in Illinois with tax credits emerged Thursday in the state's General Assembly, as an earlier program that doled out more than 800 such credits is set to expire by the end of April.

IMMIGRATION

Money For Wall, More Immigration Judges In Trump Budget

President Donald Trump's vision of the federal budget for fiscal year 2018 would set aside $2.6 billion to pay for his long-advertised wall along the nation's southern border and would seek to hire more than 1,600 immigration agents, judges and prosecutors to aid his efforts to combat illegal immigration.

Maryland Judge The Second To Block Trump's Travel Ban

A Maryland federal judge on Thursday became the second to halt the implementation of the latest version of President Donald Trump's immigration ban after a Hawaii federal judge froze the measure on Wednesday, the day before it was set to take effect.

Five Judges Say 9th Circuit Should Have Upheld Travel Ban

A group of Ninth Circuit judges said Wednesday that the full appeals court should have reconsidered a three-judge panel's refusal to lift the block on President Donald Trump's immigration ban for people from seven mostly Muslim countries, saying the president and Congress have the power to decide who enters the U.S.

Free Market Group Says FCC Must Nix ISP Privacy Rules

Think tank the Free State Foundation on Thursday blasted privacy rules for ISPs adopted by the Federal Communications Commission late in the Obama administration, telling the agency that it doesn't have the authority to set them and should withdraw or overhaul the regulations.

Writers Guild Blasts FCC's Cutting Of Lifeline Providers

The Writers Guild of America, East, on Thursday pressed the Federal Communications Commission to undo its decision to take back eligibility to provide low-income Lifeline broadband service granted to nine companies late in the Obama administration, saying the move has undercut the program's goals.

Making Sense Of Potential DOL Fiduciary Rule Challenges

Much has been written about the U.S. Department of Labor's conflict-of-interest rule and it has been the subject of intense debate. Some important milestones are only hours or days away and the likelihood of significant changes to the rule is approaching rapidly, says David Tittsworth of Ropes & Gray LLP.

FCC Takes A Backseat In Regulating Online Privacy

Shortly after the Federal Communications Commission stayed the data security regulation piece of its broadband privacy order, a joint resolution of Congress proposed to repeal the entire order. Despite this rollback on FCC regulation of internet privacy, the FCC may still have a role in cybersecurity regulation outside the online space, say Adrienne Ehrhardt and Michelle Dama of Michael Best & Friedrich LLP.

Expansion Of Jurisprudence Under New Class Action Bill

One key provision of the Fairness in Class Action Litigation Act that has not garnered substantial attention affords class action litigants a compulsory right to appeal an order granting or denying class certification. This element of the bill will have a significant impact on litigants and will likely change the legal landscape of class action jurisprudence, say Kymberly Kochis and Veronica Wayner of Eversheds Sutherland LLP.

Renewable Energy And Tax Reform

In the coming months, the debate over reforming the nation's tax code will intensify, and the renewable energy tax provisions — the production tax credit and the investment tax credit — will be at risk of being either scaled back or eliminated altogether. But regardless of Washington politics, renewable energy deployment will likely continue to rise, say Michael Andrews and Brad Thompson of King & Spalding LLP.

A Pragmatic Look At Potential Changes To H-1B Cap Season

With the fiscal year 2018 H-1B cap season in full swing, the business community is questioning whether the Trump administration could alter or curtail the H-1B program. Scott FitzGerald and Alexandra Law of Fragomen Del Rey Bernsen & Loewy LLP address that question, with a focus on whether, and to what extent, the administration could impact the adjudication of applications and petitions filed under the 2018 H-1B cap.

Subject: [Marketing Mail] Join the fight to defend democracy!

Looming attacks threaten our democracy — but you can keep it thriving!

Dear Friend,

Throughout American history, it was a scandal when the president lied. But recent months have shown we are not in normal times.

Not when the president continues to make false claims about massive voter fraud, surging crime rates, and "American carnage." And certainly not when he fired the director of the FBI amid a crucial investigation.

Americans have lost faith in our government, which has become polarized, paralyzed, and unrepresentative. And that's when democracy is put at grave risk.

What can we do when lies threaten our democracy? We must — and we will — fight back with facts.

DONATE NOW

With the full force of the Brennan Center for Justice's legal, research, and policy expertise — and your generous support — we will defend democracy and thwart this onslaught of attacks.

That's why I'm asking for your immediate help. The Brennan Center's fiscal year ends on June 30. Please make a special gift right now to help us put our best legal and strategic foot forward.

While the White House won't acknowledge the real problem of Russian interference in the 2016 elections, it's launched a "Commission on Election Integrity" to prove false accusations that millions of people voted illegally last November.

With your partnership, the Brennan Center will:

- Debunk baseless claims of massive voter fraud, which have a long history of being used to justify discriminatory laws that block access to the polls.
- Counter Attorney General Sessions' attempts to undo a powerful bipartisan movement for criminal justice reform — including his mandate that prosecutors seek the maximum charge with the harshest punishment.

- Demand a proper investigation into the Russia scandal, fight the Muslim travel ban, and curtail seemingly unending abuses of executive power.

We're in the fight for the future of American democracy. The gift you make today will enable us to defend our country's most sacred values. Please be generous.

For democracy,

Michael Waldman
President

From Lawmaker To Lawyer: Prioritizing Is Always Key

Today, members of Congress often seem able to blame colleagues of the other party for not getting anything done for their constituents. In law practice, you can't really blame a bad result for your clients on the lawyers on the other side, says former Sen. Joe Lieberman, D-Conn., of Kasowitz Benson Torres LLP. Read more »

OPINION: Advising The GOP About Its Obligation To Advise

By engaging in their blanket refusals, Senators McConnell, Grassley and other Judiciary Committee members have de facto deprived and severely burdened those who elected President Obama of their fundamental right to elect an executive empowered to appoint a U.S. Supreme Court justice. This "no way, no how" position might just be ripe for litigation, says Sam Israel, founder of Sam P. Israel PC.

Conflicts And Confusion With CPP's Compliance Deadlines

Given the current timeline involved with the D.C. Circuit's review of the Clean Power Plan, and the fact that an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court is almost certain, a lift of the plan's stay may not occur until the end of 2017 or early 2018. This timeline conflicts with some of the initial deadlines in the CPP and creates a confusing situation for those charged with implementing it, say Charles T. Wehland and Alina Fortson at Jones Day.

What FinCEN AML Plan Means For Crowdfunding Platforms

Valid arguments exist supporting the concept that low-priced and privately placed securities pose a money laundering risk because they are susceptible to fraud and market manipulation. Nevertheless, anti-money laundering requirements for funding portals recently proposed by the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network would require significant devotion of time and resources, say attorneys with Arnold & Porter LLP.

Why EU Regulators Are Concerned About 'Privacy Shield'

In its 58-page opinion published this week, the influential EU Article 29 Working Party made great efforts to point to the improvements brought by the proposed EU-U.S. "Privacy Shield." However, overall, the evaluation is generally negative. The WP29's numerous critiques include the lack of consistency between the principles set forth in the Privacy Shield documents and fundamental EU data protection principles, says Francoise Gilbert of Greenberg Traurig LLP.

Webinar: EMV Rollout Presents Unique Opportunities for Banks - Register Now >

A 60-minute webinar covers the impact of EMV rollout this year, how banks can prepare for the possible outcomes, and how they can engage with customers about the change.

The rollout of EMV (smart) cards and terminals in 2015 will have a significant impact on reducing card-present fraud. It will likely result in a surge in card-not-present and other types of fraud as criminals shift to easier targets. The smart-card rollout presents banks with a unique opportunity to engage with retail and business customers. Banks need to be prepared not only to explain what the new cards are and do, but discuss the possible outcomes, and how the bank can assist.

A 60-minute interactive webinar explores the impact of EMV rollout and how banks can:

• be prepared for the possible outcomes

• reinforce customers' trust

• strengthen ties with merchant customer

MGR -- Draft CLV Term Sheet 6.27.2018_Brad.docx

Hello Brad,
Hope all is well.
I have attached a working draft proposal for the City of Las Vegas branded My GameRoom which includes donations to local shelters and a risk free, cost free revenue vertical for the city. We are launching a large campaign in July across GreaterGood and Cumulus/Westwood One and would love to include promotion of a CLV branded MGR.

Please feel free to email, text or call me if you have any questions.

Look forward to your feedback.

Best regards,
Phillip Elden

Hello Mayor Goodman and team,
Was great spending time with you today.

I appreciate your accommodating the meeting at City Hall.

Below is a link (same as earlier with additional information that will be update daily) including audio spot demos.

Bradford,
To answer your question, our main ask is to be be the " Official City of Las Vegas" social free to play game room and have a presence / integration through your online footprint (i.e. events, website, twitter, etc).
In exchange for that we will promote your City and brand on all levels nationwide while creating significant positive social impact locally. Additionally we are willing to pay a profit share to the City of Las Vegas from our advertising revenue.

I will be in LV through Wednesday if you would like to meet again and work through any questions you may have. My cell is below, feel free to reach out anytime.

Thanks,
Phillip

In summary, I have developed a gaming brand called www.mygameroom.com that gives back to people, pets and the planet though an organization called www.greatergood.org. We have multi-platform distribution including but not limited to 400 + Cumulus radio stations including 8,500 WestWoodOne radio stations reaching 250m people per month (i.e. Examples- Houston: http://krbe-fm.mygameroom.com Los Angeles: http://kabc-am.mygameroom.com)

I am in the process of developing a Las Vegas branded gaming experience across our network and would love, in a collaboration with your office, to make it the "Official City Of Las Vegas gameroom."

Along with developing the platform to house the games we also create many of our own:

- EXAMPLE OF LV MGR PLATFORM: http://www.legendshill.com/vegas/
- EXMAPLE OF LV BRANDED GAME: http://www.appa11y.com/desktop/lv1/index.html

Mayor Goodman,

As you know I work with Larry King (www.kinginteractive.com), and produce interactive content for large organizations such as Cumulus/Westwood One and I am a huge supporter of the city LV and the work you are doing.

Liz Baker, who is flying in this morning for our lunch, is executive director for GreaterGood.Org, an organization that has given over $100 million in cash and product grants to charity partners and programs worldwide.

- http://greatergood.org/2018boardmeeting/pre-read-2018.pdf
- https://greatergood.org/about-us/

Liz Baker joined GreaterGood.org as Executive Director in 2012 working to protect people, pets & the planet. Liz has overseen the creation of Greatergood.org signature programs that address multiple issues ranging from hunger (Operation Sandwich), education (Girls Right to Opportunity Worldwide, Girls Voices, and A Safe Ride to School), land conservation (Project Wildcat and Madrean Discovery Expeditions) and animal welfare (Cats R Cool, One Picture Saves a Life, Rescue Rebuild, Rescue Bank) and veterans (Pets & Vets).

RJ Demman, a Las Vegas native, is a 20+ year casino veteran who is currently the Vice President of Player Development for Viejas Casino & Resort in San Diego, Ca. He spent most of his career at the same title working for the Hard Rock Hotel, Red Rock Resort and the Golden Nugget.

We all look forward to seeing you at lunch today where we can do a deeper dive into all of the aforementioned and enjoy your company.

Best regards,
Phillip

AGREEMENT
City of Las Vegas My GameRoom

My GameRoom LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("MGR"), and the City of Las Vegas ("CLV") agree to pursue (at no cost to CLV) the creation of a customized version of My GameRoom.com (a website owned and operated by MGR which hosts a variety of "freemium" and other free-to-play user-interactive games (including the licensed Heart Of Vegas™) that will compliment CLV's own marketing campaigns and market the CLV brand both locally and nationally while generating revenue to MGR and CLV and donations that will benefit CLV-selected causes involving people, pets and the planet (environment). CLV will recognize the CLV-branded My GameRoom as the online and mobile "Official Game Room of The City of Las Vegas".

The terms of the agreement are as follows:

1. The CLV-branded My GameRoom will offer an array of free–to-play games such as poker, blackjack, slots, bingo, trivia and word search. The parties understand that not all games may be available upon initial launch of the CLV-branded My GameRoom and that new games will be introduced in stages.

2. The CLV-branded My GameRoom will be distributed by MGR on various high traffic websites and mobile apps via applicable existing (i.e. radio) and future MGR distribution platforms and MGR-directed social media (including though social media accounts of MGR's celebrity relationships).

3. The CLV-branded My GameRoom will be limited to "not for money" gaming also known as "freemium" gaming and will not include real money gambling in any form.

4. The CLV-branded My GameRoom will be promoted from time to time by CLV through CLV websites, live promotional events, or CLV celebrity ambassador support (i.e. Mayor Goodman twitter) and use of applicable CLV e-mail targeted databases for marketing, all in the discretion of CLV.

5. The agreement for operation of the online CLV-branded My GameRoom shall be for three (3) years from the date the CLV-branded My GameRoom is launched (the "Initial Term").

6. The Initial Term will automatically extend for up to two (2) additional one-year periods (each a "Renewal Term") provided that CLV's share of collected net revenue and donations through MGR and GreaterGood.org is at least $240,000 during the twelve (12) calendar months immediately prior to the end of the Initial Term or any Renewal Term.

7. MGR will provide ongoing marketing and operations support at no cost to CLV to include the following:

a. provide an array of social MGR games; including creating customized games that promote the CLV (i.e. Las Vegas Word Search)
b. supervise operation of the games including 24/7 infrastructure support, organization of tournaments, prize claim and eligibility verification, maintenance of leaderboards and stats, communication with players including login and in-game notifications, and e-mail;
c. coordinate and manage payment systems for purchase of virtual currency and goods;
d. provide periodic reports not less frequently than monthly, including gaming statistics and financial reports; and,
e. provide all aspects of game administration including player support, geo-location and "know your client" management, fraud management, tax administration and legal compliance.
f. work with technology providers to ensure effective deployment and ongoing operation of the CLV-branded My GameRoom's games supporting CLV's objectives and maximizing game revenues;
g. drive game revenue by promoting in-game advertising, sponsorship opportunities and off-line marketing initiatives;
h. create merchandising around the CLV My GameRoom brand;
i. in-house MGR staff at CLV TBD location 5 to 7 days a week if needed; and
j. 24-hour customer support.

8. In consideration of the terms herein including CLV's participation, support and marketing of the CLV-branded My GameRoom, CLV shall be entitled to TBD% of Adjusted Operating Revenue (as defined below) to be paid out monthly in the form of TBD% charitable donations through GreaterGood.org and TBD% payments directly to CLV.

9. Adjusted Operating Revenue is calculated as gross revenue from all sources including the sale of virtual currency and in-game advertising (net of advertising commissions), less:

a. Fees payable to MGR's technology provider(s) (expected to be a formula based on a fixed percentage of gross revenue);
b. Payment processing and other banking fees associated with the purchase of virtual currency, including returns and chargebacks, and the cost of any app store fees;
c. Hosting costs, bandwidth costs, geolocation-know your customer costs, and third-party licensing fees to the extent not already included in fees paid to the technology provider;
d. Out-of-pocket costs incurred in running land-based promotional events;
e. Fees charged by App Store, Android store, and social networking platforms (e.g. Facebook) for distributing gameroom apps and managing the sale of in-game purchases;

f. The cost of marketing and promoting the Las Vegas Social My GameRoom Initiative; and,
g. All applicable sales taxes, value added taxes and other taxes.

10. In-game advertising/promotion revenue generated by MGR, less a 15% commission thereon, will be included in gross revenue for the purposes of paragraph 9 above.

11. CLV agrees that this agreement with MGR is an exclusive arrangement, and during the Initial Term and any Renewal Term CLV will not enter into discussions, negotiations, or an agreement with any other party for the development of a CLV online or mobile games platform.

12. MGR will pay the up-front and on-going costs of developing and deploying web and mobile based versions of CLV-branded My GameRoom.

13. If the CLV-branded My GameRoom is not launched within 90 days from the date of the signing of this agreement, either party shall have the option to terminate the agreement with no further responsibility or liability to the other party.

14. If the agreement is terminated, CLV agrees that for a period of 12 months following termination of the agreement, it will not enter into an agreement with any entity MGR approached during the term of the agreement regarding the provision of a CLV branded gaming platform.

15. Upon launch of the CLV branded My GameRoom, MGR will donate to CLV, through GreaterGood.org, 25,000 meals to local animal shelters and $25,000 to GreaterGood.org's Rescue ReBuild Program for Las Vegas.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, MGR and CLV's signatures below acknowledge that the foregoing accurately sets forth and constitutes a binding agreement between the parties.

Throughout its 19-year history, Boies Schiller & Flexner LLP has garnered a reputation as a firm that excels at taking complicated cases to trial and has locked down major litigation victories for clients including Barclays and Oracle, earning it a place among Law360's Litigation Powerhouses.

Law Grad Employment Rate Flat, Salaries Up, Report Says

The employment rate for members of 2015 law classes remained at the same rate seen by 2014 graduates while average salaries for new hires from the class of 2015 saw modest gains from the previous year, according to a report released Wednesday.

GCs Giving Firms More Work, But Atty Friction Continues

With in-house legal teams continuing to increase the amount of work outsourced to firms, it would seem that the working relationship between general counsels and outside attorneys is a happy one, but that is far from the case, according to an International Association of Defense Counsel survey released on Wednesday.

Litigation Financing Forced Into The Light By Chevron Case

A California judge's decision to force attorneys to say who is funding their $1.5 billion proposed class action against Chevron over a Nigerian offshore rig explosion has the potential to force the burgeoning and secretive industry of litigation funding out of the shadows, experts say.

Rainmaker Q&A: Morvillo Abramowitz's Jeremy Temkin

Some lawyers will promise potential clients unrealistic results and create a situation where the client is almost certain to be disappointed later. While sugar-coating might help land the matter, I'd rather be candid with the potential client even if it makes the relationship less likely, says Jeremy Temkin, a partner at Morvillo Abramowitz Grand Iason & Anello PC.

Rainmaker Q&A: Keker & Van Nest's Ashok Ramani

When I first made partner, I had this quaint notion that results and reputation speak for themselves, and that clients will find you if you do good work and have a good reputation. While results and reputation are of course critical, clients have so many demands on their time that it's important to stay top of mind, says Ashok Ramani, a partner at Keker & Van Nest LLP.

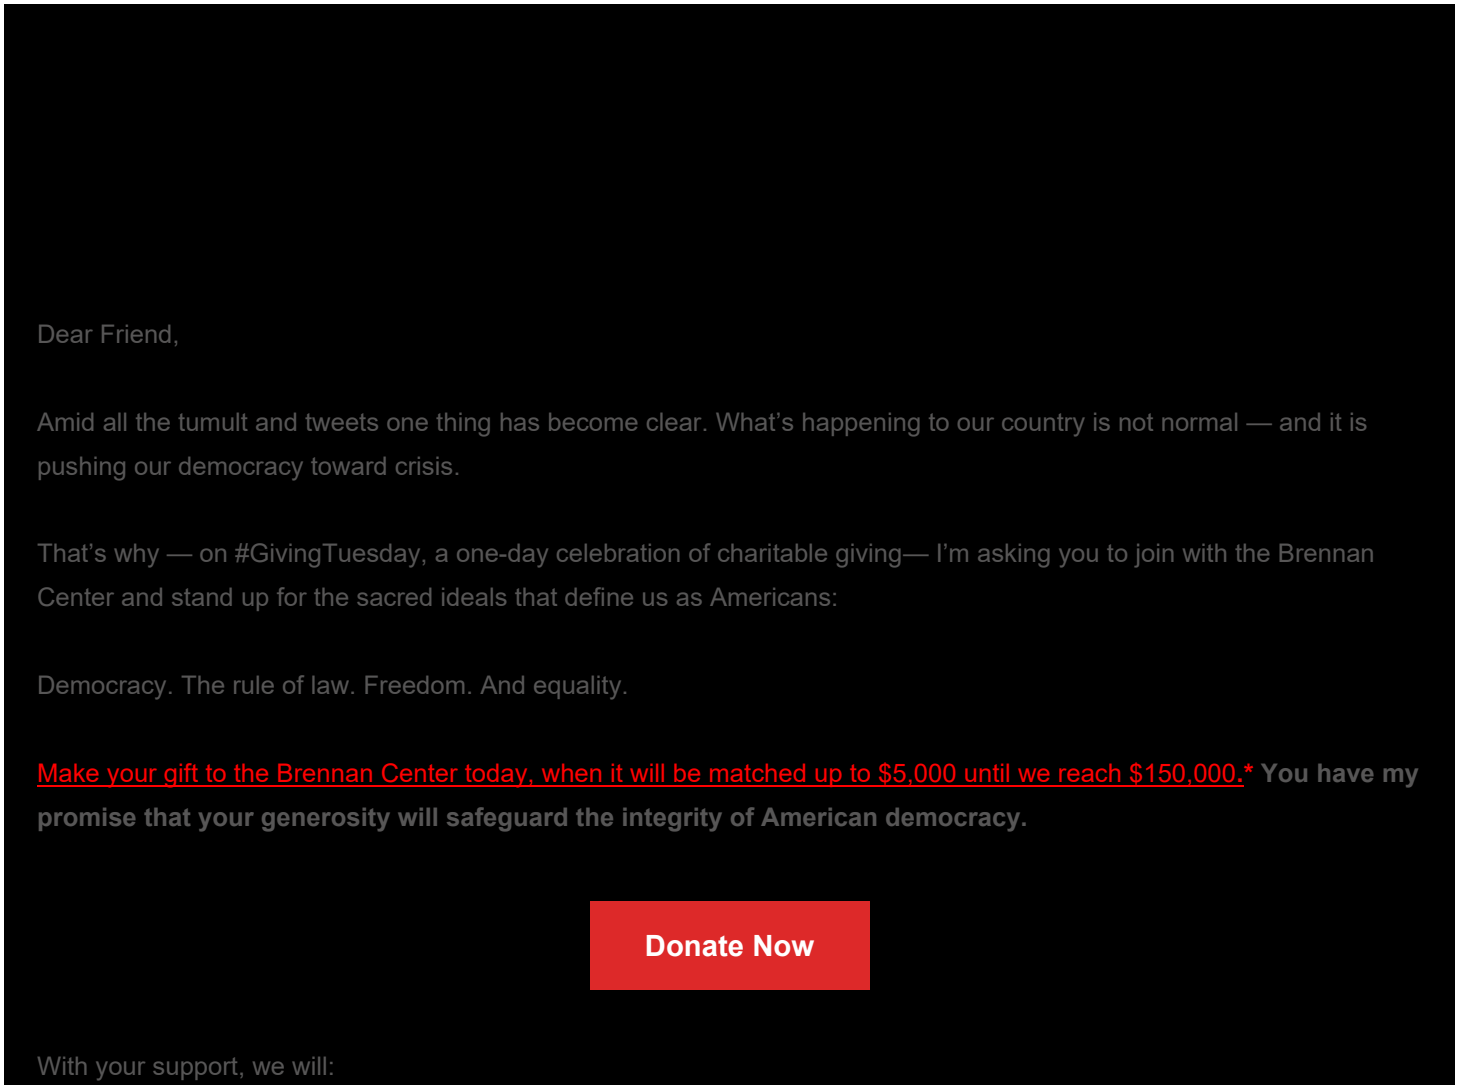
Subject: FW: 2X match for democracy on #GivingTuesday

Last chance to have your #GivingTuesday gift for democracy doubled!



- Fight for solutions that will strengthen our election infrastructure and protect us from threats like Russia's attack on our elections
- Defend the right to vote and shut down the Trump administration's sham "voter fraud" commission
- Support criminal justice reforms that will reverse mass incarceration while helping to keep communities safer
- Continue to block the administration's unconstitutional travel ban in court

Our democracy is resilient, but it needs the strongest defense to withstand attack. Please make your gift right now, when it will have twice the power to protect the values we cherish.

Sincerely,

Michael Waldman
President

Match My Gift

* Gifts of up to $5,000 qualify for matching if they are made before December 31, up to a total of $150,000 for the campaign. Gifts received after that date or in excess of those limits will still be used for our general fund to help protect democracy.

Trump Touts Border "Crisis," Takes on Mueller in State of the Union Address

As he’s done in the past, Trump contorted facts about crime and immigration, potentially part of building a case for an eventual national emergency. And he touted the bipartisan FIRST STEP Act, the first major criminal justice reform bill in decades.

Our experts have the key takeaways from Tuesday’s televised address.

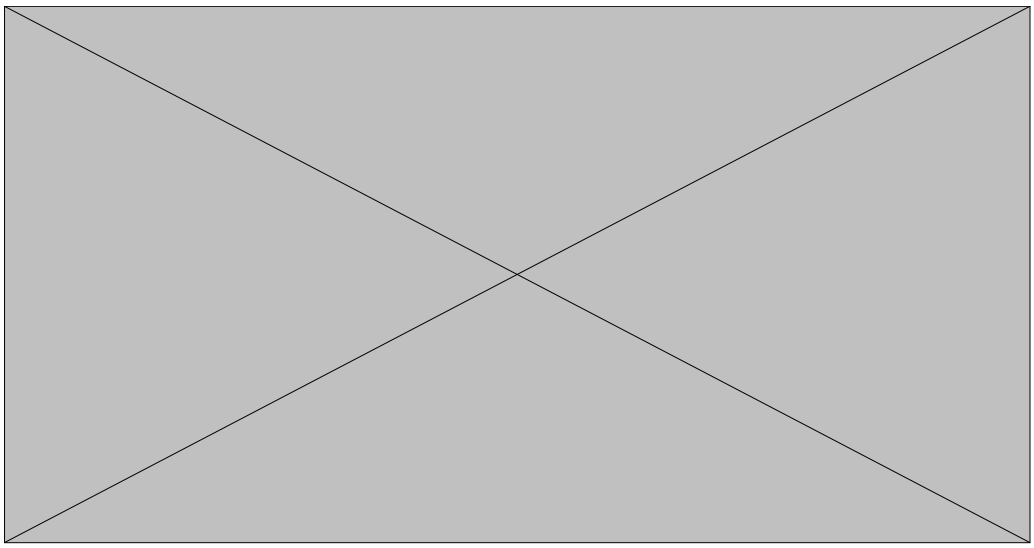
House Hearings Begin for Historic Anti-Corruption Bill

Tim Lau

The movement for reforming democracy entered a new phase as House Democrats began hearings on H.R. 1, the For the People Act — marking the first time in decades that either major political party has made reforming the systems of democracy a central priority. Brennan Center ethics expert Rudy Mehrbani testified this week on the bill's ethics provisions, legislation that would bring a new degree of accountability to Washington.



Trump Is Destroying His Own Case for a National Emergency

Liza Goitein

President Trump may think he looks more reasonable if he gives Congress plenty of time to act before declaring an emergency — but the truth is the exact opposite. By giving Congress time to definitively establish its unwillingness to fund the border wall, Trump loses any legitimate justification for emergency action.

Hi,

Greeting of the day!

There are thousands of companies offering web related services that you could have chosen, and yet here we are, with an opportunity to earn your business. I cannot understate how much we appreciate being able to put this proposal in front of you today.

At Bipvaas SEO Marketing we believe in standing out. We stand out as a web design company by insisting on pushing the boundaries of website performance, and by delivering work of the highest quality on-time and on-budget.

Our mission to stand out doesn't stop with our internal goals. After all, our clients' satisfaction is what keeps our doors open, and helping you stand out is the best way to make sure you're completely satisfied. We're committed to helping your brand stand out in a crowded market, against a sea of hungry competitors.

I've included a lot of detail in this proposal, because I want to make it abundantly clear that Bipvaas SEO Marketing is the fastest growing web design company in business today. You'll find details regarding the functionality of your future website, our web design process.

To make things simple for you, allowing us to move forward with your web design project immediately.

Thanks and I look forward to working for you!

White Paper - Mobile Account Opening: Solving The Convenience-Risk Conundrum - Download White Paper Now >

Mobile devices dominate consumer interactions with financial institutions—except account opening, because of fraud and compliance concerns. The solution lies in using mobile's unique capabilities

Most of the alternative financial technology (fintech) service providers that compete with traditional financial institutions offer digital account opening. It's the easiest and most convenient path between consumers and the financial experience they expect. Mercator Advisory Group analyst Alex Johnson believes banks must add this capability or risk losing new accounts. The challenge is how to design a mobile account opening process that is seamless for the applicant and safe for the institution.

In this Mercator Advisory Group white paper, sponsored by Mitek, you will learn:

- The current state of mobile account opening and why the trickle of new account openings will become a flood
- The conflict between greater customer convenience and the challenge of meeting "Know Your Customer" requirements and controlling fraud
- How the embedded capabilities of mobile devices—image capture, biometrics, and geolocation—can resolve this conflict and improve identification and verification
- Three criteria useful in evaluating the optimal mobile solution

Fed's Lael Brainard discusses economic status of Great Recession kids

Federal Reserve Board Governor Brainard spoke in detail today about the economic lives of "Generation Recession." She concluded:

"As the economic recovery continues to strengthen, it is important that we monitor the progress of young workers and their experience in the job market, their educational outcomes, their management of student debt, and their progress toward forming independent households and owning homes. Understanding the interaction of various economic pressures on young workers is the first step. The ultimate goal is to develop evidence-based policies and opportunities to support the generation that has come of age in the shadow of the Great Recession as they gain a foothold on the ladder to a better economic future." DAYS UNTIL FILING OPENS FOR THE 2018 GENERAL ELECTION: 60

DAYS UNTIL THE 2018 PRIMARY ELECTION: 159

DAYS UNTIL THE 2018 GENERAL ELECTION: 306

Good morning, everyone. The big news this morning is the AP report that Attorney General Jeff Sessions plans to unfetter U.S. attorneys to go after pot in states where it has been legalized. This comes, as The Indy's Michelle Rindels pointed out, the day after Nevada got a new interim U.S. attorney. Remember that Gov. Brian Sandoval seemed to imply during our IndyTalks a month ago that he met with Sessions last year and the AG seemed to offer reassurances that nothing would happen. (The governor did not say this explicitly, but that seemed to be his implication -- and several senators have said the same.) We will be getting reaction for The Indy – Michelle already has a story up -- but not sure we will get to the biggest story of all: The potential impact on Tick Segerblom's campaign contributions….

What's below: Dems attack SOS, Chris G's big score, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a casino purchase.

COMING UP

Speaking of U.S. attorneys, it looks like a former one (Greg Brower) is going to have to testify before the House Intel committee.

BARBS FOR BARBARA

My pal Steve Sebelius pointed out on Twitter on Wednesday that Democratic Secretary of State hopeful Nelson Araujo went after Barbara Cegavske for providing information to that federal voter fraud panel the president disbanded. (AG hopeful Aaron Ford and Rep. Dina Titus also went after her on the same topic.) Sebelius pointed out the SOS really had no choice but to provide public information.

He's right. I wrote about the controversy last year, allowing the SOS to explain. These reflexive partisan shots are silly and destructive. Maybe the Dems are arguing Cegavske should have stonewalled a public records request on some principle because the commission obviously was a joke stared because the president was upset about losing the popular vote? Really?

We hope to extensively fact-check this.

CHRIS G'S BIG HAUL

Some thoughts on the news release from the Chris Giunchigliani campaign announcing her $1 million haul – it's actually $800,000 plus $200,000 rolled over from her commission account.

----She told me last year she had to raise $1 million by the end of the year. It's pretty impressive, especially considering Steve Sisolak's amazing fundraising ability.

----I will be interested to see how much came from small donors and how much the Strip hedged its bets. I feel so badly for the casinos, having to hedge in the primary and then again in the general!
----I found it interesting in the RJ story, where she got a great headline, that Team Sisolak did not push back by hinting it has so much more.

Game on, dear Flashees.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

This is the anniversary of the completion of a purchase this millennium of one family-owned casino by another family-owned casino company. What families and what casino?

Wednesday's winner: Henderson's Christopher Boyd

The question: This is the day in history, more than three decades ago, that a man was sworn into office. He had previously been a constitutional officer and lawmaker, and on this day was sworn into a new office. It would not be the last office he would hold. Who was it, and what office?

The answer: Harry Reid into the House

Obama's 11th-Hour Offshore Drilling Ban May Be Hard To Sink

President-elect Donald J. Trump would likely face an uphill battle trying to undo outgoing President Barack Obama's indefinite blockage of oil and gas drilling in large swaths of the Arctic and Atlantic Oceans, though the resulting legal fight could clarify the currently untested limits of presidential authority under U.S. offshore law, experts say.

US Will Lose Billions If Trump Ends DACA, Report Says

President-elect Donald Trump's promise to end the program that allows young unauthorized immigrants who were brought to the U.S. as children to apply for deferred deportation and receive work permits could cost the nation billions of dollars, according to a report by the Immigrant Legal Resource Center.

Sinclair Broadcast Slams Reports Of Slanted Trump Coverage

Sinclair Broadcast Group Inc. recently pushed back on reports it provided Donald Trump preferential coverage in exchange for access, saying that the TV broadcaster never promised positive coverage of the then-Republican nominee and that Hillary Clinton's campaign was given the same interview offers as Trump's.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Boosting Contractor Employee Whistleblower Protections

Congress recently enacted S. 795, which permanently extends robust legal protections to employees of federal contractors, subcontractors and grantees who report waste, fraud or abuse. These new anti-retaliation provisions will be a powerful tool to combat waste, fraud and abuse in government contracts and grants, which total about half a trillion dollars annually, says Jason Zuckerman of Zuckerman Law.

FERC Income Tax Changes Could Impact Entire Energy Sector

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission recently issued a notice of inquiry concerning the treatment of income taxes for ratemaking and cost recovery purposes by pass-through entities. Tax changes in this area could have significant effects on entities in the oil, gas and electric sectors, and possibly chill investment in energy infrastructure, say attorneys with Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP.

The Future Of Legal Marijuana: Post-Election Outlook

Following the 2016 election, marijuana legalization is spreading across states and becoming less important at the federal level. While marijuana is not yet treated like tobacco and alcohol, the federal policy environment seems unlikely to impose significant restrictions on access in the near future, say Richard Spees and Joshua Mandell of Akerman LLP.

Implied Preemption And Monograph Drugs: Part 1

Under 21 U.S.C. §379r, tort claims demanding that over-the-counter drugs carry warnings or other information that is "different from," "addition[al] to" or "otherwise not identical with" federal labeling requirements are preempted. But the savings clause exempts "product liability" claims from preemption. James Beck of Reed Smith LLP considers preemption of OTC drugs under the FDA's monograph system.

Hello Carolyn,

. My name is Tamara Higgins. My father was Howard Hargett. He used to be Oscars legal researcher before he passed away in 1989.

1 year ago today his sister passed away. Our entire family legacy...is now being robbed from us for lack of a better term, by the exetrix.In a nutshell, estate is located in Monroe, NI have pointed out fraud, deceit etc. But being a little town where everyone grew up and just stayed... she is being able to get away with it.

I did hire an attorney. However he has done nothing. Now a year later, in the dark, we are being told if we dont settle he will withdraw as counsel.
I am in desperate need to be pointed in the right direction from someone I can trust.

I do apologize for reaching out to you at work. But can you please give Oscar this email. And ask him if he could suggest what steps to take.

With the utmost appreciation,
Tamara Higgins

Protect Dreamers. Reject this awful bill.

Carolyn G. –

Right now, there's a bill moving through the House that could lead to mass deportations of DACA recipients – simply because they don't earn enough money.

You read that right. In one of the most wrongheaded policy proposals introduced so far, under this bill, DACA recipients who fall below 125 percent of the poverty line or are out of work for 90 days or more would be put on a path to deportation. Since the bill doesn't offer Dreamers a permanent solution, this provision would apply for the rest of their lives – even in retirement.

Call your House member today and tell them to REJECT this disgraceful bill and pass a real, bipartisan solution for Dreamers.

Only the most fringe anti-immigrant radicals want a bill that would punish Dreamers. As a new poll from NAE and TargetPoint Consulting shows, Republicans and even President Trump's base overwhelmingly support a deal that would provide citizenship for Dreamers and increased funding for border security.

The idea that we would detain and deport low-income DACA recipients or those temporarily out of work is disgraceful. This bill is bad politics, bad economics, and simply the wrong thing to do. Call your Representative today and demand that they vote no on this bill.

We'll keep you posted as this bill continues to be debated, and let you know when Congress goes back to looking for a real, bipartisan solution.

Thank you,

Jeremy Robbins

Cheryl,

Greetings, my name is Jonathan Cooper and I am the DDA assigned this case. I wanted to send the below Email to Mayor Goodman but I do not have her E-mail address. Can you please forward the below email to her for me.

Thank you !

Mayor Goodman:

Last week, Mr. Meeks attorney reached out to me in an attempt to resolve this case short of going to trial. Some of the suggestions that his attorney made were very reasonable. However, I first wanted to discuss possible resolutions with you before I agreed to any. Out of the few negotiations we discussed the most favorable to our position is below.

Offer
Pled Guilty to Count 1 (Forgery- D Felony punishable by 1-4 years)
Standard bail after entry of plea ($3,000.00)
State will argue facts of the case but not recommend a punishment

Pay Full Restitution

As you know, the Defendant is charged with 2 Counts of forgery. In essence, he will be pleading guilty to the "lead charge". Further, even if he was convicted of both counts at trial it is likely that the sentencing judge would run the counts concurrent. So, in my opinion under this negotiation we lose little if any leverage at sentencing. Another benefit of this negotiation is that I would not need you to come to court and testify which I know can be a scheduling nightmare.

Please let me know your thoughts. I am also available to answer any questions you may have regarding the case or the possible negotiation.

Balance Billing for Out-of-Network Providers

Most out of network health care providers make critical mistakes that jeopardize their compliance with state and federal laws. Many providers tell patients they will accept any payment received from the patient's health plan as payment in full. This practice is risky and may invite accusations of ínsurance fraud – it is however, prevalent throughout the U.S.

Here are just a few of the cases where billing related errors (Overpayments, Negligent misrepresentation, Out-of-network write-offs, and Balance billing) ended in very real legal nightmares:

- Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. and Cigna v. Health Diagnostic Laboratory, Inc.—$84 Million dollars recovered
- Aetna v Health Diagnostics Laboratory—Sued for "tens of millions" of dollars
- Aetna v Bay Area Surgical Management (BASM)—Amount sought: $23 Million

What makes it worse is that HHS is actively watching and waiting to catch you in case you backslide. However, all is not lost! Join expert speaker Thomas Force, Esq., to learn how OON providers and their revenue recovery staff can maintain compliance while collecting a fair amount of money from the patient's health plan. He will also shed light on state laws relating to balance billing requirements for OON providers.

Conference: The Balance Billing Requirement - Why Out-of-Network Providers Must Balance Bill Their Patients
Date: Friday, October 13 (Available for all day)
Time: 60 minutes

Failure to balance bill patients can lead to large recoupment, audits, and litigation for ínsurance fraud. This training session will help you avoid common pitfalls and get answers to questions like the following:

- Why is balance billing required in most jurisdictions?
- What are the exceptions to balance billing requirements?
- How to properly balance bill patients without offending or alienating them?
- How can my practice use ERISA to appeal denied and under-reimbursed claims for employer-sponsored plans?
- What is a recoupment and what to do when faced with one?
- What are the penalties for non-compliance with balance billing?

Session Highlights:

- Learn why OONs are required to balance bill—and why it's ínsurance fraud if you don't.
- Consider the case of Ingenix's conflict of interest—and how FAIR Health is reforming Out-of-Network reimbursement.
- Review ERISA Preemption—what it means for providers located in states that restrict or prohibit balance billing.
- View case studies of problematic billing—and how they are noncompliant.
- Understand patient protections under PPACA: Coverage for Emergency Services.
- Díscover industry insights on Medícare, TRICARE/CHAMPUS and balance billing.
- Learn about the impact of New York's Emergency Medical Services and Surprise Bills Law.
- Write a patient friendly balance bill letter, and consider the timing of the same.

- Review the importance of a Charity Care Program/ Financial Hardship Policy.
- Learn best practices: Transparency and Disclosure
- Discuss Case Laws—Cigna vs. Health Diagnostics, Aetna vs. Health Diagnostics Laboratory, and more.

Subject: Government regulations are always changing. Can you keep up?

forward | view in browser | view on mobile

Regulations, rules, and laws on how you should be managing taxpayer dollars are always in flux. These constant changes cause complexity in your travel and expense policy, making it hard for even the most experienced government employees to stay up-to-date. As a result, small misunderstandings can lead to sizable fraud, waste, and improper payments. And when your agency is audited, these offenses can lead to serious ramifications for you and your teams.

A fully-connected, scalable T&E solution can reduce risk by:

- Giving you the data you need to ensure compliance with changing government and tax regulations.
- Providing a complete view of your T&E spend so you can catch patterns in fraudulent spend.
- Controlling policy compliance with built-in flags, spending blocks, and automatic audits to detect and prevent noncompliant behavior.

No longer can you afford to rely on human intervention when it comes to compliance. Download our info sheet "The Nuts and Bolts of Public Sector Compliance" to learn tips for building a strong T&E policy foundation to stay on top of changing regulations and policy adjustments.

Making the Rounds with Founding Dean Dr. Barbara Atkinson

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

At the recent annual gala benefiting the Adelson Educational Campus, an academically invigorating preschool through Grade 12 independent school based on Jewish values and identity, my special assistant, JoAnn Prevetti, struck up a conversation with Crane Pomerantz. He's a Las Vegas attorney who has specialized in healthcare law, both as an Assistant U.S. Attorney and in private practice. The more Joann talked with Mr. Pomerantz, the more she realized that his experience could benefit our students. So she invited him to campus. The other day he graciously came to talk with several residents who are largely concentrating on their internal medicine specialty, young men and women about to embark on their careers. What he had to say accomplished what he set out to do -- helped sensitize them to some of the real world legal, ethical and business issues they could one day face. From today's newsletter, I trust you'll get a better sense that not everything a doctor needs to know can be found in medical textbooks.

TOP ATTORNEY SCHOOLS YOUNG PHYSICIANS ABOUT THE LEGAL PITFALLS IN MEDICINE

Attorney Crane Pomerantz, seen here with Dr. Budda Dawn and some internal medicine resident physicians, has worked as a federal prosecutor and in private practice, handling many noteworthy cases.

As attorney Crane Pomerantz spoke to UNLV School of Medicine internal medicine residents -- physicians who have finished medical school and who are now receiving training in their chosen specialty -- he emphasized that young doctors just starting their careers can unwittingly end up in legal trouble.

"You are...about to embark on a career that is highly regulated -- as highly regulated as any industry I can think of," he said at a powerpoint presentation delivered during a weekly "Academic Half Day" held every Tuesday afternoon for residents. "The problem you face at this point in your career is that you don't know what you don't know. My goal today is to give you a brief overview of some of the things you need to be aware of as you start practicing."

Pomerantz definitely knows his way around healthcare law. He was the criminal healthcare fraud coordinator in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Nevada, where he worked for almost 14 years. Prior to his tenure as a federal prosecutor, Pomerantz worked in a pair of large Washington, D.C. law firms, where his practice focused on healthcare fraud and abuse litigation and counseling. He began his career at a Boston law firm, where his work focused on healthcare fraud defense.

Four years ago, Pomerantz was doing something far different than talking to medical residents. He stood in a Las Vegas courtroom as an Assistant U.S. Attorney and spoke of a physician, Dr. Dipak Desai, who intentionally defrauded the government by inflating the length of medical procedures and overbilling Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance companies for anesthesia.

Pomerantz called Desai, a gastroenterologist, a “despicable human being” who was driven in medical practice by “wanton, crass greed.”

Desai would receive 71 months in prison for his role in the multimillion dollar healthcare fraud scheme -- a federal conviction that was to be served concurrently with a life sentence that Desai received earlier in state court for his role in a 2007 hepatitis outbreak at clinics where colonoscopies were performed. Health officials, who said unsafe injection practices involving the reuse of syringes for anesthesia led to the outbreak, had to notify 63,000 former Desai clinic patients to get tested for potentially fatal blood-borne diseases, including hepatitis and HIV. Two former Desai clinic patients died, and as many as 114 cases of hepatitis were linked to Desai clinics. Desai died in Nevada State Prison in 2017.

In the days following his presentation at the UNLV School of Medicine, Pomerantz couldn’t have been more clear about his respect for physicians, saying that the overwhelming majority of physicians work tirelessly to give patients the best care possible. “Part of me is a frustrated physician,” says Pomerantz, who now does legal work for physicians on behalf of the Sklar Williams law firm. “Doctors work unbelievably hard to help others.”

During his presentation, Pomerantz said it is important for doctors just getting into practice to find a good healthcare lawyer, a competent certified public accountant, a solid office manager and a mentor that he/she can count on for good advice. The lawyer, he said, must be a specialist in healthcare law because there “are so many arcane areas.”

> “What if, unbeknownst to you, your patient is selling his Percocets. What safeguards do you have in place to make sure your prescribing practices are gold standard?” - Crane Pomerantz

For example, he said that most young physicians know that if they give or receive, offer or solicit something of value in exchange for patient referrals, they’ve committed a crime. But then he showed how a physician could get into trouble by not understanding the Anti-Kickback Act (AKA): “What if you have a large Medicaid census in your practice, and out of sympathy for their financial situation, you consistently waive their copayments? Or, simply in an effort to make sure that they keep their regular appointments, you give them Uber or Lyft coupons to come to the practice? Even though your motivations may be good, those practices arguably violate the AKA.”

Another violation, he said, of the AKA could come if the physician is, say, an orthopedist and decides to invest in a small durable medical equipment business to which he/she already refers. Unless that contractual agreement was structured properly, Pomerantz said it is “likely a violation of the AKA.”

Pomerantz also talked about the Ethics in Patients Referral Act, which is also known as the Stark Law because it was introduced by California U.S. Rep. Pete Stark. Essentially, it means the government can sue a physician of a Medicare or Medicaid patient for referring to any entity in which the physician has a financial interest. No, Pomerantz said, you can't put the ownership of a lab in which a physician has a financial interest in the name of a spouse or business partner. "The Stark law prohibits the referral if you or an immediate family member have a financial interest in the entity to which the referral is made," Pomerantz noted.

Prescribing medications, particularly during the current opioid crisis, can also be a potential legal minefield for physicians if they're not careful, Pomerantz said before giving an example:

"You prescribe a 30-day supply of Percocet (acetaminophen/hydrocodone blend). And 20 days in, your patient, a long standing patient of the practice, comes in and says, 'I accidentally dropped my pills down the sink' or 'I left my prescription at the hotel on vacation' or 'My dog ate some pills.' As a new physician, I'm guessing you're going to be very trusting. Your concern is going to be to want to ameliorate your patient's pain, and you're going to be inclined to write a new script. But what if the patient is taking the pills inconsistent with your prescription (4 a day instead of 2) and you've unwittingly contributed to your patient's addiction? What if, unbeknownst to you, your patient is selling his Percocets. What safeguards do you have in place to make sure your prescribing practices are gold standard?"

Dr. Bhavana Bhaya, a senior resident in the internal medicine program, said she learned a lot from the presentation made by Pomerantz. "It is very important for medical personnel to understand the laws within which we have to practice medicine," she said. "Many of today's physicians are ill-equipped to handle the legal, regulatory and business realities of modern medicine."

Even Dr. Budda Dawn, the UNLV School of Medicine Department of Internal Medicine Chairman who has practiced medicine for decades, found Pomerantz's remarks helpful.

"In this day and age, all doctors need a good lawyer," he said.

What appear to be simple things -- manners and respect for others -- Pomerantz said, can keep physicians out of legal trouble:

"Who makes complaints to the Board of Medicine? Patients who feel like they haven't been treated with respect...Know who causes doctors to lose their privileges at hospitals and with insurers? Other doctors and nurses who think you're being greedy or rude or disrespectful...Know who files civil litigation and makes law enforcement referrals? Disgruntled business partners."

Pomerantz told the residents that he knows that they're going to have a million demands and a busy schedule and challenging cases. That said, he told them to remember to mind their manners if they don't want to end up in trouble.

In his presentation, he said he's been involved in "many hospital privilege hearings where my client is at risk of losing their privileges simply because they were rude to a charge nurse or had a personality conflict with another physician...So if you take nothing else out of this today, quote me on this: Play nice in the sandbox."

NY Lawmakers Keep Daily Fantasy Alive To Fight Another Day

Facing a deadline in an agreement to halt litigation with New York Attorney General Eric Schneiderman, daily fantasy sports giants DraftKings and FanDuel sweated out a New York legislative session late last week as lawmakers came through in the eleventh hour to pass legislation that experts say gives the beleaguered companies a major boost to their legal battles.

DOL Regs May Get Closer Look After High Court OT Pay Case

The U.S. Supreme Court's conclusion Monday that the U.S. Department of Labor failed to properly explain the reasons behind its rule that car dealership service advisers should qualify for overtime may lead courts to take a closer look at other controversial regulations proposed by the agency that veer from its previous positions, attorneys say.

5 Lessons For GCs From The EEOC's Harassment Study

To avoid the heavy legal and economic costs of workplace harassment, law departments should be addressing them head-on, not delegating to human resources, according to a new EEOC report. Here are what EEOC commissioners and members of the agency's harassment task force say are the report's key takeaways for corporate counsel.

SEC Uses IEX Approval To Begin Rethinking Market Regs

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's vote Friday to approve IEX Group's plan for a new stock exchange came with a commission guidance widening the agency's interpretation of its national market system rules to allow IEX's built-in "speed bump," a move experts said shows the agency is starting to rethink whether the decade-old rules need revisiting.

UK Lawmakers Want CEOs To Pay For Cybersecurity Failings

A U.K. parliamentary committee recommended Monday that, in light of a massive data breach last year at telecom TalkTalk, penalties for hackers and for businesses that fail to prepare for or report such incidents need to be significantly enhanced, including by tying executives' compensation to their organization's cybersecurity hygiene.

Miss. Law Poses No Imminent Harm For Gay Pair, Judge Says

A Mississippi federal judge on Monday refused to grant the American Civil Liberties Union of Mississippi and an engaged same-sex couple a preliminary injunction in their suit challenging a recently enacted bill that provides protection to those who say their religious beliefs are violated by same-sex marriage.

USDA Organic Fertilizer Rule Buried Over APA Stink

A California federal judge on Monday overturned a U.S. Department of Agriculture rule change concerning fertilizer requirements for organic food growers, saying the agency committed a "serious" error and violated the Administrative Procedures Act's requirements for providing public notice and comment before releasing a guidance document.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS

Watchdog Chastises USPTO For Noncompetitive Contracts

A government watchdog has criticized the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office for its use of noncompetitive contracts, saying it had not properly justified $116 million in recent sole source deals and could have saved an estimated $23 million if it had used a competitive bidding process.

DOD's Carter Lauds Allies' Defense Efforts But Urges More

Defense Secretary Ashton Carter on Monday praised U.S. allies for recently stepping up their multilateral efforts to respond to global security challenges in a Washington, D.C., speech, but urged them to do more, saying small increases in their defense budgets are not enough to help effectively combat growing threats.

DOD Proposes Rule To Up Emergency Acquisitions Threshold

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Damages In Trade Secret Actions After The DTSA

In the short term, damages analysis under the Defend Trade Secrets Act will likely remain essentially the same as under the Uniform Trade Secrets Act. However, the long-term effect may be more pronounced as federal case law from other intellectual property areas may increasingly influence the determination of damages under the DTSA, says Brian Dies of Hoffman Alvary & Company LLC.

Title IX Enforcement: A Lack Of Institutional Support

The events that led to the removal of Baylor University President Ken Starr, and the dismissal of its head football coach, have put a spotlight on the commonplace practice of university officials turning a blind eye to disturbing evidence of sexual assaults on college campuses. Baylor should provide a clarion call to university officials, say Colleen Coveney and Debra Katz at Katz Marshall & Banks LLP.

Insurers, Get Ready For Increased Cybersecurity Scrutiny

The requirements of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners' proposed data security model law would impose a set of data breach reporting requirements on insurers that is significantly more demanding than existing state and federal laws, say Jim Harvey and Bruce Sarkisian at Alston & Bird LLP.

Subject: [Marketing Mail] Your Handy Reference for Ever-Changing Medicare Rules, Regulation Updates, & Reimbursement Issues

Dear Colleague,

CMS is on the move for 2016 and staying on top of compliance requirements is key to get the reimbursement you deserve. Plus it's time to staying on top of compliance requirements to get the reimbursement you deserve. Missing a single update can cost you, whether it's a fee schedule change. Medicare compliance has become even more challenging with a number of regulatory and federal changes implemented in 2015 and what's about to come for 2016. In the first half of FY 2014, OIG reported 465 criminal actions against individuals or entities that engaged in crimes against HHS programs; and 266 civil actions, which include false claims and unjust-enrichment lawsuits filed in Federal district court, civil monetary penalties (CMP) settlements, and administrative recoveries related to provider self-disclosure matters.

Heightened federal scrutiny and penalty enforcement have physician practices/hospitals across the healthcare spectrum concerned that even a genuine error might result your practice to come under some serious scrutiny and unpleasant payback requests. You need to stay abreast with some of the latest updates implemented by Medicare in 2015 and changes to be implemented for 2016 to the Enrollment process, Documentation Guidelines for compliant reimbursement, PECOS, NPP Reimbursements, OIG target areas, ABN form updates, Medicare MSP Standards and much more.

Fed governor on community bank regulation

In a speech touching on many aspects of community bank rules, Federal Reserve Board Governor Daniel Tarullo told attendees at the Washington Policy Summit of the Independent Community Bankers of America that:

"I want to reiterate my view that a few Dodd-Frank Act provisions might usefully be amended to exclude community banks entirely from their coverage. As I have said before, the concerns addressed by provisions such as the Volcker rule and the incentive compensation requirements of section 956 are substantially greater at larger institutions. In the unusual case in which a small bank is engaged in proprietary trading that could pose a risk to the deposit insurance fund or has in place a compensation system that incentivizes excessive risk, the supervisory process would remain available to address these risks.

"I recognize that statutory revisions of this sort would not be a major reduction in compliance burden. But they would reflect the fact that, absent a change in this regard, community banks must expend scarce compliance resources to conform to the requirements of such regulations." [Emphasis added.] Read the speech

Trump Raps Clinton For Shifting TPP Position

Monday's presidential debate saw Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump exchange blows over the proper direction of the nation's trade policy, with the real estate mogul doubling down on his protectionist strategy and criticizing the former secretary of state for shifting positions on the Trans-Pacific Partnership.

Obama's Climate Legacy At Stake In DC Circ. CPP Showdown

After months of court filings and surprising pretrial rulings, an en banc D.C. Circuit on Tuesday will finally hear oral arguments in the biggest environmental and energy case in years: a massive challenge to the legality of the Clean Power Plan.

Tougher EB-5 Rules Could Follow Election Season Gridlock

A Friday expiration date for the EB-5 immigrant investor program and upcoming elections mean lawmakers will likely act further down the road to toughen the troubled program's standards for qualifying projects and prevent abuses, but doing so will mean overcoming stark regional differences and other hurdles, experts say.

Report Suggests Paths To High Court Broadcasts, Term Limits

A group that wants the U.S. Supreme Court to adopt mandatory retirement ages or term limits and to begin broadcasting oral arguments says crisis, politics and closely watched cases have paved the way for those practices in some of the countries that have already implemented them and that the U.S. has ways to follow suit.

House Passes Cybersecurity, Transit, Food Security Bills

The House of Representatives passed bills Monday meant to tweak various parts of the country's security apparatus, ranging from the Department of Homeland Security's responsibilities for food and election security, to the amount of time that transit agencies can use grant money for security upgrades.

Fed's Stress Test Relief Unlikely To Stave Off Challenge

While the Federal Reserve's top regulatory official outlined plans Monday to make annual stress tests more predictable for regional banks, he said the Fed would hold firm in its refusal to give the biggest banks a peek at the testing process, even amid rumors of a potential legal challenge.

New Emergency Alert Upgrades Could Aid Law Enforcement

The Federal Communications Commission is set to modernize the wireless emergency alert system in a vote Thursday that experts say is likely to tee up new capabilities such as adding hyperlinks to photos, which New York officials say would have aided their search for a bombing suspect last week.

A Look At Trump's Labor Positions As The Election Nears

While Donald Trump hasn't always been clear about his position on labor and employment issues, perhaps the Republican nominee's evolving positions are starting to take shape as the presidential race enters the final stretch. Here, Law360 looks at where Trump appears to stand on key labor and employment issues.

Lawyer Lineup For Clean Power Plan Oral Arguments

When oral arguments over the legality of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Clean Power Plan take place at the D.C. Circuit on Tuesday, no fewer than 16 attorneys representing federal and state governments as well as industry giants will battle to determine the fate of the Obama administration's signature climate change rule slashing carbon emissions from existing power plants.

Bureau of Indian Affairs
Bureau of Land Management
California Department of Transportation
Central Command

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has refused to back down from its push to regulate substances that don't deplete atmospheric ozone under its refrigerant management program, announcing Monday that it is moving forward with a final rule despite commenters who argued the agency had no such authority.

Gov. To Change Fla. Pollution Notifications After Spill, Leak

In response to outcry over the handling of a recent sewage spill in St. Petersburg and a massive leak of radioactive wastewater at a phosphorous plant, Florida Gov. Rick Scott on Monday announced steps to update public notification requirements for pollution incidents.

Challenge To 9-Year Del. Unclaimed Property Audit Tossed

A Delaware federal judge dismissed Marathon Petroleum Corp.'s challenge to a law that allowed the state to embark on a nine-year audit in search of abandoned property to seize, saying on Friday that the gas station operator had not raised a valid argument.

AEROSPACE & DEFENSE

Trump Faults Clinton For Rise Of ISIS In National Security Fight

Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump argued Monday that he would be the better choice to defeat the Islamic State terror group, indirectly blaming Democratic nominee Hillary Clinton for its rise, as she argued that he lacked the necessary temperament to be commander-in-chief.

HEALTH & LIFE SCIENCES

HHS Health Info Protection Rules, Oversight Are Lacking: GAO

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services needs to improve its security and privacy guidance and oversight, the U.S. Government Accountability Office said in a report released Monday, saying the steps the agency has taken to protect health information don't go far enough.

7th Circ. Orders Ill. To Help Find Nurses For Sick Kids

The Seventh Circuit on Friday ordered the state of Illinois to do something to help chronically ill children seeking in-home nursing care, saying Medicaid required the state to not only pay for the services but also to help locate them.

TRANSPORTATION & INFRASTRUCTURE

GWB Scandal Architect Says Plot Targeted 1st Day Of School

The architect behind the George Washington Bridge lane closures testified Monday at the trial of two former public officials that they took part in a political payback scheme against a mayor, saying the group sought to increase traffic woes by closing the lanes on the first day of classes at local schools.

US DOT Awards $5M To Boost Transit Service On Tribal Lands

The U.S. Department of Transportation said Monday it has awarded $5 million to help Native American and Alaska Native communities boost transit service on tribal lands, under increased funding provided by last year's Fixing America's Surface Transportation Act.

Billboard Co. Can't Knock Down Calif. Freeway Sign Rules

A California judge Monday tentatively denied billboard company Lamar's bid for a quick win on claims that California Department of Transportation regulations on highway-facing signs are unconstitutional, citing a state appeals court's recent affirmation of Los Angeles' billboard moratorium to say the more lax freeway rules are also constitutional.

A plan for a $125 million expansion of a museum in Buffalo, New York, is moving ahead thanks in part to an injection of $10 million in state funds as well as a whopping $42.5 million private donation, according to an announcement on Friday from New York Democratic Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo.

EMPLOYMENT

NJ Sens. Seek To Ban Employers' Use Of Salary History

A pair of New Jersey state senators have introduced legislation that would prevent employers from asking job applicants about their salary history and from relying on that information to determine potential wages at any stage during the hiring process, Senate Democrats announced Monday.

Staffer Sues Ex-Pa. AG Kane Over 'Retaliatory' Demotion

The latest in a string of employment lawsuits against the Pennsylvania Attorney General's office was launched last week as a former regional operations supervisor claimed that he faced age discrimination and was ultimately demoted for intervening on behalf of a staffer who successfully fought off a disciplinary challenge.

PRIVACY & CONSUMER PROTECTION

Clinton, Trump Pledge Hard Line On Fighting Cyberattacks

Presidential candidates Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump on Monday vowed to combat cyberattacks that have plagued private companies and the federal government in recent years, with Clinton demanding action be taken against suspected state hackers like Russia and Trump pushing for the U.S. to regain control of the internet.

Calif. Gov. Signs Privacy Bill Shielding Actors' Ages

Under a measure signed by California Gov. Jerry Brown on Saturday, actors and other industry professionals can scrub their ages from online entertainment employment service provider sites such as IMDb.com Pro, marking a victory for the union that backed the proposal.

Feds Again Seek Clarity On Gender Guidelines Injunction

The U.S. government on Friday again defended its request that a federal judge offer clarification on his block of federal guidance that public schoolchildren be allowed to use the bathroom matching their gender identity, arguing that states challenging the directive, led by Texas, are trying to apply the ruling too broadly.

Trump Touts Tariffs, Clinton Talks Wages To Shore Up US Jobs

Employment was at the forefront in the opening stages of Monday's highly anticipated presidential debate, where Hillary Clinton spoke about her plans to help workers and Donald Trump emphasized the need to keep jobs in the U.S.

NY Judge Seems Open To New Path In Immigration Block Case

A New York federal judge has indicated a willingness to break from a Texas court on Thursday in a case seeking to exempt certain New York residents from the block against the president's executive actions on immigration, saying he had "no intention" of "marching behind in the parade," according to a transcript.

NATIVE AMERICAN

Obama Inks Bill Supporting Native American Tourism

President Barack Obama signed legislation on Friday that will require federal agencies to give more support to Native American tourism through existing federal programs and aid native groups working to build their own tourism infrastructure.

BIA Says Taking Over Reservation Programs Makes Suit Moot

The Bureau of Indian Affairs told a Montana federal court on Friday that the agency's decision to take back control of programs that were jointly administered by the tribes on Wyoming's Wind River Reservation means a lawsuit accusing agency officials of improperly awarding the contracts to one of the tribes is now moot.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Looking Ahead: Emerging Labor And Employment Law Trends

With summer 2016 well behind us, employers should begin to plan for the major labor and employment law trends expected to emerge in the final quarter of the year and into 2017. From the looming overtime regulations to equal pay legislation and class action waivers, Joel Barras and Mark Goldstein of Reed Smith LLP dissect several of the developing trends in this arena.

Tribal Consultation Opportunity Could Change US Landscape

The U.S. Department of Interior, U.S. Department of Justice and U.S. Department of the Army have released a joint statement halting construction on the Dakota Access Pipeline and inviting tribes to discuss whether new legislation should be proposed in order to better protect tribal rights. Lael Echo-Hawk of Hobbs Straus Dean 7 Walker LLP discusses the steps tribes should take in order to make the most of this opportunity.

EPA Offers Insights For Retailer Waste Management

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency recently published what it has termed a strategy for dealing with the management of hazardous wastes in the retail sector. Although the devil is in the details, the plan is potentially a promising step by the agency to provide the regulated community with greater clarity regarding its obligations in this complicated and confusing area, says Joseph Kakesh of Wiley Rein LLP.

Why not consider partnership?

Former PayPal executive Dan Schatt, in his Virtual Banking: A Guide To Innovation and Partnering, says: "The new age of partnering and innovation in the financial services arena is filled with brilliant shades of gray. The media would have you believe that any new up-and-comer in the financial services space is a disrupter to banks. I look at the media reports, and then at the 500+ partnerships we struck at PayPal in my tenure, and I just shake my head. There are really very few pure competitors in the financial services arena."

Schatt will speak and moderate a panel at the Banking Exchange InnoBank 2015 event.

Understanding metrics of social media

Social media, especially to the uninitiated, can seem like its own world. That makes the metrics used to determine how effective it is that much more esoteric. Unmetric has issued a helpful free guide, 29 Must-Know Terms For Every Social Media Analyst (and the people who work with them). Here's one example:

"Vanity Metrics: So defined because without context, they don't help a brand with its business objectives or measure ROI. However, vanity metrics are easy to grasp and provide good headlines. …" Read more

Costco Cash Rewards Program Terms:
Your Costco Anywhere Visa® Card by Citi and/or Costco Anywhere Visa Business Card by Citi account ("Card Account") will earn Costco Cash Rewards based on your purchases that can be redeemed for merchandise or cash back at any U.S. Costco warehouse, including Puerto Rico ("Costco Cash Rewards").

Earning Costco Cash Rewards on Purchases: You'll earn Costco Cash Rewards for purchases using your Card Account, minus returns and refunds, as follows:

- 4% cash back on eligible gas worldwide, including gas at Costco, for the first $7,000 per year in gas purchases and then 1% thereafter.
- Certain Non-Qualifying Purchases. You will only earn 1% cash back, not 4%, for gas purchased at superstores, supermarkets, convenience stores and warehouse clubs other than Costco or for fuel used for non-automobile purposes.
- 3% cash back on restaurant (including cafes, bars, lounges and fast food restaurants) and eligible travel purchases worldwide, including airfare, hotels, car rentals, travel agencies, cruise lines and Costco Travel.
- Certain Non-Qualifying Purchases. You will only earn 1%, not 3%, for purchases made at bakeries and certain restaurants/cafes inside department stores, grocery or warehouse clubs.
- 2% cash back on all other purchases from Costco and Costco.com.
- 1% cash back on all other purchases, including the non-qualifying purchases listed above.

Merchant Classification: Each merchant - that is a retailer, business or any other place where you can make a purchase - is assigned a code that indicates the merchant's area of business. For example, restaurants are generally assigned a specific merchant code. We don't assign or have any control over merchant codes. Codes are chosen and assigned by a third party, who may change the codes from time to time. When you make a purchase at a merchant, we're provided the code for that merchant. If the code matches a category that gives you additional Costco Cash Rewards - for example, if the merchant code tells us that you made a purchase at a restaurant - we'll give you the additional Costco Cash Rewards for that purchase. Because we don't control what code a merchant is assigned, sometimes a purchase that you think fits a certain category may not earn additional Costco Cash Rewards. For example, a restaurant located within a large retail outlet may not be assigned a "restaurant" code, but rather a "retailer" code. This means that even though you receive additional Costco Cash Rewards for purchases at "restaurants," you won't earn additional Costco Cash Rewards for purchases at that restaurant.

What doesn't qualify as a purchase?: The following types of transactions don't qualify as purchases that earn Costco Cash Rewards:

- Use of checks that access your Card Account
- Balance transfers
- Cash advances
- Travelers checks, foreign currency purchases, money orders, wire transfers and similar cash-like transactions
- Lottery tickets, gaming chips and similar betting transactions
- Interest and account fees
- Unauthorized charges
- Items returned for credit

Returns: Returned items may result in credits being applied to your Card Account which will reduce or may eliminate accumulated Costco Cash Rewards and may result in a negative cash rewards balance. If your Card Account has a negative Costco Cash Rewards balance, any newly earned Costco Cash Rewards will be used to offset such negative Costco Cash Rewards balance until such balance has been brought to zero.

Redeeming Costco Cash Rewards: Your reward is distributed annually, in the form of a credit card reward certificate, once your February billing statement closes, and is redeemable through December 31 of the year issued in a single transaction at any U.S. Costco warehouse, including in Puerto Rico, for merchandise or cash back. The credit card reward certificate will contain your Costco Cash Rewards balance based on your eligible purchases during the annual reward period. The annual reward period is based on January through December billing statements. Should you choose to redeem only a portion of the certificate for merchandise, you will receive the remaining balance in cash at the Costco warehouse register upon checkout. Some warehouses may not permit the credit card reward certificate to be redeemed for alcohol purchases. Requests for cash may be fulfilled in the form of a check at Costco’s discretion. Your credit card reward certificate must be redeemed in person on or prior to its expiration date of December 31 in the year in which it is issued. Any Costco Cash Rewards you have earned on purchases made by authorized users on your Card Account will be added to your Costco Cash Rewards total. Only you, the primary cardmember, are eligible to receive the annual credit card reward certificate; however, you or anyone you authorize may redeem the certificate. You will not receive a credit card reward certificate if your reward is less than $1 or your account is closed at the time your credit card reward certificate is scheduled to be sent; any Costco Cash Rewards that had been accrued at that time will be forfeited. You must maintain your Costco Membership to redeem your credit card reward certificate.

Account Closure: If we close your Card Account, you will no longer be able to earn Costco Cash Rewards, and you will forfeit any Costco Cash Rewards accumulated, but not yet distributed. If you close or convert your Card Account prior to receiving the credit card reward certificate in your February billing statement, any earned Costco Cash Rewards will be forfeited.

Forfeiture: All Costco Cash Rewards not disbursed via an annual credit card reward certificate due to the reward amount being less than $1, the account status (including account closure), or other reasons, will be forfeited. Additionally, any Costco Cash Rewards not redeemed by December 31 of the year of issuance of the credit card reward certificate will be forfeited.
Value of Costco Cash Rewards: Costco Cash Rewards have no cash value until such time as they are redeemed at a Costco warehouse.

Property Rights: You have no property rights or other legal interests in Costco Cash Rewards. Costco Cash Rewards may not be transferred to any other person including through such events as inheritance, bankruptcy or divorce. Costco Cash Rewards cannot be assigned or pledged.

Changes to Program Rules: We may make changes to the Costco Cash Rewards Program at any time without notice. We will give you 30 days' written notice if we make any of the following changes: a change that negatively affects the number of Costco Cash Rewards you can earn, a change that negatively affects how/when you may lose your Costco Cash Rewards, a change that negatively affects how you can exercise your rights with respect to Costco Cash Rewards, or if we cancel the program.

Fraud: If we see evidence of fraud, misuse, abuse, or suspicious activity, we will investigate and, if we determine that fraud, misuse or abuse has occurred, we may take actions against you. These actions may include, without limitation:

- Taking away the Costco Cash Rewards you earned because of fraud, misuse or abuse

- Preventing you from earning Costco Cash Rewards
- Suspending or closing your Costco Cash Rewards Account
- Taking legal action to recover Costco Cash Rewards redeemed because of such activity and to recover our monetary losses, including litigation costs and damages

Some examples of fraud, misuse, abuse and suspicious activity include:

- Using your Card Account in an abusive manner for the primary purpose of acquiring Costco Cash Rewards
- Using your Consumer Card Account other than primarily for personal, consumer or household purposes
- Using your Business Card Account other than for business or commercial purposes

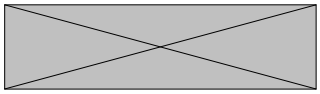
Webinar - Protecting Vulnerable Populations from Identity Fraud: Today and Tomorrow - Register Now >

Join Banking Exchange and LifeLock on November 19 at 2:00 pm EST | 11:00 am PST for the webinar Protecting Vulnerable Populations from Identity Fraud: Today and Tomorrow.

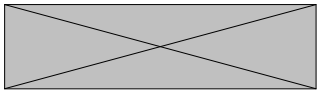
Identity fraud affected almost 13 million Americans last year, yet not all Americans are affected equally. In a recent research study sponsored by LifeLock, Javelin explored the impact of identity fraud on students, seniors and military personnel and how fraudsters are using different techniques to attack these vulnerable populations. Each of these consumer segments has a different set of behaviors that cause them to be targets of account fraud. Register for this complimentary webinar >

This webinar will examine:

- What behaviors and activities place students, military and seniors at higher risk of identity fraud
- The outlook for fraud targets over the next few years and how it will impact these consumer segments
- Strategies for how banks can help protect customers and employees



This webinar is brought to you by:



Date: Thursday, November 19, 2015

Time: 2:00 pm EST | 11:00 am PST
